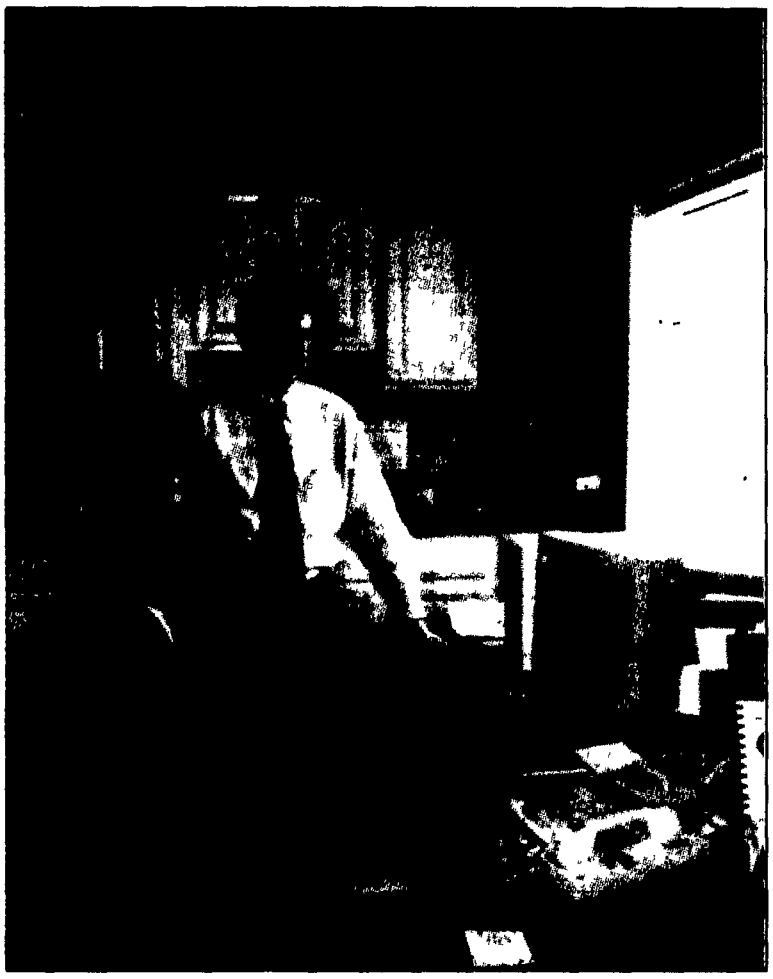
Lancaster Farming

Vol. 42 No. 49 | Five Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, October 11, 1997 | $28.50 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy



Mike Brubaker, seated, discusses the computerized farming operation with Dr. Robert Steele, new dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Dean Steele Tours In Lancaster, Cumberland Counties

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — In an effort to continue the welcome of Dr. Robert Steele, the new dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, the Penn State Agricultural Council arranged an orientation tour of farms and agribusinesses in Lancaster and Cumberland Counties.

Starting Wednesday morning, Dr. Steele visited the 800-acre dairy, broiler, and hog farms of Luke Brubaker and sons Mike and Tony, located near Mount Joy. The Brubakers have used the resources available from Penn State to develop economies of scale in their dairy operation that has gone from 200 cows milked on two farms to the present 450 cows milked at a central location. The new facilites feature a modern milking parlor, free-stall housing, and a alley-scrape gravity system with a one million gallon manure tank that provides four to five months storage.

Ag Secretary Approves First Nutrient Plan

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Pennsylvania is now officially the nation's leader in nutrient management.

On Thursday on a 445-acre beef finishing and pleasure horse boarding farm near Leola, state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes Jr. signed and authorized the state's first official nutrient management plan.

During the public event at Greystone Manor Farms, located along Rt.272, Ag Secretary Hayes signed the nutrient management plan on behalf of the state Conservation Commission, of which Hayes is chairman.

The event is significant because it marks the culmination of more than a decade of effort by many people to establish and implement a state-wide nutrient management law.

While the state's nutrient management law went into effect in 1993, the regulations took some

KILE Draws 4,000 Head Of Livestock

As the 41st Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) ended its six-day run on Monday, 4,000 head of livestock had passed under the careful eye of the judges. Many exhibitors captured a substantial share of the $130,000 in premiums. In the hog barrow show one family from Ephrata did well. Sarah Boyd (in the photo with Judge Merrill Smith), shows the junior show over-all barrow grand champion. Sarah's Uncle Rick Strauss showed the open show overall barrow grand champion, and her brother Gerald showed the grand champion crossbred junior barrow. Sarah and Gerald are children of Deb and Kerry Boyd. More hog show results can be found starting on page A26. And extensive coverage of other KILE events will be found throughout this issue and will be continued next week.

Corn Talk Section This Week

The Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association have their regularly scheduled news letter as a section in this issue of Lancaster Farming. This newsletter is published three times per year and includes an interview with Chris Kimmel, the new association president. In addition, you will find the latest in research information, news of upcoming events related to corn growers and messages from our advertisers. The lead-in photo above, is a corn harvesting scene in Lancaster County and was taken on the John S. Nolt farm north of New Holland. Clarence Hoover is running the harvester to fill silos. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were mixed, mostly lower for the day. Slow export demand over the past few days and continued higher corn and bean bids, weighed on wheat. Corn and soybean bids moved higher for the fifth consecutive day with sharp gains the past couple of days. Slow farmer selling of new crop corn and beans in hopes of higher bids, supported the corn and bean markets. Gains were limited, however, due to continued har- vest pressure and lack of fresh export news. Wheat mixed, mostly 1 to 4 cents lower. Corn 2 to 7 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 5 cents higher. Soybeans 3 to 5 cents higher.

PRO-LIX LIQUID-FEED

With the High Costs of Dry Feeds... Look to Liquids... LOOK to PRO-LIX...

- In the dairy business, income over feed cost is the name of the game. Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements offer dairymen the means to maximize this value while getting the most from their cow's natural abilities
- Pro-Lix liquid feed supplements are concentrated sources of just what ordinary feeds lack protein, energy, vitamins, minerals -- everything animals need for economical milk production and growth
- For replacement heifers, Pro-Lix means faster maturity and assurance that they'll get to the milking herd on time If you trust your heifers to forage alone, they might not make it.
- For lactating cows, the nitrogen content of Pro-Lix means plenty of protein available for milk production and growth.
- Finally, for dry cows, Pro-Lix not only helps maintain their health during the dry period it prepares them for the next lactation The Ca P ration in Pro-Lix helps control milk fever, while the Vitamin E and selenium aids in clean-up after the birth of a calf
- Best of all, Pro-Lix works with all types of pasture grass or forage, as a free-choice supplement, a top-dressing, or a ration mix

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Oct 8, 1997

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers steady to 3.00 lower, least decline on 700-800 lbs. Feeder heifers 2.00-3.00 lower. Steer calves 3.00-6.00 lower. Heifer calves 2.00-5.00 lower. Demand moderate for steers, light for heifers and all calves. Quality of supply plain, few average to attractive. Weigh-ups full to mostly average. Calves in moderate to fleshy condition. Calf market in usual October doldrums as turnout to wheat/rye pastures a month away and calves in need of conditioning prior to turnout. Feeder cattle in medium flesh. Large placements in August and September left little space in feedlots. A sluggish beef market has kept packer interest minimal creating slow movement out of feedlots the last couple of weeks. Slaughter cows steady to 1.00 higher. Slaughter bulls steady. Packer demand moderate. Country cow buyers remain aggressive on thin cows for feedlots and stalks. Total of 650 cows and bulls sold with 65 percent going to packers. Receipts this week 10,350; last week 10,321; last year 12,152. Supply consisted of 55 percent yearlings and few calves over 600 lbs, 38 percent calves under 600 lbs; 7 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

COLUMBUS DAY, OCTOBER 13.

FULL HUNTER'S MOON

At mid-month, on October 15, shines the Full Hunter's Moon, which always follows autumn's Harvest Moon. In pioneer days, after the vegetables were stored for the winter, it was time to go farther afield looking for wild game. Deer were fattening, and Indians and farmers sought a store of good venison for the cold winter days to come. Unlike the buffalo or the antelope, the white-tailed deer is estimated to be roughly as numerous today as it was when white men joined the Native Americans on this continent.

What of October, that ambiguous month, the month of tension, the unendurable month?

– Doris Lessing, Martha Quest

TIP OF THE WEEK

VENISON POT ROAST

2 pounds venison, either shoulder, rump, or neck (the less tender cuts) flour for dredging
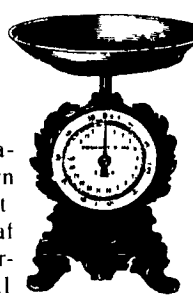
salt and pepper, to taste
1/2 cup water
1 bay leaf

Roll the meat in seasoned flour and brown in a heavy iron pot. Add water and bay leaf and cover tightly, simmering over low heat until meat is tender, from 2 to 3 hours, depending on the cut. Add vegetables, such as turnips, onions, or carrots, during the last half hour.



Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A southerly wind and a cloudy sky proclaim a hunting morning.

No rain on St. Gallus Day (Oct. 16), a dry spring will come.

Full Moon in October without a frost, no frost till full Moon in November.

On St. Luke's Day (Oct. 18) the oxen have leave to play.

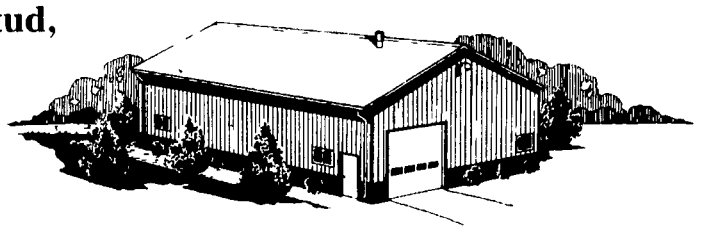
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost And call your Telmark representative

OPINION

4-H: The Program Of Opportunity

For many years we have believed and acted on the premise that youth are motivated to participate in programs which encourage them to be involved in the decision-making process. Now growing evidence substantiates this belief.

The early pioneers in youth development were intuitive enough to include community service as an integral part of the 4-H program. Hence, "I pledge my hands to larger service, for my club, my comunity, my country, and my world."

Another principle of equal importance is the emphasis 4-H places on experiential learning, the "learn by doing" found in the 4-H slogan. Over the years those involved in 4-H youth development have found the experiential learning process to be the most effective teaching method for increasing both understanding and application of new knowledge, skills and attitudes.

This week we again celebrate National 4-H week. The 4-H program continues to move with the times by addressing the changing issues and diverse backgrounds of today's youth. Today, fifty-two percent of 4-H youth live in towns and cities. Twenty-six percent are minorities. 4-H is flexible and localized, allowing it to respond to the needs of local youth.

4-H is successful because it focuses on youth needs and their issues and utilizes volunteer support. More than half a million caring adults mentor young people in the 4-H program.

To the 1,487,610 youth who are members of 70,176 4-H clubs across America, we say, "Make the best use of your opportunities in your 4-H program. To the adult leaders we say, "Keep up the good work." The value of the time invested in the 4-H program can only be measured by the many adults in leadership positions who credit their maturing process to the the 4-H program.

Truly, 4-H is the program of opportunity.

Now Is The Time

To Practice Nutrient Management

On October 1, 1997 the Pennsylvania Nutrient Management Law became effective All farms with two or more animal units per acre (2,000 pounds or more of animals per day per acre) are required to have an approved nutrient management plan. Farms with less than two animal units per acre are encouraged to develop voluntary plans Farms needing plans have one year to develop the plan and three years to implement the best management practices identified in the plan. Plans need to be up dated every three years unless a major change in acres or animals occurs sooner. The regulations specify restrictions on when and where manure may be spread.

The regulations also supersede township ordinances and offers some liability protection. All farmers are encouraged to develop nutrient management plans. The number of voluntary plans develop will have a large influence on future regulations and who must comply Fôr more information on nutrient management contact your county conservation district office or Penn State Cooperative Extension Office

To Dispose of Plastic Correctly

Jeffrey Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County School District Adult Farmer Program, reminds us that local township officials are getting pressure to ban open burning and dumping of plastic Large plastic fires are an especially big concern. To avoid this issue, farmers are encouraged to take their plastic to the county incinerator The county incinerator burns the plastic at 1800 degrees which burn much cleaner than must open fires. In addition, the smoke at the incinerator goes through a series of scrubbers which remove more of the pollutants from the smoke Smoke from open plastic fires emit arsenic, lead, cadmium and mercury, all of which may cause health problems. Neighbors are becoming more concern about the smoke that comes their way. Every Monday in November at the Leola Produce Auction from 9:00 am to Noon, they will be accepting plastic. The plastic must be rolled, bagged, baled or cut into pieces not longer than 10 feet. Since there will be a per ton charge to handle the plastic, farmers are encouraged to have the plastic as dry and clean as possible For more information and details, contact Jeffrey Stoltzfus at 717-354-1522.

To Plant Winter Cover Crops

According to Leon Ressler, Lancaster County Agricultural Environmental Agent, many farmers need to empty their manure storage units during the fall season. This means these crop nutrients are applied to cropland at a time of year when they are not needed by a growing crop. Therefore these nutrients are vulnerable to being lost to the environment due to soil erosion and leaching. Winter cover crops are a valuable tool farmers may use to prevent this economic loss of valuable nutrients and prevent environmental damage. If you are applying manure to crop land this fall, plan on planting a small grain cover crop such as rye. The rye will take up the available nitrogen and hold it in the plant and preventing its loss to the water supply. If the rye is harvested, the nutrients will be utilized as high quality feed If the rye is killed or plowed down in the spring, the nutrients will become available to the following crop. The rye will also prevent nutrient loss by slowing soil erosion. Rye may be planted as late as November. The earlier it is planted, the more nutrients it will take up and the more it will yield in the spring.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Be too big for worry and too noble for anger."

IN WHOSE HANDS ARE YOU?

October 12, 1997

Background Scripture:
Daniel 3

Devotional Reading:
Psalms 27 7-14

"And they all lived happily ever after."

Chapter one of the Book of Daniel left us under the impression that Daniel and his three friends could look forward to that kind of future But then we come to Daniel 3 and the whole picture has changed once again

Just when we had assumed that Daniel had won the King's permission to practice their faith without prohibition, Nebuchadnezzar puts their faith to a new trial Everyone in his kingdom, he decrees, must fall down and worship a monstrous gold statue he has had erected Whether the statue is of himself or of a god, we do not know, but Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego realize that once again they are being commanded to adulterate their faith in God To worship this idol or whomever it stands for is a blatant denial of their commitment to the Lord

First of all, let us recognize in their situation a lesson all of us have to learn no earthly victory is ever permanent. The victory they had won in Daniel 1 did not last long So it is with us, too Many of us go through life thinking that if only this or that were to happen, life would be happy and wonderful

During World War II many of us prayed with the expectation that victory would solve all the world's problems. Well, we won the war but immediately slid into 40 some years of conflict with Communism Many of us then prayed for the demise of Communism If only we could free the world of Communism . So Communism fell, but the world is much the same as before.

NO GUARANTEE

So, not long after the victory of chapter one comes the new crisis of chapter three—just as in our lives, too

Once again, then, the faith of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego is challenged (Where's Daniel in all this? The writer of Daniel is mysteriously silent about Daniel in this matter) We must admire their faith They had no guarantee that God would save them as he had in the first crisis He had not told them that, if they remained faithful to him, he would get them out of this trap

Responding to the King's thundering threats, they say, "Our God is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king But if not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the golden image which you have set up" (3 17,18) Their loyal refusal to worship the golden image was not based on the expectation that God would save them from the consequences That God could save them, they had no doubt, that he would save, they did not know—and it would not matter

DELIVERANCE

We know now what they could not know that God would save them from the fiery furnace But we also know that, of the millions of people who have been challenged to give up their faith at the pain of death, the overwhelming majority of them have not been delivered from the consequences of their faith Our God can save us But we cannot be certain that he will The only guarantee that we get from him is that he will be with us when we suffer for his sake Even if that suffering ends in death

Isn't this what the cross teaches us? We are called to remain faithful to him in any crisis, not because we are assured that he will save us from paying the consequences, but that he will be with us in the midst of those consequences and that he will make us victorious in a way that no escape in the 'nick of time' can

"Who is the god that will deliver you out of my hands," the king taunts the three Jews. What he didn't realize is that because of their faith in God they were never in his hands.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

HOUSING

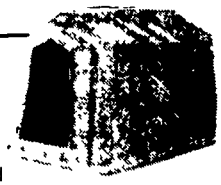
HERCULITE Heavy Duty Dairy & Poultry Curtains

Dairy experts, engineers and veterinarians agree - the best dairy barn is a naturally ventilated barn.

Herculite curtain systems offer state of the art, adjustable dairy sidewalls Even when closed, the curtains allow for natural light and provide a snug environment for your herd Cows produce more milk in a light environment and dairy workers prefer natural light conditions

CALF HUTCHES by Calf-Tel™
RH & LH Access



Our Deluxe model features a new, extra tall offset entry door opposite a right or left side feed access floor Lets you group hutches side-by-side for easy feeding and service Comes with two large pails, inside pail holder and eyebolts for lifting Rainproof ridge-top ventilators keeps calves dry and comfortable

Donough Champion, Groff Reserve At Manheim Steer Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A lot of adjectives can be used to describe Manheim Farm Show's supreme champion steer: "stylish," "well-balanced," and "eye-appealing."

The judge, an Angus breeder from Dover, used all of them to describe a 1,277-pound FFA champion steer, "Lonestar," shown by Travis Donough.

JoAnn Hausner, who works for the state ag department's Farm Show bureau and is an Angus exhibitor with JDH Cattle Company, chose the medium weight champion shown by Travis, 17, son of Ed and LaRue Donough, Manheim, for supreme champion Tuesday evening.

For Travis, the steer is one of three champions he has exhibited so far at the Manheim Farm Show.

Travis showed a Maine Anjou/Angus crossbred steer he obtained from Scott Hummel, Selinsgrove. Travis, a senior at Manheim Central High School, is Manheim FFA student adviser and county sentinel. He said that he spends about an hour and a half preparing the steer and works with it about 3-4 nights per week.

He also walks the steer as much as possible, he noted — up to about a quarter mile a night. Why all the work? Simple, he said. The exercise helps to tame them and, he said, to "try to calm them down."

Travis noted that Lonestar "is really hyper — he really pays attention to everything." The FFA member said that "baldies" like Lonestar "are a little more wild, in my opinion."

Ryan, 17, is the son of Richard and Rachel Groff, Manheim. The Manheim Central High School senior and Manheim FFA vice president obtained the steer from J.L.B. Limousin, Adams County.

Ryan, a member of the Lancaster County Beef Club along with fellow Manheim senior Travis Donough, said he believes he is working up to supreme championship at Manheim. Ryan noted that two years ago he showed the reserve champion FFA, then last year he exhibited the champion FFA steer at the show. This year he was reserve overall.

Ryan spends a good deal of time grooming the steer, including time the past weekends getting the steer ready. "The hair (on the steer) got all nice," he said, trying to work on the animal when he has time. Ryan said the steer was fed a mix that included flaked corn (which he said worked really good to improve muscling) along with a 30 percent protein.

There were 24 exhibitors and 25 steers at the show. Following is a list of placings.

Pollyanna Wins Again At Manheim

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Penn-Har-Va Pollyanna-ET, the beautiful four year-old cow owned by the Lowell Brubaker family, Manheim, was the grand champion of the Manheim Farm Show Holstein show Thursday. The win was a repeat Pollyanna's championship win at Ephrata Fair.

The reserve grand champion of the open show was Donegal Creek Kevin Paula, the nice junior two year-old for the Joe Wivell family, Columbia.

Heather Brubaker had the grand champion Holstein of the junior division that went on the be the supreme champion of the farm show. The supreme champion award was only offered to the junior show winners. She also had the junior champion of both the open and junior division.

Joe Wivell had the reserve junior champion of the open show, and Justin Wivell had the reserve junior champion of the junior division.

James Findley had the grand champion of the Ayrshire show with Lace Acres Omrade Janet that was also champion of the junior division. He also had all the other champions with his brother Ken Findley.

Blake Brubaker and Amie Shelley also had entries listed in the show. Alan Hostetter, Lebanon County dairyman, was the judge.

Berks Conservancy Developers/Creative Farm Preservation Plan

WYOMISSING (Berks Co.) — On October 2, 1997, the Berks County Conservancy was notified by the Pennsylvania State Farmland Preservation Board at their regular October meeting in Harrisburg that reimbursement from the State and the Berks County Agricultural Land Preservation program will be granted for the Conservancy's easement purchase and interest costs of the 121 acre Eyrich/Kratzer Farm in Oley Township. Samuel E. Hayes, Jr. the Secretary of Agriculture, called this endeavor a "first of its kind project" and a "great day for Farmland Preservation." This project is the first time that a private individual, in this case a "friend of the Conservancy," provided the funds that protected a Pennsylvania farm.

In January of 1996, the Conservancy was contacted to help facilitate the protection and sale of the farm. Mrs. Eyrich was willing to sell her farm at the agricultural value to a farmer if she could first sell the agricultural conservation easement protecting the farm. Based on evaluation of the land, the Conservancy felt the possibilities for reimbursement by the County program were excellent. But because the farm faced imminent threat of nonagricultural development, the project could not endure the usual six months to two years for the County program to purchase the easement.

On April 9, 1996, the Conservancy, working in cooperation with the Berks County Agricultural Land Preservation Easement Program, preacquired an agricultural easement on the Eyrich Farm with the help of a "friend of the Conservancy" who loaned the Conservancy the easement acquisition funds and donated the interest costs paid in 1996 for financing the loan. Immediately after selling this easement to the Conservancy, Mrs. Eyrich then sold the permanently protected farm to the Kratzer Family, an Oley Township dairy farm family.

The Berks County Conservancy is hopeful that this project will provide a successful model for future non-profit land conservation organization preacquisition projects and also demonstrate how one private individual willing to participate in the Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation Program can save a farm.

Day Clinches Market Lamb Title At New Holland

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "Miles," a heavyweight Suffolk crossbred, clinched championship titles at both Denver and Ephrata Fairs recently. But the big question was throughout the season: could Miles capture the champion market lamb title in the hometown of owner Rachel Day?

On Wednesday evening, Miles proved that his 132-pound powerfully muscled frame could outclass the best at the New Holland Fair Sheep and Lamb Show.

"I'm surprised. I knew there were a lot other good ones in the ring," 15-year-old Rachel said as she clutched the trophy.

In order to keep Miles from adding too much weight to his frame, Rachel fed him oats and exercised him.

The daughter of Cliff and Anna Day, Rachel is a sophomore at Garden Spot High School. Not only did she clinch the champion market lamb title but she also placed first in showmanship for first-year competitors.

Heather's Suffolk-Dorset crossbred is one of nine head purchased from a western breeder. Nicknamed Jake, the reserve champion weighed 124 pounds. Heather said the sheep are walked about half a mile daily. The daughter of Dean and Carole Ziegler of Lititz, Heather is a fourth grader at Manheim Christian Day School.

She admitted that she owes much to the assistance of her older brothers' Corby and Brandon, who consistently win market lamb titles at New Holland, Manheim, and Elizabethtown. In fact, later Wednesday evening, her brother Corby showed both champion and reserve champion in the non-sale lamb division. It was the first year New Holland Fair offered a non-sale division.

Corby showed similar lambs, Bucky and Chewy, to his sister's market lamb champions. The non-sale lambs will be entered at Manheim Farm Show next week.

Out of the 115 head competing at New Holland, Travis Werley, judge, named the 90-pound market lamb lightweight champion, and Holly Hoover's 100-pound lamb, reserve.

In breeding sheep competition, Jen Zimmerman, Ephrata, showed a Southdown ewe to take the grand champion breeding sheep title over

Stauffer's of Kissel Hill purchased both champion lambs. The grand chamion shown by Rachel Day sold for $5.50 per pound. And the reserve grand champion shown by Heather Ziegler sold for $3.00 per pound.

Both sales had good support down the line and projects other than the grand champions also sold well.

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

OLIN (North Carolina) — Frustrated and "fed-up" with the current level of farm milk prices, a handful of dairy producers in the Southeast have developed a proposal that would establish a voluntary, industry-run, cow inventory management program. The goal of their proposed voluntary self-help program is to reduce the number of milk producing cows in the nation and curtail the current burgeoning production.

Milk production across the country is up 4.4 percent over a year ago, with much of it being manufactured into cheese. With a dairy price based primarily on cheese, the added cheese flowing to the market is effectively reducing the price paid across the country to dairy producers of raw milk.

Dr. Ben Shelton, an Olin, North Carolina, dairy producer and veterinarian, is one of a group of Southeast dairy farmers who have formed a committee to study a voluntary producer assessment to raise a pool om monies to fund an inventory reduction of dairy cattle. Their goal is to achieve a better, long-term, balance between milk supply and demand.

"We do have a lot of support for the concept, and that support is growing," affirms Dr. Shelton.

While national cow herd numbers have been decreasing for many years, advancement in nutrition, genetics and housing continue to boost annual per cow production. Advocates of the proposal suggest that a reduction is needed of an additional 200,000 to 300,000 head more than the usual annual decrease from the current 9 million plus-head of dairy cattle in the nation.

To help achieve their purpose, the steering committee is undertaking efforts to generate interest in their Producer Directed Inventory Control program. One of their immediate aims is to enlist support from the nation's dairy cooperatives, which market approximately 80 percent of the nation's 155 billion-pounds-annually milk production. A nickel or dime per hundredweight assessment on the 80 percent of production, if all cooperative members would agree to work together voluntarily, could generate millions of dollars annually for a fund for use toward reducing cow numbers.

Many details of the program have yet to be worked out. But proponents of the Producer Directed Inventory Control program are studying optional methods which could be used to value herds for buyout purposes. One method under discussion would have independent appraisers value herds and offer a premium over the market price; a producer could accept or reject that premium proposal. Another option could have producers themselves bid into the program for a premium price, over the beef market value. The pool of voluntary checkoff funds would provide the buyout premium above the market price. Those whose herds could be culled at the lowest cost to the program would be accepted, until the fund was depleted annually.

Also under discussion is the possibility of utilizing the voluntary funds within the regional marketing area where they would be generated. Thus, the heaviest areas of milk production would be eligible for the largest inventory control participation and areas of low production would have the least participation, based on the volume of voluntary checkoff contributed within that region.

Various scenarios are being studied. But if widespread voluntary support could be generated, the cow inventory management proponents anticipate that production might be curtailed up to 2%. And, market analysts have long noted that dairy price swings are implemented by even slight changes in nationwide production.

To achieve any long term success, program advocates insist it would have to be a continuing, long-term effort, not just a "quick fix." If such a proposal generated enough voluntary support to be successful in better balancing milk supply with demand, developers of the cow inventory management plan project that checkoff monies in subsequent years might then be directed toward inventory control of dairy heifers and/or calves.

Another inventory management possibility could be utilizing the checkoff to facilitate export of product. However, the legality of producers subsidizing export of dairy product onto the world market would need to be assessed for compliance with trade agreements, such as GATT and NAFTA.

Advocates emphasize that any such herd inventory management program involving a voluntary producer checkoff would be overseen by a board of directors with national representation. That board would ultimately decide on the program's fine details and determine from year to year which direction would be most effective in balancing production for the dollars expended.

Producer Directed Inventory Control supporters see it as a program which would not cost a lot of money per hundredweight, would not put anyone under a quota, and would not require a producer to stay out of business after participating. Any returnees to milk production, as well as new start-ups and expanding operations, would help fund the ongoing exiting of other producers from the dairy business.

While the inventory control outline does not involve the government, the concept's originators hope to meet with and discuss their ideas with Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman, and would like to proceed with the understanding and support of the Secretary and the Department of Agriculture.

Though the proposal is still in the discussion stage, the committee is also studying the legal aspects of such a voluntary inventory management program, as well as sharing their ideas with other producers to assess the level of support that might be generated nationwide.

Dairy producers interested in learning more about the Producer Directed Inventory Control proposals may contact Dr. Ben Shelton at 704-546-5188.

time to be promulagated and approved. They went into effect Oct. 1.

Previously, the only farms with nutrient management plans developed them at the behest of a lender seeking to protect its investment in the farm, or those participating in the Chesapeake Bay Program.

Plans are to be mandatory for high-density livestock farms, and voluntary for low-density livestock farms.

High-density farms are determined according to the total weight of the livestock raised on the farm and the amount of acreage suitable for accepting manure for use as a nutrient in raising crops, including pasture grasses.

By law, the threshold stocking rate is 2,000 pounds of livestock or poultry per acre of land that can accept manure, including pasture, to be considered a farm requiring a nutrient management plan.

That threshold was developed because it represents a level at which excess nitrogen is being produced beyond the capability of plants to use it. The goal is to balance nitrogen uses with nitrogen production.

At its essence, a current farm nutrient management plan outlines how the farming operation intends to utilize its animal manures and prevent it from washing into waterways.

The plans generally contains a description of the farming operation, and how, where and when plant nutrients are to be used: facts and details about storm water management; erosion control devices; manure application methods and handling practices; crops to be raised; and any other considerations that affect the production of, and use of, manure and nutrients on the farm.

The agricultural community has been integral in developing and supporting the state law, as well as developing the details of the program around which the regulations were composed.

By being proactive, and sitting down with some one-time or sometime adversaries in the environmental-protectionist community, sharing information and ideas, community leaders and representatives were able to develop mutually agreeable and understandable regulations to carry out the state's Nutrient Management Act.

The operation at Greystone Manor Farms is considered low-density and the state's first plan was a voluntary one.

The regulations were created through four years of work by the 15-member state Nutrient Management Advisory Board, which is to continue to exist, though the bulk of its deadline work is now done.

It was reported Thursday that it is believed that volunteers from the agricultural, agribusiness, environmental, lending, and community-at-large sectors donated 15,000 to 20,000 manhours toward creating the regulations.

Signing the first nutrient management plan in Lancaster County is also symbolic because Lancaster County is the most farming intensive county in the state, and has been blamed for being one of the largest of Pennsylvania's contributors of nutrients into the Chesapeake Bay.

Radell Peters showed a Dorset ram for the champion ram over all breeds that went on to be named the reserve champion sheep over all breeds. Radell also showed the champion Jacobs ewe.

Travis Redmond, Mohnton, showed the reserve champion ewe over all breeds. He also was named reserve champion showman in the senior division.

Showmanship in the 2-3 years experience division was earned by Adam Zurin. The 10-year-old captured the same title at both Elizabethtown and the 4-H Roundup. Adam is the son of Judy and Gary Zurin of Mt. Joy. He credits his sister Sarah with teaching him the finer skills of sheep showing.

Adam also showed the champion Suffolk ram. Andrew Gerhart showed both champion and reserve Suffolk ewe.

Keith Bollinger, Ephrata, showed a yearling lamb that took the champion Cheviot title. In both the Columbia and Lincoln breed, Gabriel Bowman of Drumore showed the champion ram and his sister Kelsey, the champion ewe. Another sister Dallassa showed both the champion ewe and ram Polypay sheep.

In the Dorset breed, Radell's aged ewe was named champion ewe and Christopher Swartzentruber's yearling ewe was the reserve champion ewe.

40th Steam-O-Rama Featured York-Built Equipment

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

WINDSOR (York Co.) — Early American tractor buffs from the York area recently celebrated a 40th anniversary and honored their own.

The annual Steam-O-Rama show was hosted by the Early American Steam Engine Society at its Windsor meeting and show grounds, Oct. 2-5. Focus of the anniversary celebration was York and York-area built machinery and related equipment.

"York was a 'hot' area of farm equipment manufacturing through the 19th and early 20th century and was really quite an industrial center in that time," said Floyd Miller, York antique equipment collector chairing the York-made portion of the show. "A lot of the manufacturing boom came after the Civil War era and up in the early 1900s." He noted that York-manufactured equipment is featured by the Steam-O-Rama every fifth year.

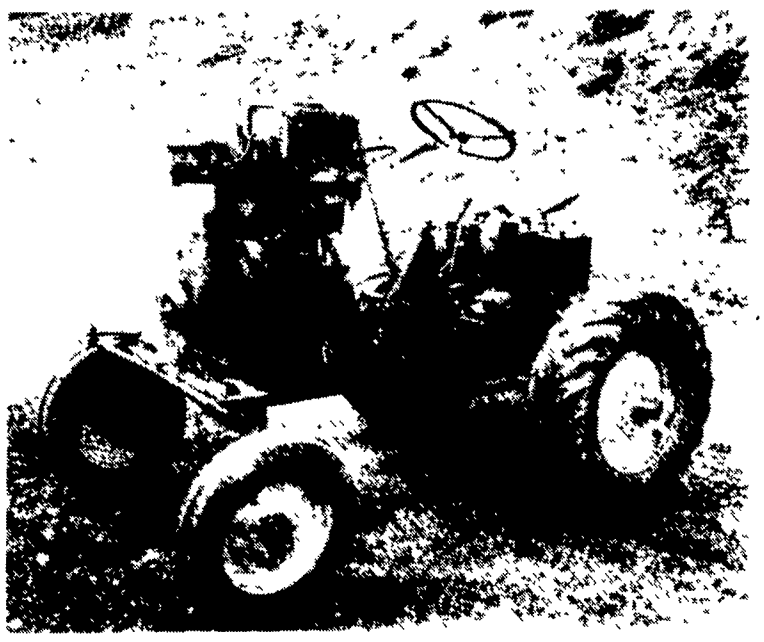
An added draw to this year's steam event was the 60th anniversary of Sheppard diesels. The R.H. Sheppard Company, originally known for shoe manufacturing, became an early developer of diesel engines. Those early engines went into use as generators, marine-equipment motors, and a source of power for the military during World War II. After the war, Sheppard turned to experimenting with its diesel engine is a farm tractor model. At first, the company is reported to have repowered a Farmall M, one of the early popular gasoline farm tractors, with their own diesel engine.

According to farm equipment history sources, the first Sheppard-Diesel tractor was introduced in 1949. It was dubbed the SD-1 Model, a 5.4 horsepower, single-cylinder, air-cooled diesel tractor, sized primarily for lawn-garden type use. Larger and additional models of tractors from the Sheppard firm continued to be manufactured until the early 1950s.

Floyd Miller has restored one of the three known remaining SD-1 models and polished it to gleaming for display at the Steam-O-Rama. The other two are owned by the Sheppard firm, which manufactures power steering systems for large trucks and construction equipment.

Miller, an avowed Sheppard diesel enthusiast and equipment collector for 40 years, joked that he spends his kids' inheritance on his antique farm equipment pursuits.

"I had the 2-, 3- and 4-cylinder models and needed the one-cylinder to complete the set," said this walking encyclopedia of antique tractor lore. Miller tracked his prize down to a distant airplane hangar where it had been stored by the owner, a former employee of the Sheppard firm, and had been used primarily in its later years for mowing. He spent uncounted hours restoring to like-new the basic frame and motor that remained of the machine that, when new, had sold for $1,065.



Floyd Miller's SD-1 tractor was little more than a motorized frame when he purchased it several years ago.

Though York-area-built farm equipment was widely known in its heyday, the Sheppard diesel was the only tractor ever manufactured in the county. As local farms were relatively small and their owners often conservative about switching from the familiar gas-powered tractor to the then-little-known diesel technology, historians note that the Sheppard's diesel did not generate widespread purchase by locals. In addition, the firm required that the full price for one its tractors be paid up front, a formidable financial barrier for many family farms.

In addition to the estimated 35 to 40 lovingly-restored Sheppard diesels on hand at the Windsor steam show, exhibitors displayed an array of literature on the Sheppards and numerous other antique machines. He noted that factory manuals that went with new tractors, as well as a variety of other original literature, are eagerly sought by collectors of such historical data.

Other York-produced-equipment names once common around rural America included the Farquhar Company, Pullman, the United Engine Works, and Flinchbaugh Manufacturing Company. The Acme Wagon Works, an Emigsville establishment originally known as the the American Tube and Axle Company, was also familiar on farmsteads for products such as feed grinders and watering troughs.

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

Sale Every Mon., Wed. & Fri.
Until January 17 -
Last Sale for 609 Tobacco and Type 41.

Last year Type 609 tobacco started out at $1.65 per pound and ended at $1.92 as long as auction was open.

We at Paradise make the farmer money. Don't get scared and sign a contract from bull stories.

Farmer, you will hear a lot from county buyers in the field such as our tobacco goes overseas, and so forth. With Contracts signed in the country it's hard for Paradise to raise prices.

P.S. We have a strong demand for Type 41 tobacco at Paradise. Make Paradise your Type 41 marketplace. We Need 41 and 609.

We Will Be On Your Farm Soon With Top Quality, Rocky Mountain Cotton Twine - Not Seconds. Remember, There Is A Difference.

Neighbor relations are always considered when manure spreading and other field operations are in progress. All the dairy, financial, and field records are kept on three computers in the farm office.

Cow comfort is evident in the barn as well. Bedding in the free stalls consists of chopped rubber covered with a sheet of canvas. Curtain sides and a vented roof provide natural air-flow along with fans and a sprinkler system to keep the cows cool in summer.

The cows are fed in four groups according to production and stages of lactation. One group is made up of all the two year-old milking heifers.

After the farm tour, the group ate lunch at the Spring House Restaurant and continued on to other agribusiness locations. Visits were made to Wenger Feeds and John Cope Food Products at Rheems, and the Land O' Lakes plant at Mt. Holly Springs. A reception with key farm leaders, extension directors, legislators, and county commissioners was held at the Embers Inn and Convention Center, Carlisle.

Revolving Certificates Returned Early

RESTON, Va. — Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc. distributed $1,841,722, or 10 cents per hundredweight to dairy farmers who shipped milk to the cooperative in 1989. Mailed on Tuesday, September 30, the distribution represents certificates held in the cooperative's revolving fund since 1990. For the past seven years, this portion of the revolving fund has contributed to maintaining the facilities and buildings owned by the cooperative.

Normally mailed on December 1, the certificates were mailed two months early this year, in an effort to help dairy farmers during this challenging time. This is the second early distribution of funds within a 6-week period. The first was the 70 percent cash portion of the $4.5 million of the 1996 divisional earnings mailed 10 days earlier than usual, on Friday, August 22.

According to President Jack Hardesty, a dairy farmer from Berryville, Virginia, "Because of the cooperative's excellent financial condition, and because we're focused on helping our members in any way we can, the board of directors for Maryland and Virginia has made another decision to return cash to the cooperative members earlier than usual."

Historical High Returns

KILE Announces Open Class Sheep Show Winners

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Sheep exhibitors were honored at the recent Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE).

Josette Fought, a 4-H'er from Carlisle, Cumberland County, exhibited the champion Hampshire ram of the open show. She also showed last year's champion Hampshire.

The 16-year-old's champion ram, Fought 96-132, won the yearling class before winning the championship. This champion ram was also named champion at the Maryland State Fair.

"I enjoy showing. My family has showed at fairs for over 40 years, so it has always been a part of my life," said Fought, a junior at Cumberland Valley High School.

Fought's 13-year-old sister, Jaime, exhibited the champion Hampshire ewe of the open show. The yearling, 772, placed first in the late spring lamb class before taking top ewe honors. She will show the lamb this fall at the Louisville show. Jaime also placed second in the lead line competition, as well as, champion Southdown ram.

The sisters own a total of 25 sheep on their family's Sulfur Run Farm.

Denise and Debby Deal of Double Bar D farm, Akron, Ohio, exhibited the reserve champion ram, a spring lamb, and placed first in ewe, early spring lamb class. The sisters also placed fourth in the exhibitor's flock competition in the open show.

Rambouillet Show

The champion was a spring ram. They also showed the first place exhibitor's flock and first place pair of yearling ewes.

Reserve champion ram, "A Joslin 96-35," was shown by 20-year-old Amy Joslin, a junior at Ohio State University. Joslin was a 4-H'er for 11 years and has shown at KILE for eight years. The ram was champion at the junior show here last year, was reserve champion at the 1997 Ohio and Indiana State Fairs and was supreme champion at the 1997 Shelby County Fair. Joslin is the daughter of Woody and Ann Joslin, Maplewood, Ohio. She also showed the grand champion ewe at last year's KILE.

Grand champion ewe, an early spring lamb, was shown by Powell Rambouillets, Rome, who were named premier breeder and exhibitor. The ewe was reserve champion at the Big E in West Springfield, Mass. where Powell Rambouillets also were named premier exhibitor and breeder. At KILE they also showed first place pair of ewe lambs, first place fall lamb, and first place pair of ram lambs. Last year Powells showed champion and reserve champion ram, and reserve champion ewe at KILE. Doris Powell said her family has been showing since the beginning of KILE and has been premier exhibitor for the past three years.

Shropshire Show

The spring ewe lamb was one of four 4-H projects animals he brought to the show in his first year as a member of the Hickory Ag 4-H Club. The lamb was champion at the Washington County fair earlier this year.

Brigich's sister Jessica Lynn also showed a spring ewe lamb which placed second to her brother's.

Their parents are Mark and Audra Brigich, who have about 35 sheep on their Brigich Shropshire farm. The grand champion was bred by the Brigich family.

Reserve champion ram went to Paul Jo Gevin, Cochranton, with the second place spring ram lamb, "Gevin Mcaho 97-130." A 4-H'er for 10 years, 17-year-old Gevin is the daughter of Milo and Margaret Gevin and owns 20 sheep. She was busy at KILE, being named second runner-up in the Lamb and Wool Queen contest, and participating in the Shepherd's Lead Line competition.

Southdown Show

Flinchbaugh also placed first in ewe, late spring lamb, pair of ewe lambs, and ram, one year and under two classes. She also placed second in the exhibitor's flock competition.

Champion ewe honors went to Jaime Fought of Sulfur Run Farm in Carlisle. Fought also won ewe, one year and under two, and ewe, early spring lamb classes. She placed fourth in exhibitor's flock.

Thirteen-year-old Fought, a member of 4-H, brought 18 sheep altogether, six of them Southdown. She has shown at KILE for many years and her family has been showing here for more than 40 years.

Reserve champion ram and ewe went to Splendorview Farm in Cummington. They also placed first in exhibitor's flock. Splendorview also won the pair of yearling ewes, pair of ram lambs and ram, fall lamb classes.

Claudette Choma, Stafford Springs, Conn., placed third and Poverty Point Farm of Mars, placed fifth in the exhibitor's flock competition.

Montadale breeding sheep, grand champion ewe, Chapman 9727, Callie Chapman, Washington.

Shropshire Show

William Yoder, Wey Shropshires, owned the winning sheep which was shown by Ron Miller. "WS 9726" took the grand champion ram honors after placing first in the spring lamb class. "WS 9730" was named grand champion ewe after placing first in the late spring lamb class. This ewe was also champion at the Allentown Fair.

"After 17 years we continue to be successful at this show, and that is why we keep coming back," said Ron Miller.

Reserve champion ewe and champion ram were exhibited by Fred and Pam Heaton, Versailles, OH. "96-186" first won the fall lamb ram class and then went on to be named reserve champion ram. Reserve champion ewe, "96-172" was first in the yearling ewe class. Last year at KILE "96-172" was champion. He was also champion Hampshire at the Ohio State Fair.

Fred Heaton, who owns 150 head of Montadales, Shropshires and Hampshires, has been showing at KILE for the past 23 years. "We like coming here because the people are friendly and our sheep seem to do well here," said Heaton.

Heaton won first place sale ewe with his yearling, "96-133". The Heatons also won first place with their exhibitor's flock.

LOOKING FOR AN AIR MOTOR THAT'S QUIETER AND MORE ECONOMICAL?

Take a few moments and call us at Beiler Hydraulics to find out more about THOMAS INDUSTRIES INC Air Motors

◊ From 1/3 to 5 HP, Thomas rotary vane air motors provide reliable power for hundreds of demanding OEM and industrial applications. These compact and lightweight models (2-28 lbs.) feature variable speed operation from 300 10,000 RPM. Interchangeable with most competitive models, Thomas rotary vane air motors can operate in any position and are available in four mounts: hub mount, face mount, base mount, and NEMA mount.

◊ In addition, all models can operate in clockwise or counter-clockwise rotations and most models can be instantly reversed with the turn of a four-way valve. Burn-out and stall-proof without damage if subjected to overloading. Thomas air motors also feature smooth air-cushioned starting and quiet operation.

◊ Four-vane models provide maximum efficiency for most standard applications, and optional eight-vane models minimize blow-by for special inching and stalled-condition applications. The rotary vanes are made of a special material that resists moisture absorption and swelling allowing them to perform well at high ambient temperatures and safely in wet or harsh environments. Plus, springloading of the vanes provides maximum sealing and torque at low speeds.

Ward Family Shows Grand Champion Appaloosa Mare

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Two judges, several champions.

A 6-year-old Appaloosa was named grand champion mare of the two-judge breed show at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, held recently at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

According to judge Bennett's selections, the grand champion Appaloosa gelding was 2-year-old Natural Power, owned by the Clucks; while the reserve grand champion gelding was 2-year-old Zippos Perfection, owned by Art Ascoli of Harrisburg.

Show judge Johnson's picks had Natural Power as reserve grand champion gelding, while his grand champion selection was Skip's Back in Black, owned by J. Creighton and Dillon of Lewistown.

A 3-year-old stallion, You Bet I'm Fine, owned by Doris Woodburn of Hollywood, Maryland, was an unanimous selection by the judges to be grand champion stallion. The judges also agreed on a yearling colt, Splash on the Rocks, owned by Sharon Wiles of Westminster, Maryland, as the reserve grand champion stallion of the show.

Impressive January Calf Turns Into KILE Grand Angus Female

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — This year's January calves have looked like a championship class for the Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE) grand champion Angus female exhibitor.

Larry Weaver of New Holland exhibited one of those babies, Weaverland Scaara Sundance, born Jan. 12 this year from a CH 054 Rito 0100 sire to a Krueger Scaara Leeza dam. The junior heifer calf champion captured grand champion female at the KILE Angus Show late last week.

The calves from Rito "are the best we've ever had," said Weaver.

Weaver, who breeds AI, purchased the Rito semen from American Angus Semen Service. Larry said that his wife Barbara does all the breeding, and has studied to improve the Weaverland Valley Farm's 40-cow herd's genetics.

The bull genetics, Weaver noted, were recommended by Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County livestock agent. They used the Rito bull last year and "liked her," Weaver said, "so we used him heavily this year."

So far, four or five calves have been obtained from the Rito bull. But the one that won at KILE, so far, is the "best of the bunch," Weaver said.

The purebred Angus breeder also sells feeder calf, maintaining a herd of 150 head of Angus crosses in New Holland. Weaver said that if he couldn't sell Scaara Sundance privately, he would save her for competition at the state Farm Show.

Also under consideration is the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky. show in mid-November, if "we think she's powerful enough" for the tough national competition, Weaver indicated.

So far, Weaver's show animals have placed in several top spots at the Atlantic National Angus Breeders Show recently. In addition, Larry and wife Barbara picked up premier exhibitor and premier breeder of the KILE Angus show.

Show judge Charlie Boyd, Mayslick, Ky., commented on the cattle at the show. "These are very functional cattle — cattle you can make a living with," that were "structurally sound, not overconditioned, and have flesh and ability to calve out" nicely. Boyd, of Boyd Beef Cattle, breeds Angus and Polled Hereford cattle.

Reserve female champion of the Angus show went to the junior heifer calf, Clear View Miss Skymore, sired by Nbar Emulation Ext from Whitestone Miss Sky, by Ed Richardson, Louisa, Va. The calf was shown by Kelly O'Boyle.

Junior champion female of the show went to Whitestone Rita, out of a Whitestone Traveler sire and Rita 5H27 dam, also shown by Ed Richardson.

In the bull competition, Boyd said the lineup contained "sound, functional, bulls that can get out and move and travel." He picked the senior yearling bull, JDH Keystone Ext (S: N. Bar Emulation Ext, D: Mengs Miss Skymere) shown by JDH Cattle Company, Dover, as grand champion bull. The bull is owned by three exhibitors: JDH Cattle; Edgebrook Farm, Charlottesville, Va.; and Blue Ridge Farms, Afton, Va.

Reserve champion bull went to the junior bull calf, Lochinvars First Time, sired by Leachman Right Time from Whitestone Miss SK, shown by John and Mary Bewley, Woodbine, Md.

Watershed Awareness Campaign

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Conservation District has begun a watershed awareness campaign, "Let's Make One Thing Perfectly Clear."

The campaign is funded with a $3,000 grant from the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters. The grant program includes billboards with the slogan in five different locations throughout the county, a dynamic poster with information on watershed and what a person can do to protect them, a map of all the watersheds in the county, three educational sessions for the public, and a mailing of watershed education information.

The goal is to inform and educate the residents of Lancaster County on watersheds and their importance, and for each person to know about the watershed in which they live. The end result is the formation of a citizens watershed association in each watershed.

The educational series is scheduled for October and November and will be cosponsored with the Lancaster County Water Resources Task Force and Land Studies, Inc., Lititz and State College. Co-sponsors for the series include the Lancaster County Planning Commission, Penn State Extension Service, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, and the Natural Resource Conservation Service. The programs are as follows:

• October 27, You're a Part of the Solution to a Healthy Watershed — Find Out How? - 7 - 9 p.m. Farm & Home Center, Lancaster.

The first meeting lays the ground work for the series. We answer the question "What is a Watershed," how many are there in the county and what is distinctive about each one?

• November 10, Watershed Associations: Where It All Happens! - 7 - 9 p.m. Farm & Home Center, Lancaster.

The second meeting will give the nuts and bolts on how to start a watershed organization. Speakers will include representatives from the Octoraro Watershed Association and related grassroots groups.

• November 17, Let's Get Started: Making Our Watersheds Perfectly Clear - 7 - 9 p.m. Farm & Home Center, Lancaster.

This meeting is a work session for those communities serious about starting a watershed organization. Facilitators will work with specific work groups from individual watersheds and municipalities.

Dairy Feeding Meeting

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Dr. Jud Heinrichs, Penn State University extension dairy nutritionist, will be in Franklin County for a dairy feeding meeting on Oct. 27 at 7:15 p.m.

Heinrichs will be offering timely tips on feeding to minimize the effects of this past summer's drought.

Dairy producers whose feed supply will be tight should consider attending.

Meeting site is the Franklin County Human Services Building Conference Room, 425 Franklin Farm Lane, Chambersburg. This building is located just north of the extension office along Franklin Farm Lane between the county home and prison.

Ox Kill Farm Shows Several Shire Champions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Vicky and Gene McCaffrey of Ox Kill Farm in Schoharie, N.Y., showed several of the champions at the 1997 Shire draft horse show last week during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition held at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The McCaffrey's 2-year-old stallion Metheringham Upton Isaac was named junior champion and grand champion of the show; their 5-year-old Ox Kill Koorahana was grand champion mare; and Koorahana's dam, 9-year-old Ox Kill Surprise Minneapolis, was reserve grand champion mare.

"In the six years that we have been coming to KILE, we have watched the show develop into one of the best draft horse shows in the country," Vicky said. "Exhibiting is a lot of work, so it's nice to come to a show that makes all of the hard work pay off."

The reserve junior champion mare was 2-year-old Hideaway Pond Electra, owned by Kathy Green of Layton, N.J., who also showed the grand champion gelding, 4-year-old Plum Hills Prince Charlie.

Equine Workshop Set

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — What works for cows probably won't work for horses when it comes to pasture management and conservation of natural resources.

So Tess Wynn, field coordinator for the Monocacy River Demonstration Project, has organized a one-day workshop on Oct. 15 to help conservation professionals get hip about hippology — that is, a thorough study of horses and their habits.

Catoctin and Frederick Soil Conservation District professionals are teaming with their Monocacy Projects counterparts in sponsoring the workshop. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Urbana-Ijamsville United Methodist Church in Urbana.

For reservations, call Jeanne Raines at (301) 898-0133 or (410) 775-7434. A registration fee of $6.50 is payable at the door. It includes lunch and snacks.

Emswiler's Clydesdales Dominate KILE Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gene Emswiler of Hagerstown, Maryland, showed the grand champion mare and the reserve grand champion stallion of the Clydesdale draft horse breed show at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition held in the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

The reserve champion mare was Liberty Knolls Hannah, owned by Aileen O'Conner of Saylorsburg.

The junior champion mare was North Ridge Fairington's Amy, owned by John and Karen Lightner of Larue, Ohio.

Northeast Dairy Compact Meetings To Be Held

MESHOPPEN (Wyoming Co.) — The Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag) will be conducting two more meetings next week to explain the Northeast Dairy Compact.

The first meeting will be held on Tuesday night, October 14, at the Gratz Elementary School Building, Gratz, Pa. (upper Dauphin County). The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The second meeting will be held on Thursday night, October 16, at the Stop-35 Restaurant, Mifflintown, Pa. This meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. The Stop-35 Restaurant is located at the intersection of Route 322 and Route 35 in Juniata County.

Recently Pro Ag has held Compact Meetings in Susquehanna, Berks, and Northampton Counties.

Currently all six New England States comprise the Compact, but six other states, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware, are eligible to join the Compact, providing the State Legislators in each state passes the needed proper legislation.

A premium of $1.28 per cwt. was paid to dairy farmers shipping milk into New England during July and $1.31 was paid for August delivery.

Everyone is welcome to attend the meeting and learn more about the Compact.

Windermere Farms Shows Grand Champion Percheron Mare

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Windermere Farms of Spring Mills last week showed the senior and grand champion Percheron mare of the 41st annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Orndorff's Belgians Top KILE Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Two Waynesburg Belgian draft horse breeders had a repeat performance in exhibiting the grand champion mare and stallion of the show at the 41st Keystone International Livestock Exposition recently at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Owners C. Lemley and C. Orndorff showed the senior and grand champion mare, Orndorff's Supreme Unity, as well as the senior and grand champion stallion, 3-year-old Korry's Captain.

The junior champion mare was Spring Grove Amber, owned by Sandy and Alecia McQuarrie of Ontario, Canada.

The program was moderated by Karl Brown, executive secretary of the State Conservation Commission, of which Secretary Hayes is chairman.

Ultimate authority for implementing the regulations and approving management plans lies with the SCC.

In his comments, Secretary Hayes talked about the signficance of the moment for the entire state.

He said it is noteworthy that the nature of the state's nutrient management program is such that it does not create a burden upon profitable production agriculture, and at the same time truly deals with environmental concerns shared by the agricultural and non-agricultural community.

Hayes said that without profitable agriculture the residents of the state can not afford to enjoy the standards of living that they have; and without being able to be profitable, agricultural operations can not afford to preserve farmland and open spaces essential to the environmental health necessary for all.

In brief, he said the nutrient management laws and implementing regulations created by Pennsylvania should serve as an example for the rest of the nation as a way to solve an environmental problem shared by all, without creating more problems for just a few.

He also noted that the regulations and the nutrient management law bring greater emphasis to the importance of the state conservation districts and the SCC.

Hayes talked about the new attitudes in government which foster problem solving through private and public partnerships working together for a common goal, as well as multi-agency and multi-government cooperation.

"I don't prefer an overabundance of government regulation," Hayes said, adding that he considered that, left to himself and with the freedom of time and resources to do something other than attempt to make money, most farmers would operate in ways that are not environmentally damaging.

However, he said, "We are growing (in population) and getting closer (in proximity), so we must work together. There must be an opportunity for agriculture to thrive.

"We can not be the way we want to be in America without agriculture."

Others speaking included Lancaster County Commissioner Paul Thibault, who said that while he knows that managing resources is a "challenging enterprise," he said he feels that youth today observing adults dealing with such problems are skeptical that they can preserve a healthy environment in the face of shallow-minded greed and competitive consumption.

He said that Act 6 — the Nutrient Management Act — is a step in that direction, as well as urban growth boundaries, well-head protection laws, and other measures recently taken by state and community leaders.

Jerry Hostetter, owner/operator of Hostetter Management Company, said he raises 13,000 sows in Pennsylvania and his company has recently received a national environmental award conferred by the Eastern Region of the National Pork Producers Council. The awared was for Hostetter's nutrient management program.

Though approval of his nutrient management plan is pending, it is expected to be approved.

He praised the regulations, not only because they are good for the environment, he said, but because they eliminate the patchwork of local ordinances which began to be created as local municipalities became the battle grounds between high-density livestock operations and residents and creators of housing developments.

He said the statewide consistency of the law is good for business, and the liability protection also helps. He said the increased record keeping also helps business owners because they are better equipped to make decisions for increased efficiency.

As a representative of the state's hog industry, Hostetter said that Pennsylvania has been wise to take this course because poor management leads to poor public perceptions, and he said that the entire swine industry has been given a black eye from the wide-spread reports of environmental damage attributed to hog operations in North Carolina.

Don Robinson, manager of the Lancaster County Conservation District, who also helped the Nutrient Management Advisory Board through the regulation creation process, said that conservation districts around the state are ready for their role in implementing the regulations.

For Lancaster County, he said he estimates that there may be up to 1,000 operations in need of mandatory plans, out of the county's estimated 4,500 farming operations.

The SCC estimates there are 2,500 such farms statewide.

Logan Myers, representing the Lititz Run Watershed Alliance (a group of stakeholders attempting to work together to improve the quality of the entire Lititz Run Watershed), announced that the group has agreed to help farmers within the watershed financially to develop plans.

Under the state nutrient management program, up to 75 percent of the cost of developing plans (estimated according to some sources as possibly ranging from $400 and up depending on the extent of work required) is to be cost-shared for mandatory plans.

The Lititz Run Alliance recently approved providing the remaining 25 percent for the mandatory operations in its watershed in order to develop plans.

In addition to the plan signing, Leon Ressler with the Penn State Extension, demonstrated manure application rates so that members of the press could understand and pass it on.

The farm plan calls for the application rate of 25 tons of steer manure per acre on some of the crop land. Ressler showed how calibration was figured with weights of manure, and amount discharged from a spreader over a specific distance, traveling at a specific speed.

Then manure was actually applied at the rate of 25 tons per acre, providing an accurate visual representation, rather than merely allowing public imagination to conceive on its own what 25 tons per acre would represent.

The reason for the press conference and the nutrient management laws is population growth, culture-wide changes in traditional practices, and the resulting environmental effects.

The continual decline of the Chesapeake Bay has been a focal point for the main issue — an assault on the environment from a booming residential growth and its land-moving activities, as well as changing economic pressures on farms.

For farms, land values increased as post-industrial entreprenuers turned heavily to high-profit residential development and began competing for available farmland.

High interest rates during the late 1970s and early 1980s curtailed much of that, but recovery to lower rates through the 1980s until present not only brought a reprise to the housing industry, but investment and capitalist strategists created new mega-sized discount retail stores, household and food outlets, and strip malls in close proximity to the new residential developments, competing further for farmland.

At the same time, investors were reluctant to pursue development on previously used lands because of the risks of having courts find them financially liable for the complete removal of potential toxins and carcinogens, even if the current owner had no knowledge and responsibility for it being there.

(Brownfields legislation now allows land to be used for its historical uses, as long as contaminants are contained and not exccesive.)

Additional roadways and earth-moving activities resulted in the need for government to prescribe new ways to deal with storm water problems and the associated sedimentation and nutrient loads, such as mandatory stormwater retention dams swales, and waterways.

Concern grew also about the increase in speed of decline of the Chesapeake Bay, and former Gov. Robert Casey signed an agreement along with other governors of states affecting the Chesapeake to reduce Pennsylvania's nutrient contribution to the Bay by 40 percent by 2000.

Though nutrient management law has been considered for more almost two decades, the Chesapeake Bay agreement and local nusiance ordinances hurting farming operations put more pressure on politicians and state leadership to create the nutrient management law.

There are three nutrients of concern to the Chesapeake Bay — nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium. The state nutrient management law deals with nitrogen, the nutrient of most concern.

Other states, such as Maryland, have nutrient management programs that encourage farmers to develop and implement nutrient management plans.

Heidi Of Laurel Mountain Reigns As State Lamb And Wool Queen

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) —"'Wether ewe' realize it or not, you couldn't get through a day without the sheep industry," says Heidi Svonavec, the newly crowned Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen.

Heidi, representing Somerset County, competed with two other contestants, Paula Jo Gevin and Shelley Patton, for the state title during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) Sunday.

Heidi challenged the audience to consider the importance of the lamb industry by recognizing the many by-products of the lamb industry.

Even if you didn't eat lamb or wear wool, Heidi said that she doubts that a person could still get through the day.

"Not if you don't want to be caught with your pants down," she joked in reference to the fact that both buttons and fasteners are made from sheep bones. She pointed out that toothbrushes, buttons, gum, gelatin, surgical sutures, photographic film, and gel caps are just a few of the hundreds of sheep byproducts.

While Heidi, dressed in fashionable black wool pants and a red jacket, talked about sheep by-products, her brother Gabe, dressed as a lamb, handed out items made from sheep products. His basket included such items as chewing gum, tissues, toothbrushes, and candy.

Heidi is the daughter of Dave and Betty Lou Svonavec. The family raises about 50 registered and crossbred ewes on their Rockwood farm.

Although Heidi leads a busy life involved in many school, community, and church activities, she has already made an outstanding mark on the sheep industry. She worked with a butcher to develop lamb bologna, which she offers to people to acquaint them with the taste of lamb.

"Everyone who tastes it loves it," she said. Samples of the bologna and a mustard dip were available for tasting at her display booth at KILE.

Heidi has also compiled a "Fun With the Flock," activity book to hand out to kids. The booklet includes coloring pages, dot-to-dot exercises, and word puzzles—all with the hidden agenda of acquainting children with sheep and sheep by-products.

Heidi participates in county and Keystone leadline contests, Make-it-Yourself-With-Wool contests, 4-H carcass, market, and breeding sheep projects and showing competitions at county, state, and national levels. She is a member of the National Suffolk and Hampshire Associations.

At Rockwood Area Junior/Senior High School, Heidi is active in National Honor Society, county and district chorus, band, student council, forensics, school plays, varsity cheerleading, FFA, FHA, ski club. She is basketball statistician, special needs class assistant, class officer, member of the community college honors class, and was named student of the month.

Community activities include church choir, class helper, church event assistant, choreographer, community bulletin board, , entertainment for DAR and area nursing homes, Special Olympics volunteer, 4-H rabies clinic, Salvation Army food drive, community theater member, dancer, and member of Country Road Players.

After high school Heidi, 17, plans to study veterinary science at Penn State.

Shelley Patton, Waynesburg, was named state alternate lamb and wool queen. This is Shelley's second time to serve as alternate. She is an honors student in physics and earth and space science at West Virginia University.

She is the 18-year-old daughter of Rick and Janice Patton. The family raises 20 purebred Suffolk sheep and 15 head of breeding club lambs.

She has shown numerous

Heidi Svonavec, representing Somerset County, won the state title for Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen. Heidi hands out samples of Peppercorn Lamb Bologna with Mustard Dip. Her promotional display at KILE showed many lamb byproducts in addition to wool fabric samples and recipes using lamb.

Northwestern Lamb and Wool Queen Paula Jo Gevin serves Lamb and Cheese Canape Spread.

Shelley Patton hands out Sweet and Sour Meatballs made with lamb. The Greene County Lamb and Wool Queen reigns as the state alternate for the second year.

ON BEING A FARM WIFE

It wasn't supposed to work this way.

The sudan-grass silage extender was supposed to have been chopped and in the silo. The tomatoes were to have been covered. There were melons still happily growing in the patch. All the geranium and impatiens cuttings were to have been taken and their bare stems tucked into starting medium in the greenhouse.

Yeah. Right.

And the frost-free date around here is supposed to be October 10.

If you believe that, I have ocean front property out my back door that I'll sell you, at a very reasonable fee, to build your own private deep-water marina.

Because, on the evening of October 1 — or more likely very early in the morning of October 2 — that gardener's fall nemesis, Old Jack Frost, paid us an unexpected and unprepared for visit. And he came during the one night of the month on which I had to be away for an overnight meeting.

Of course, in all fairness to that seasonal harbinger of garden wipeout, frost-free dates have been established over the decades based on averages, and averages are merelv a middle ground of extremes. Some years, we enjoy that frost-free extreme somewhere into early November. And the one time, 30 years ago, that I slept overnight with our showstring of cattle at the York Fair, we had frost in early September. (You can see my luck in playing the frost averages.)

Fortunately, Jack's icy paintbrush made a fast pass, and only blackened the tops of some of the stuff it touched. The sudan grass, basically a tropical plant which needs plentiful water to grow, has had a hard time this season anyway, with inadequate moisture to ever get it started right. Frost just finished the job.

Also turned black by the drop in the temperature was the garden's lush tangles of melon vines. But we've enjoyed dozens of delicious cantaloupes, honeydews and watermelons, so we'll be grateful for the yield and not grumble over the loss of the latecomers. And tops of the tender impatiens just shriveled up overnight.

But most of the other stuff, even the cold-sensitive tomatoes and peppers, were a foot or so higher in the garden and sheltered a bit by the weedy forest next door, otherwise known as the asparagus patch. Some took significant damage, but they weren't all totally wiped out.

So, overnight it became a gardener's "squirrel" season — the hustle-bustle time of stashing and storing all salvageable stuff from the outside, like a bushy-tail hoarding away a cache of nuts for the winter.

While the tops of the impatiens were blackened, new growth poking from lower parts of the stems remained lush and green. Sporting lopped tops and newly-pruned root balls, they've moved to more snug quarters inside the greenhouse. Keeping them company are some of the smaller geranium plants, reconfined to pots, and batches of cuttings from others too large to move indoors. When a real killer frost is imminent, the rest of these bushy beauties will also be sacarificed for more cuttings. For now, their blooms are too pretty to chop the plants into pieces until absolutely necessary.

Two hills of cucumber vines that had just set their first infant pickles got their uppermost leaves nipped by the cold, but look as though they may shrug off the initial damage. Each got an encouragement to overcome the chill in the form of a much-needed drink of water. The lush, abundant zinnias have brown-tipped blooms, but most of the stalks and buds also shrugged off the year's first threat.

There are amaryllis, arum lilies and gladoli to dig, dust and store, cleome and purple globeflower seeds to gather, impatiens and herb cuttings to take, houseplants summered on the porch to repot and relocate.....and a whole bunch of other garden chores begging to be done.

Would someone please lock Jack Frost up in the Arctic Circle for at least another month?

Decade Of Growth For Pork

DES MOINES, Iowa — It's been 10 years since consumers in 15 metropolitan areas of the United States first heard about Pork. The Other White Meat®.

In the decade since, pork has virtually gained a brand name, and it's recognized by 86 percent of consumers from coast to coast, according to the most recent Meat Attitude and Perception Tracking Study.

The nationally representative survey of 1,000 households also indicated consumers who are familiar with pork advertising view the product more favorably than those who aren't.

But who wouldn't be familiar with the landmark campaign? The pork promotion has sponsored Super Bowl telecasts and Barbara Walters' television specials, not to mention its advertisement in such diverse magazines as People and Atlantic Monthly or on numerous cable television programs.

"Consumers awareness is there. Pork is on the shopper's mind, but the challenge is for pork to be a regular entry on the weekly shopping list," said Robin Kline, Assistant Vice President of Marketing Communications for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC).

When asked to name a white meat, pork is mentioned more often than turkey and is second only to chicken. Studies indicate 61 percent of consumers regard pork as a white meat.

The number of people who give pork the highest rating has grown steadily for the past five years. Ratings for beef, chicken and fish have remained about the same, Kline said. Since the campaign began, positive perceptions of fresh pork have increased by an average of 20 percent.

RIBBONS TO RAISE AWARENESS OF BREAST HEALTH

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — How many women in the U.S. have died of breast cancer in this century? More than all the U.S. citizens killed in the combined conflicts of World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and the Persion Gulf.

Fortunately, early detection through breast self-exams, clinical exams, and mammograms can increase a woman's chance of surviving breast cancer. Unfortunately, not enough women practice these three important steps to breast health and cancer deaths continue to occur.

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Across the nation, family members, community groups and cancer colations are gearing up to remind us that through self awareness, capable medical care and family support, a woman's chance of surviving breast cancer is very good.

In Pennsylvania and New York, cancer coalitions involved in the Northern Appalachia Leadership Initiative on Cancer (NALIC) will raise awareness by wrapping 30,000 yards of pink ribbon around the trees in their communities. "While these ribbons remind us of survival and hope, they also remind us of the losses of our friends, family, and loved ones to this unfortunate disease," said Ann Ward, project manager of NALIC.

Cancer awareness, education, and early detection efforts of programs like NALIC are only part of the solution.

"The pink ribbons also will serve as a reminder that more resources for treatment are needed now to treat women who are uninsured when their cancers are found," said Ward. "And support is needed within our own communities to let women know that if they lose a breast to this disease, they will not lose the love of their families, their inherent beauty, their position in their job, or their health care coverage."

Lastly, more research funding is needed from federal and private organizations to determine the cause and best treatment of breast cancer.

"October is a time to concentrate our year-long efforts in publicizing the need for greater vigilence on the part of women for their own health care," said Cam Armstrong, NALIC field coordinator. "Anyone can learn early detection skills. Our coalitions work with the Pennsylvania Department of Health's Healthy Woman 50+ program and New York's 'Breast Health Partnerships' to provide education and free mammograms for women that fall within their income guidelines.

"Additionally, anyone can call the Cancer Information Service of the National Cancer Institute at 800-4-CANCER for information on the free mammography programs (mentioned above) cancer treatment options, and survivor issues," Armstrong noted.

NALIC was funded by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) five years ago in response to the high cancer rates that have long effected rural, low-income Appaalachian communities. In Pennsylvania, coalitions in Allegheny, Indiana, Crawford, Venango, Forest, Elk, Clearfield, Lawrence, Montour, Snyder, Susquehanna, and Tioga counties and Chautauqua and Delaware counties in New York are working to build organizational partnerships, get community people involved, encourage local leadership, and get uninsured women screened for breast and cervical cancer.

For more information on NALIC, call Ann Ward, NALIC project manager, at (814) 863-8693.

Ingenuity Promises Successful Benefit Sale

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MORGANTOWN (Berks Co.) — Benefit auctions used to consist of castaways and a few good pieces. But take a look at what Conestoga Christian School has to offer at its 24th annual country auction to be held Oct. 17-18.

The ingenuity and practicality patrons have shown in their donations shine through in an amazing variety of must-have items that everyone purchases throughout the year.

For example, how many times do you admire colorful flower gardens and wish you could duplicate the effect but don't know how? Here's your chance. To be auctioned is your choice of 10 perennials from Cindy's garden, within a mile of the school.

Other unique items to be auctioned are house cleaning services, decorated party cake when you need it, a time share vacation, dinner for 10, garden lime, concrete blocks, a car, and the list goes on.

Fred and Joanne Good, who head the solicitation committee of 20, put in months of work to make sure that the sale offers something for everyone.

In addition to furniture, quilts, wallhangings, and other typical items sold at a auction, Joanne said that this year the auction is concentrating on art work. Available art work includes Richard Bollinger's Osceola Mills, wildlife artists Dan Christ's and Ken Hunter's paintings, Susie Riehl's Amish prints, Myrtle Tremblay's pen and ink, Tom Miller's and Todd Ream's renderings of historical buildings, Nicholas Santoleri, and more.

Starting off with a chicken barbecue and craft sale on Friday Oct. 17, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., customers can order take-out through two drive-through pickup areas or eat in the gym and purchase quality handcrafted preticketed items.

Starting on Saturday morning at 6:30, whiffs of pancakes and sausage will float across the school ground during the breakfast that is served until 10 a.m.

Crafts can be purchased as early as 8 a.m. and silent bids for hundreds of gift certificates begins at 9 a.m. Those who place silent bids won't know if they cast the highest bid until 1 p.m., when the bids are made public.

Items sold over the auction block will begin at 9:30 a.m.

The artwork and Winross trucks will be auctioned at noon. At 12:30 p.m., a 1987 Chevorlet Nova will be sold.

Quilts and wall hangings will be sold at 1 p.m. Quilt patterns include Irish Chain and Hearts, Swallows in Flight, Peacock Applique, and Log Cabin varieties.

One of the unique aspects of the auction is that people have donated steers and pigs that are butchered, cut, and frozen in prepackaged lots from 12-15 pounds. Throughout the day, these meat packages will be sold among specialty items such as sports memorabilia, a handmade marble roller, a six-foot corner cupboard, and other items.

Plenty of food such as apple dumplings, pies, baked goods, pork roast, soups, and pizza will be available throughout the day.

All proceeds will benefit the fully-accredited school, which has 260 students from kindergarten through 12th grade. The benefit auction is held to help keep tuition affordable. The Goods, like many of the patrons, said that they send their children to the school because of the role models in teaching and administration.

"We can teach our children spiritual values at home, but we believe it is important that they see these values lived out in teachers and administration," Joanne said.

Conestoga Christian School is located along Rt. 23, one mile west of Morgantown at 2760 Main St.

For more information, call the school at (610) 286-0353.

Joanne Good said that artwork and perennials are only a few of the many items to be auctioned at the 24th annual Country Auction to benefit Conestoga Christian School. The auction will be held at the school on Oct.17-18.

Pork Continues To Satisfy Palates

Pork is the world's most widely consumed meat. Pork accounts for 40 percent of the world's meat consumption.

Eight cuts of fresh pork carry even less external fat, yield more lean meat, and contain lower fat and cholesterol levels than they did eight years ago, according to a study conducted by the University of Wisconsin.

In a nationally representative survey of 1,000 households, consumers, when asked to name a white meat, mentioned pork more often than turkey and was second only to chicken.

The number of people who give pork the highest rating has grown steadily for the past five years. Ratings for beef, chicken, and fish have remained about the same. In fact, the pork industry has been the most profitable sector of U.S. agriculture over the last 10 years.

HAM AND CORN FRITTERS

1½ cups cooked or canned corn
¾ cup ground cooked ham
¼ teaspoon black pepper
½ cup all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 large eggs, slightly beaten
6 tablespoons oil for frying

Mix all ingredients except oil. Heat oil in skillet. Drop in ham and corn mixture by tablespoonful. Saute until golden brown on both sides.

Makes 6 servings.

CREOLE PORK AND SPAGHETTI BAKE

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 cup chopped onions
1 pound lean ground pork
2 cups cooked spaghetti
1 cup cooked or canned diced tomatoes
1 cup grated cheese (mozzarella, provolone, parmesan)
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 2-quart casserole dish. Set aside. Brown onions and ground pork in olive oil. Add spaghetti, tomatoes, cheese, and salt, and toss together. Transfer to prepared casserole dish. Sprinkle bread crumbs over top and dot with butter. Bake for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

GLAZES FOR BAKED HAM

- 1 cup brown sugar, juice, and zest of 1 orange
- 1 cup sugar, ½ cup marschino cherry juice, cider, or sweet pickle juice from pickled fruit.
- 1 cup honey
- 1 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon mustard
- 1 cup pureed apricots, rhubarb or applesauce
- 1 glass currant jelly, melted
- ¾ cup pineapple juice, ¾ cup honey, ½ teaspoon mustard (cooked until thickened)
- ½ teaspoon maple syrup, ½ cup cider or apple juice, 2 tablespoons mustard
- ½ cup orange marmalade
- Cook ½ -pound fresh cranberries with 1 cup maple syrup until skins pop open. Press mixture through sieve and spread over ham.
- Use cloves with pineapples and apricots
- Maraschino cherries and mint leaves when you cut diamond shapes over ham.
- 1 cup honey, 1 tablespoon mustard
- 1½ cups brown sugar, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, rubbed on ham, 1½ hours before finished, pour 12-ounce Coca-Cola over and around ham. Baste with the Coke during remaining cooking time.

CORIANDER-PEPPER CHOPS

4 boneless pork chops, about 1-inch thick
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon crushed coriander seed
1 tablespoons coarsely ground black pepper
1 tablespoon brown sugar
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Combine all ingredients except the pork chops. Place chops in a shallow dish and pour marinade over; let marinade 30 minutes. Prepare medium-hot coals, banked, in grill bed. Remove pork form marinade, discarding marinade, and grill chops for 7-8 minutes, turning once. Or broil chops 3-4 inches from a heat source for 7-8 minutes, turning once.

Servings 4. Per 3-ounce serving: 204 calories, 26 gm protein; 6 gm fat; 255 mg sodium; 66 mg cholesterol.

Nat. Pork Producers

Coriander-Pepper Chops require only five minutes of preparation and 15 minutes of cooking time.

PORK CHOPS IN MUSHROOMS

6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 cup vegetable oil
12 center-cut loin pork chops, ½ -inch thick
1 cup all-purpose flour
Salt and ground white pepper to taste
2 medium onions, chopped
2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
¼ cup rich chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon dried leaf thyme

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a saucepan, melt butter, add 6 tablespoons flour, making a roux by simmering for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Set aside.

Heat oil in skillet, mix flour, salt and pepper; dredge the pork chops in flour mixture and brown on both sides then transfer to large casserole dish. Repeat until all pork chops are browned.

Pour off excess oil, turn down heat and saute onions and mushrooms until wilted. Add broth and deglaze skillet, scraping the bottom while stirring; bring to a boil.

Reduce heat to simmer and whisk in roux, milk, and thyme. Continue whisking until thickened and a gravy is formed. Pour over pork chops in cassrole dish and bake for 40 minutes. Serve with rice, noodles or potatoes. Makes 6 servings.

Do you have children learning to cook?

Do your children sometimes prepare dinner when you're busy in the barn?

Then you'll be interested in helping them learn cooking skills that extend beyond warm ups, hot dogs, and hamburgers.

The National Pork Producers Council offers a free copy of a new eight-page recipe brochure, "Kids' Pork Cookbook." In addition to recipes, the brochure tells how to shop for pork cuts that are most popular with kids such as pork chops, ground pork, and pork loin. Properly cooked pork will be juicy but the juices should be clear—not red. Overcooked pork will be tough and dry.

For a copy of the brochure, send a business-sized, addressed, stamped envelope to Kids' Pork Cookbook, NPPC, P.O. Box 10383, Des Moines, Iowa 50306.

Here is a recipe from the booklet.

BARBECUE PORK CHOPS

4 boneless center cut pork chops, ⅔ -inch thick
½ cup reduced-fat Italian salad dressing
½ cup barbecue sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder

In small bowl, stir together Italian salad dressing, barbecue sauce, and chili powder. Place pork chops in plastic container. Coat chops with ½ cup sauce. Cover container and marinate in refrigerator for 30 minutes or overnight. Drain marinade from pork and throw away.

heat non-stick skillet over medium-high heat. Place pork chops in skillet and cook for a few minutes on both sides. Pour the remaining sauce over the chops and cover the pan. Turn heat to low and simmer for 5 minutes. Serve immediately, topped with sauce.

Serve with corn and oven-roasted potato wedges. Serves 4.

Living On A Reduced Income — Bartering

When there's no job and the pay-check dwindles, you're not without resources. Take stock of all non-dollar resources you have as a family. Among these assets are time, knowledge, possessions, property, and creativity.

Swapping resources with others is a time-tested way to stay in control when money is tight. Be creative. Think through the assets you have. List these skills, talents, interests or craft items. Next, try to match your skills and goods to community needs. Try making your first swap with a friend, neighbor or relative to build your confidence.

Why Barter?

Bartering is a way out of a "money mentality." It places value on human resources and not commodities. It increases cash flow and buying power, stretches resources, extends goods and services to those on low or fixed income, taps relatively wasted talents and resources, and can involve all family members.

The challenge of bartering is making the right exchange. Some communities have a clearinghouse, groups or publications to help. There are also national groups and clubs for this purpose. One obstacle that discourages some individuals from bartering is determining value for value. Any material expense should be paid before services are rendered and should be paid for by those receiving goods and services.

Determine your expectations in advance to avoid misunderstandings.

Guide To Successful Bartering

• Know who will supply needed materials. Usually it is the receiver, but the provider in some cases may have the needed tools — such as a lawn mower. When materials must be purchased, work together to determine specifics, cost limits, quality of materials, deadline and other details that could become irritants.

• Don't assume anything. Be sure to agree on the details of exactly what will be done. Be sure expectations are clear to all. In some cases a contract or written agreement may be necessary.

When You Provide A Service

• Be sure you are clear on details of expected service. Don't take on tasks that are over your head.

• Keep the receiver well informed on your progress. Inform the receiver also of any problems or delays.

If You Receive A Service

• Carefully explain and supervise work to be done. Don't be caught with a completed job that is not what you expected.

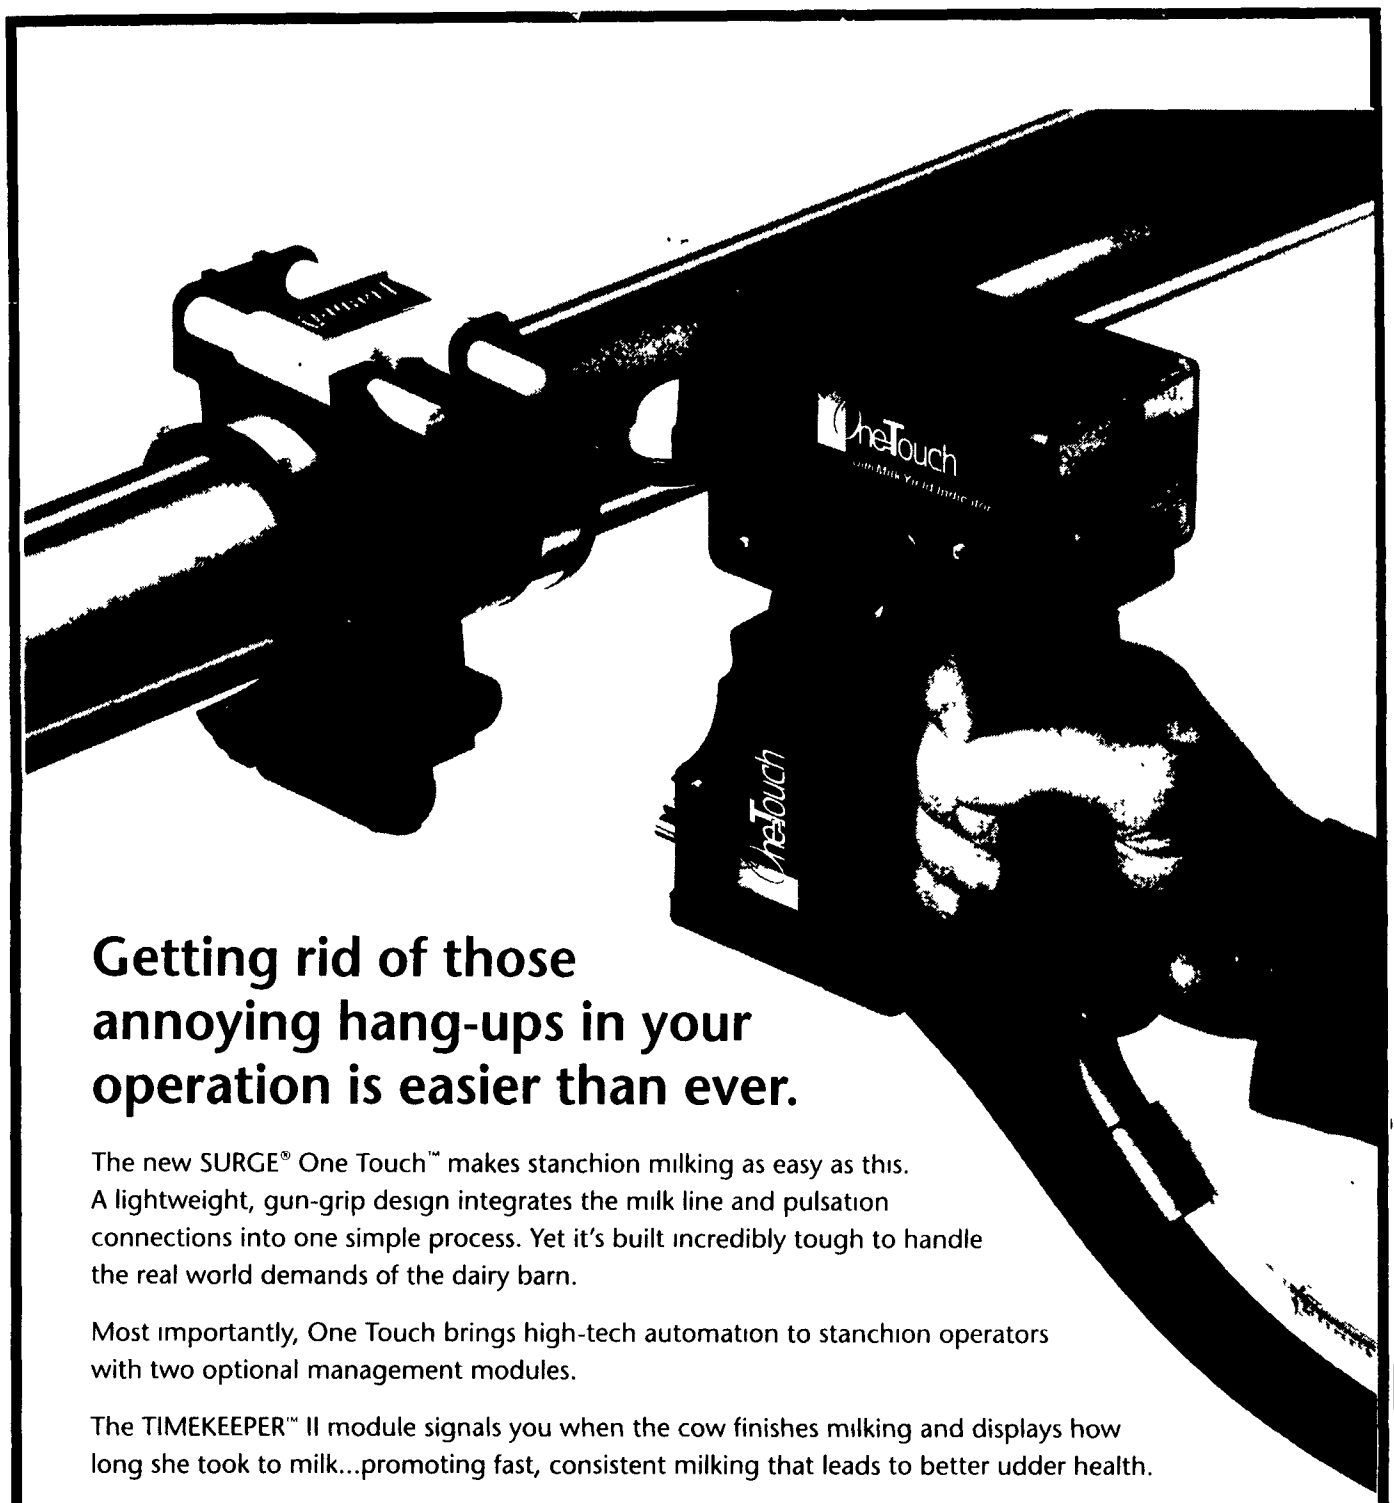
• Don't hesitate to check the provider's qualifications.

Swine Herds To Participate In Research Project

DES MOINES, Iowa — The National Pork producers Council (NPPC), in cooperation with USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and the American Association of Swine Practitioners, has begun a pilot investigation of the epidemiology of acute Porcine Reproductive and Respiratory Syndrome (PRRS).

These groups are collaborating for the first time to respond to an animal health issue. The pilot study will be of an acute form of PRRS that was observed throughout 1996 in several states.

The pilot research will look at current outbreaks of acute PRRS and study herds that were previously affected. Lautner said producers experiencing significant reproductive losses and preweaning piglet mortality should contact their veterinarians for possible inclusion in the study.



Getting rid of those annoying hang-ups in your operation is easier than ever.

The new SURGE® One Touch™ makes stanchion milking as easy as this. A lightweight, gun-grip design integrates the milk line and pulsation connections into one simple process. Yet it's built incredibly tough to handle the real world demands of the dairy barn.

Most importantly, One Touch brings high-tech automation to stanchion operators with two optional management modules.

The TIMEKEEPER™ II module signals you when the cow finishes milking and displays how long she took to milk...promoting fast, consistent milking that leads to better udder health.

The Milk Yield Module measures individual cow production and milking time, allowing instant analysis of each cow's performance.

By putting today's production information at your fingertips, the SURGE One Touch lets you capture your cow's performance in the palm of your hand.

Lead Line Contestants Demonstrate Poise

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A demonstration of the uses of wool products in clothing and garments and the ability to model those articles of clothes with a pleasing self-confidence, character and style are what judges sought Oct. 4 in Harrisburg of the 31 contestants in the Keystone Lead Line contest, part of the 41st Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE).

The sheep industry developed the Lead Line constest as a way of educating youth about the uses of wool and sheep products in clothing people. As a competition, participation has been growing around the state and especially at KILE.

While Lead Line contests are held at various fairs, the contest at KILE presents the greatest local competition, as participants are from several states and are usually youth involved in the industry, and from homes with sheep breeding operations.

The KILE competition recognizes three age divisions — senior, ages 16-19; intermediate, ages 13-15; and junior, ages 9-12.

The youth, male and female, are dressed in outfits of their choice comprised of wool and related products and lead a sheep, which is usually adorned with some kind of matching or complementary articles, such as a scarf, hat or bow.

The contestants of each age group present themselves first as a group before a table of three judges, and then individually.

During the individual judging, each participant entered the showring with his or her animal, walked half-way around the perimeter of the showring, half circling the stage, and then handed the lead of their animal to show assistant Kyle Fleener, of Robesonia.

All the while this was happening, a prepared talk about the outfit and the contestant was read by a show official.

With Fleener tending to their animal, each individual contestant then modeled their outfit from the stage — a small, center-showring platform that served as the stage and runway for each contestant to model their outfit.

At the end of the presentation, the participant then resumed their walk around and out of the ring.

The entire group returned to the ring for a semi-final review. This judging was done for each of the groups before the final judging, when each group returned to the show ring for a final decision by the judges.

In addition to the awards and plaques received through the competition, a number of other awards were made to individual contestants based on some non-contestant specific, such as that they led a specific breed sheep in the ring.

Senior Division

In the senior division, Kathy Musser, 16, of Mt. Joy, was the winner. Leading a Dorset yearling ewe by her side, Musser wore a brown and blue plaid dress, that was designed and sewn by Kathy and her mother.

The semi-fitted dress was made of 100-percent wool and featured a blue denim collar, 19 covered buttons, long sleves and a four-gored skirt.

She outfitted the ewe with a matching scarf.

Musser is a student at Donegal High School and is in her fourth year with with Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club, currently serving as its treasurer.

In second place in the senior divison was Rebecca Mitchell, 16, of Skaneateles, N.Y., who works on her family farm with 120 sheep and other animals. She owns a flock of Oxord, Jacob and Scottish Blackface sheep. She led a Scottish Blackface yearling ewe. She noted that the breed represents the only type of wool New Zealand has to import.

Mitchell's self-made outfit was a fully-lined black evening dress of 100-percent wool, except for the sheer sleeve fabric. It featured a rear kick pleat and a hand-knitted lace yoke. She wore black suede shoes and a pair of self-made black cufflinks to accessorize.

In third place in the senior division was Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen Andrea Musser, 19, of New Middletown, Ohio, who led a Suffolk yearling ewe.

She wore a red single-breasted jacket of 100-percent wool with black button, narrow black trim on the collar, lapels and double-breasted pockets. She also wore a black wool skirt, and wide-brimmed red wool hat with a black satin bow. She wore black pumps and gold accessories.

Currently a pre-vet and agricultural education student at Ohio State University, she has also been a 4-H member for 11 years and this year showed market lambs and breeding sheep as well as competed in showmanship at her county fair, the National Junior Suffolk Show, and other local and state shows.

Intermediate Division

In the intermediate division, Candice Mascarenas, 15, of Concord, Ohio, was the champion, leading à Hamshire ewe.

She wore a self-made 4-H sewing project outfit of a 100-percent short wool tan coat with a button front, detailed shoulders and matching scarf, as well as dark brown 100-percent Woolrich wool trousers with straight legs, a fly front, buttons closure and belt loops. She also wore a multi-plaide semi-fitted jacket with brown trim that featured princess seaming and a shaped front hemline.

She also wore a brown hat and brown leather gloves.

Paula Jo Gevin from Cochranton, Crawford County was another contestant. The 17-year-old daughter of Milo and Margaret Gevin raises 20 registered Shropshires, Oxfords, and Cheviots.

The 1996-97 state queen Andrea Musser told the audience about her promotional efforts during the past year. Whether with strangers or friends, Andrea's favorite subject is sheep and her personal slogan is "Eat lamb, eat lamb, eat more lamb, and serve some to the neighbors."

Susan Eshelman is state coordinator for the state wool queen contest. Master of ceremonies for the event was Stephanie Bowman, the 1995 Pennsylvania lamb and wool queen. Judges were sheep breeders from Berks County Nancy Bowman, Lenhartsville, and Ruth Hartman, Limekiln.

Here are recipes from the contestants:

Buffalo Chips
Heidi Svonavec

1 loaf party rye
1 pound ground beef
1 pound ground sausage
1 pound ground lamb
1 pound Velveeta cheese, cubed
1 tablespoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon basil
1 tablespoon oregano

Brown meats, drain fat. Cube cheese and mix with warm meat until melted. Add spices and stir until blended. Place one heaping tablespoon or more on each slice party rye. Place on cookie sheet, and bake at 350 degrees for 10-15 minutes or until mixture is heated through.

Shelley Patton's
Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb, cubed
1 large onion, sliced
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup potatoes, cubed
Salt and pepper
2-3 tablespoons oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup carrots, sliced
10-ounce package frozen peas

Brown lamb in oil. Add all the ingredients except peas. Place in a slow cooker on low heat for eight hours. Add the peas. Cook one hour more. Serves 6 to 8.

Paula Gevin's
Lamb & Cheese
Canape Spread

1 pound ground lamb
1 clove crushed garlic
3 tablespoons ketchup
16 ounces cream cheese
1 tablespoon horseradish
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine one pound ground lamb and a clove of crushed garlic. Cook over low heat until browned, stirring occasionally. Drain off drippings. Stir in ketchup, cream cheese, horseradish, and salt and pepper to taste. Spread on crackers.

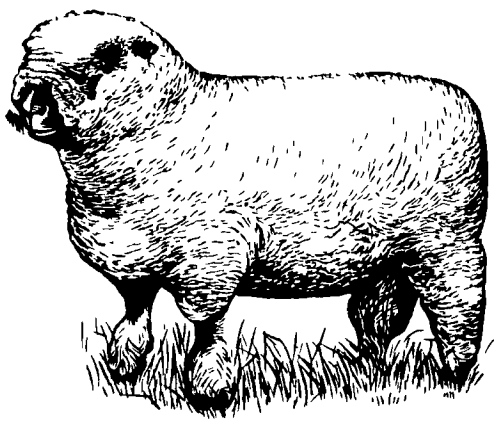
Youth Make Creative Presentations In Manheim Lead Line Competition

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The sheep industry promoters put their best foot forward in Shepherd's Lead Line competition. But when you have a youth lead line show, you not only give the spectators an opportunity to see the best of the sheep industry, you have a group of attractive young people who make their parents and the community proud.

When the contestants are almost smaller than the yearling sheep that accompany them, and these small ones dress up in wool like miniture men and women, the term "cute" comes to mind.

That's what happened Monday night at the Manheim Farm Show when the fair association and the Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club sponsored a lead line competition for three youth classes. Senior, junior, and boys divisions brought out 18 young people dressed in their best wool clothes that often matched or complemented the sheep they led before the judges.



In the senior division, Sarah Zurin, 16, Mount Joy, won first place. Sarah modeled an olive 100 percent wool button-front jacket over a cream turtleneck. It coordinated well with her handmade plaid 100 percent wool A-Line skirt. Her sheep Neue (German for new) sported a matching collar. Born on New Years Day, and thus the name, Neue is a Jacob/Dorset

In the Boys division, Gabriel Bowman, 17, Drumore, won first place. He sported a black wool coat fitted at the waist and had a double vented flair at the back. His dark gray wool slacks contrasted with the coat and his red vest caught your eye. A red neck tie had rows of sheep, all white but for one, in tribute to his black Lincoln companion ewe. He wore an English style wool cap.

Ashley Funk, Millersville, won the junior division. The dress Ashley modeled was perfect for any young lady. It combined a country look with a feminine flair. The fabric and style were selected to go well with a full gathered skirt and coordinating petticoat. Long puff sleeves with a band and a Peter Pan collar gave a finishing touch to the outfit. A Lancaster County quilt piece placed around her favorite ewe's neck made them a real match. Named Lacy, her sheep is a Hampshire.

Other top placings included Kathy Musser and Laura Newcomer, both from Mount Joy, in the senior division; Michael Musser, Mount Joy, and Casey Seibert, Ephrata, in the boys division; and Bobbie Bentzel, Manheim, and Kelsey Bowman, Drumore, in the junior division.

Contestants Demonstrate Poise

Jamie Fought shows her handmade jacket, skirt and beret, while leading a yearling Hampshire ewe wearing a matching scarf.

Macarenas said that she has been participating in lead line contests at the Ohio State Fair for 13 years, as well as in her county fair, and the North American Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky. She has been involved in a number of 4-H activities and has had projects in cooking, sewing, sheep breeding, saddle horse and junior fairboard.

In second place in the intermediate division was Jamie Fought, 13, of Carlisle, who led a Hampshire ewe and modeled her self-made outfit of a jacket, skirt and beret made from 100-percent wool.

The jacket was hip-length, black, semi-fitted and lined, with princess seams and coordinated collar and buttons. The flared skirt was also lined and made from black and dark magenta checked wool with a matching beret. The lamb wore a matching scarf.

Fought is a four-year member of the Cumberland County 4-H Livestock Club, and she owns and shows Hampshires, Dorsets, and market lambs. Recently, the 8th-grade student started a flock of Southdown sheep.

Third place in the intermediate division was Cassandra Schaeffer, 15, of Myerstown, who led a Jacob yearling ewe.

Cassandra wore a two-piece black, grey and white plaid 85-precent wool outfit.

Her straight skirt was fully lined with slits on the sides, a waistband with beltloops. A fully lined form-fitted vest with silver buttons and side tabs. She also wore a white blouse and tights. She wore black patent leather loafers and a black belt. She also had a 100-percent grey wool hat with a black band.

She is a member of the Lebanon County 4-H Sheep Club and the county livestock judging team.

Junior Division

In the junior division, the winner was Laura Hunter, 9, of Cassadaga, N.Y., who modeled a 100-percent wool, self-made outfit that included an imperial blue vest with gold buttons, a fully lined wrap-around skirt of matching plaid, matching woolen head band, book bag, white blouse and knee highs.

She led a Dorset ewe outfitted with a matching woolen halter cover. that she has been showing for two years. She has been showing Dorset sheep at KILE for four years, as well as at Northeast regional and All-American shows.

In second place, Kelsey Bowman, 10, of Drumore, wore a 100-percent wool red plaid skirt and vest with a matching tam and red socks. She lead a Lincoln ewe outfitted with a matching scarf and tam.

A home-schooled fifth grade student, she is a second-year member of the Lancaster County Woolies Sheep Club, and she also belongs to the county's Rough Riders Horse and Pony Club, and Lancaster Production Club. She has shown a market lamb and breeding ewe at area fairs this year, and qualified for the state 4-H horse show.

The third place winner in the junior division was Emmalynn Little, 11, of Churchville, Md., who led a Jacob yearling ewe.

Little's self-made outfit was a 100-percent plaid wool tailored jacket with buttons, and a pleated skirt. It had a velvet collar and cuffs. She also wore a hat and a pin as accessories.

Treasurer of the Harford County 4-H Livestock Club and a member of the county livestock judging team, she raises 35 Jacob, Cotswold and Dorset sheep and shows them throughout the summer.

Laura Huber Named Manheim Queen

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — For Laura Huber, the new Manheim Farm Show queen, Monday night was one to remember. Not only did she receive the crown in competition with nine other contestants, Laura got to meet Samuel Hayes Jr., Pennsylvania's secretary of agriculture.

Hayes has been visiting many of the community fairs across the state and came to Manheim through the invitation of Earl Geib, president of the farm show.

Hayes toured the fair and spoke briefly at the hog show before visiting the queen contest.

Hayes complimented the community spirit at Manheim and said the fair was a strong showcase of agriculture and Lancaster County.

Laura Huber is the daughter of Carol and Larry Huber, Manheim. The first runner-up in the fair queen contest was Emily Heistand, daughter of David and Claudia Heistand. Second runner-up was Amie Shelley, daughter of Dave and Freda Shelley.

After only one entry in the contest last year, officials said that in their memory, the 10 applicants this year made it the largest class ever to compete at the Manheim Fair queen contest.

PORK PIE

1 recipe plain pastry
2 pounds lean pork, cubed
2¼ cups pork stock or water
½ teaspoon salt, to taste
1 bay leaf
1 cup diced carrots
2 cups diced potatoes
½ cup diced onions

Brown cubes of pork in fat. Add stock or water, salt, and bay leaf. Cover and cook slowly for 40 minutes. Remove bay leaf and add carrots, potatoes, and onions. Cook for 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Transfer mixture to casserole dish. Cover dish with pastry. Bake in hot oven at 450 degrees for 20 minutes or until browned. Serves 6 to 8.

MAPLE-MUSTARD-GLAZED PORK ROAST

2 pound boneless pork loin roast
¼ cup maple syrup
3 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
Salt and pepper; to taste

Stir together maple syrup, mustard, vinegar, soy sauce, salt and pepper. Spread evenly over pork roast and place in shallow pan. Roast pork in a 350 degree oven for about 45 minutes to 1¼ hours until internal temperature, measured with a meat thermometer, reaches 160 degrees. Remove roast from oven and let rest 10 minutes before slicing to serve.

Make-It-With-Wool Is More Than Fashion Show

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — An eye-catching fashion show held at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) Sunday did more than stop area pedestrian traffic.

Onlookers saw the amazingly versatility of wool fabrics in vastly different textures, patterns, and finishes. Outfits made from wool T-shirt knits, challis, crepe, beaver, tweed, and the more familiar Woolrich and Pendleton wools showed that wool is truely a miracle fiber for fine tailoring and creative design.

Participants in the Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool (MIYWW) contest modeled outfits that they had spent months sewing for the event. Garments were judged on having a professional, finished look with 60 percent of the score based on fashion and 40 percent on construction.

Four divisions were held for the 15 participants. Although winners were selected from each category, the Pennsylvania MIYWW can afford to send only one contestant to the national convention in Reno, Nev.

Heidi Shroyk, junior winner, will receive the expense-paid trip. Heidi sewed a navy blue dress with a checked navy blue and red short-cropped jacket.

If there is enough funding, Michelle Cornman, senior division winner, will also receive an expense-paid trip. Michelle stitched navy pants with a coordinating plaid jacket in navy and sand colors. Michelle is from Carlisle and attends Penn State studying dairy and animal science.

Preteen winner was Susanna Lyden of Industry and Elisa Grieco was runner-up. Runner-up in the junior division was Janelle Hoover of Denver. With the same dark green wool dress trimmed with black velvet collar and cuffs, Janelle had been a state finalist in the 4-H Fashion Revue.

Pam Marburger, defending state champion of the adult division, returned this year with a stunning interchangeable wardrobe of nine pieces.

A dairy farmwife and mother of two daughters from Crawford County, Pam used wool fabric presented to her for winning last year's state competition.

Her interchangeable wardrobe was built around navy blue tailored wool pants with a coordinating plaid jacket, a reversible vest, a skirt, wool-grain knit T-shirt top, and a red Woolrich coat with matching hat. She accessorized her outfit with a matching scrunchie for her hair and a fabric tote bag.

Although Pam will not be traveling to the national competition, she will still compete. Pam will send professional photographs to the national MIYWW headquarters, where her garments will be judged against those from adult winners in other states.

In the Make-It-With-Wool competition, Heidi Shroyk, right, wins the state junior title and receives an expense-paid trip to national competition. Junior runner-up is Janelle Hoover.

"I'm shooting for the national title. Last year I entered the state contest for the first time and won, but I did not have time to send professional photographs to national competition. I needed to win at the state level again to enter national competition," Pam said.

Runner-up in the adult division was Joan Klein of Darlington, who with her husband, George, raises purebred Herefords. Joan modeled a red wool suit.

Judges were Bert Antram, Cindy Dlugolecki, and Marie Keiffer. State directors are Jodell Antram and Barbara Ann Shaffer.

CENTRE HALL (Centre Co.) — The Centre County Open Class Dairy Show was held recently at the Grange Fairgrounds in Centre Hall.

The show began at 9:30 a.m. and lasted approximately six hours. Judging this year's show was Steve Woods, a dairy farmer from Adams County.

Mary Anne Clouser of Madisonburg was the owner of the grand champion/reserve grand champion Milking Shorthorn. The grand champion was Gladell Hillary, a junior 3-year-old, and Gladell Mandie, an 8-year-old cow, was the reserve grand champion. Clouser also owned Gladell Chalsey, reserve junior champion, and Gladell Wind Fantom, junior champion.

Ron Hough Jr. of Rebersburg had a banner day. He was named premier exhibitor. Not only did he exhibit the senior champion/grand champion Holstein, C-Loch-An Brae Sky Notcho, a 4-year-old, and the reserve senior champion/reserve grand champion, Valleys-End Charles Mint, a senior 2-year-old, but also the junior champion, a fall calf, Valleys-End Charles Cara-ET. Reserve junior champion was Fairbrook-Farms BC Louise, a winter calf owned by Fairbrook Farms. Stringers Sandy Ridge Farm, owned by Bill and Joyce Stringer of Bellefonte along with their children Craig, Brian, Karen, and Scott, were named premier breeder.

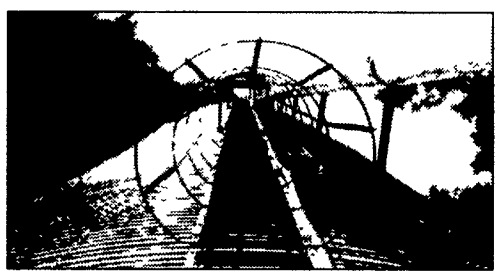
Silo Unloader Technology Takes a Giant Leap Forward!

BIG JIM Quantum SYSTEM

TOWER SILOS REALLY MEASURE UP!



Measure for measure, nothing beats a tower silo for storing forage. Just compare them to bunkers which have up to 45% storage loss, lower capacity, increased labor and lots of inconvenience.

Towers lose just 3% to 7% because of gravity, feed weight and a good unloader like the Big Jim QUANTUM System.

QUANTUM can be installed in any type of 20' to 30' forage silo. . . conventional or oxygen limited and will make your tower silo even better!

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Bonnie Hertzler, Lititz, would like to know if anyone knows how to make "Honey Boys," like those made by the Federal Bake Shop, W. King St., Lancaster. The great-tasting cookies looked like gingerbread man with raisins to decorate the face and belly.

QUESTION — Several months ago E. Stoltzfoos, Bird in Hand, cut out a cookie recipe from this section. She lost the recipe but recalls that some of the ingredients were whole wheat flour, wheat germ, oatmeal, nuts, and honey. Does anyone know to what recipe she is referring? Please send a copy.

QUESTION — An anonymous reader sent in a recipe for gingerbread baked in a jar and a number for the internet to receive more recipes. The internet number is wrong as printed. Could the person who sent in the number, please send the correct number plainly printed for publication.

QUESTION — A New Jersey readers has lost her recipe for a wonderful muffin that contained carrots, apples, raisins, etc.

QUESTION — Susan Memmorich requests a recipe for German Apple Cake.

QUESTION — Susan Rzucidlo, Newark, Del., writes that while in Louisiana, she had guinea fricassee, which had a dark gravy and was delicious. Does anyone have the recipe?

QUESTION — Susan Rzucidlo, Newark, Del., lost her recipe for dill muffins that were light and airy and included cottage cheese.

QUESTION — G. Halteman would like a recipe for homemade butter made out of goat's milk. (According to an answer in this column, a butter recipe using cow's milk is interchangeable with goat's milk).

QUESTION — Jane Freed, Perkasie, is looking for a recipe for custard pumpkin pie, which has a layer of pumpkin on bottom and egg custard on top with a cinnamon top. She would like something similar to that made by Sadie's Bakery in Churchville.

QUESTION — A reader tasted a delicious cottage cheese soup at the Red Fox Inn at Snowshoe. Does anyone have a recipe for cottage cheese soup.

QUESTION — Susan Harris of Lexinggton, Va., sends an urgent request for peach butter, which is prepared outside and cooked all day over an open fire similar to the method of preparing apple butter.

QUESTION — J.R. Hohmeier of Painter, Va., is looking for a recipe for making Farmer cheese without rennet.

QUESTION — Meg from Pittsburgh would appreciate a simple recipe for apple sorbet.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Litttlestown, writes that she has successfully made sauerkraut for more than 15 years. However, this year, the cabbage she shredded and salted in a crock stopped fermenting after only one week. The mixture has not gone bad, but it has a different consistency and only a hint of the yellow color of sauerkraut and not much taste. Does anyone know what she had done wrong? She used pickling salt and placed a weighted plastic bag on top of the mixture. Perhaps some of the water in the bag leaked out, she drained off the excess water, but it hasn't helped. Any suggestions on how to save this batch?

QUESTION — Carl Schintzel, Rockaway, N.J., remembers his mother used to make seasoned rice with cubed pieces of veal in it, which cooked all day on a wood or coal range. He doesn't remember the name or any other ingredients it might have contained, but the mixture was made in a deep gray graniteware lidded pot.

QUESTION — Mary Dengler, Middletown, Ohio, would like a recipe for 10-grain bread that tastes similar to that made by Roscoe Village Bakery in Coshocton, Ohio.

QUESTION — Anna Martin, Denver, would like a recipe for stewed tomatoes.

QUESTION — Renee Nissley, Middletown, has mammouth sunflowers in her garden and needs to know how to roast the seeds.

QUESTION — Marlene Martin, Ephrata, would like to have a recipe for a lemon poppy seed cake that is very moist.

Tomato Preserves

1 pound tomatoes, peeled, thinly sliced
¾ pound sugar
Let stand one hour. Add:
½ thinly sliced lemon with rind
Cook until tomatoes are clear and juice is thickened. Yellow tomatoes may also be used.

ANSWER — Irene Greer from Richwood, W. Va., wanted to know what process is used to dry corn and how it is prepared for the table once it is dried.

Thanks to a Manheim reader who sent in numerous recipes for preparing it. Dried corn may be purchased in several Lancaster County farmer's markets and in some bulk food sections.

To Dry Corn

Husk sweet corn. Cover corn on the cob and boil 5 minutes in water to cover. Cut corn off cobs. Dry in food dehydrator until dry. Store in glass jars in cool, dark place.

Baked Dried Corn

Grind:
1¼ cups dried corn in blender
Add:
5 cups milk
2 teaspoons salt
4 well-beaten eggs
3½ tablespoons melted butter
3 tablespoons sugar
Mix well. Bake at 375 degrees in buttered 2-quart casserole for 60 minutes.

Stewed Dried Corn

1¼ cups dried corn
3½ cups boiling water
Soak 1 hour. Add:
3 teaspoons sugar
Pinch salt
Pat butter
Simmer 30 minutes. Add:
1 cup milk
Cook 5 minutes.

Creamed Dried Corn

1¼ cups dried corn
3½ cups milk
Refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Add:
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons butter
Stir. Bring to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer 30 minutes. Stir occasionally.

Microwave Baked Dried Corn

1¼ cups dried corn, ground in blender
Place in 2-quart dish. Add:
3½ cups milk
3 tablespoons sugar
3½ tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, beaten
Microwave on high 12 minutes. Stir. Microwave 12-15 minutes or until cooked through.

ANSWER — A reader from Stewartstown wanted a recipe for a brownie made from a German chocolate cake mix, cream cheese, and miniature chocolate chips. Thanks to several readers for sending a recipe.

Cream Cheese Brownies

1 package chocolate cake mix, prepared and poured into 15x10x1-inch pan. Mix together:
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 egg
½ cup sugar
½ cup small chocolate chips
Drop by teaspoons onto batter. Cut through with a knife to swirl. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes.

Pizza Crust

1 cup Bisquick mix
1 cup bread flour or part whole wheat flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup buttermilk or milk
Combine ingredients and roll dough onto large, floured cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees.

FFA

FFA Leadership Training

Milton Hershey School FFA students joined FFA chapter representatives from Cumberland Valley, Dauphin, and Perry counties at a recent FFA Leadership Training Workshop at the Penn-Del Conference Center in Carlisle.

A highlight of the conference was a presentation by guest speaker Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture IPM Coordinator Lee B. Bentz. In his role with the Department of Agriculture, Bentz oversees issues related to animal waste and pest management, focusing on natural methods of pest control. Prior to serving on the IPM Committee, Bentz served on the Department's Soil Conservation Committee for 30 years.

Additional conference presenters and on-site coordinators included FFA officers, FFA Central Region Vice President Bobbie Jo Kauffman, and FFA State Secretary Nicki Over.

According to MHS FFA Historian Amy Sakers, training sessions focused on a variety of topics such as leadership, teamwork, and Supervised Agricultural Experience (SAE) — a system of record keeping used by FFA members to keep track of agricultural experiences and projects.

Amy gave an example of team-building exercises. "In the teamwork session, we learned to listen and work together using play dough, straws, and pipe cleaners to represent a famous name," Amy explained. "Another session consisted of reviewing a program and ways to get all members involved."

According to MHS student and MHS FFA Secretary Karen Ames, she came to the conference hoping to learn more leadership skills and she left with just that. Karen said that her favorite part of the conference was a team-building exercise which required the group to "select" people to live in a bomb shelter and make a new world after a make-believe war was over.

Throughout the conference, FFA officers provided guidance and helped build rapport by organizing and conducting a number of social "mixers" and "ice breakers." Kauffman, a graduate of Greenwood High School, said the conference provided an opportunity for her to help with the day's activities and to meet some of this year's FFA leaders. She noted that both she and Over are eager to begin their upcoming chapter tours, during which they will visit all of the state FFA chapters.

In addition to Amy and Karen, MHS students who attended the conference with MHS Agricultural and Environmental Education Instructor and FFA Co-Adviser Todd Biddle included MHS FFA Junior Advisor Consuelo Serrano, MHS FFA Reporter Dawn Pullin, MHS FFA Treasurer Ricardo Sepulveda, and MHS FFA Vice President Sharon Murray.

Pork Month Promotions

DES MOINES, Iowa — The U.S. pork industry will have two major promotions under way this fall during National Pork Month to encourage consumers to purchase more pork.

Since 1972, the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) has celebrated October as National Pork Month. That's because it traditionally is the time of year when more pork products are available for consumers at the meatcase. Approximately 23,000 retail food stores will take part in pork promotions this fall, says John Hagerla, NPPC director of retail marketing.

Pork's role in breakfast will be the focus of the Pork Lovers' Breakfast promotion from September through November. According to consumer research, bacon, sausage and ham continue to help make pork the most popular meat during breakfast, says Robin Kline, M.S., R.D., NPPC assistant vice president of marketing communications.

Just in time for elegant holiday dining, in October the pork industry will launch the "Rack of Pork, The Next Tradition" promotion in retail food stores. The promotion, which will run through the holiday season, will be supported by an appetizing color advertisement of the rack of pork dish. The advertisement will run in 13 national magazines including Ladies' Home Journal, People and Bon Apetit.

This is the 10th anniversary of the Pork. The Other White Meat® advertising campaign, says Kline.

Now that the mornings are cool and the evenings too, we know that fall has really arrived. The chestnut burrs have opened and thrown nuts in the tall grass. They can be roasted or boiled before eating them.

We didn't see very many colored leaves on trees as we drove to the Bloomsburg Fair. But when we got there we saw many displays of fruits, flowers, an vegetables. One winner was a very large 458-pound pumpkin. The second-place one was only three pounds less. What a disappointment that must have been to the grower. There certainly are many, many kinds of chickens and rabbits. As the day was rainy, we postponed going to the races and by so doing, we missed them entirely.

My daughter-in-law and I attended a Homemaker's School here in the County. There were over a thousand people from a large area as many prizes were given away. They ranged from bags of groceries to cash and appliances.

Of course, they advertised many well-known brands of food in the recipes that were prepared for the audience. In fact so many used prepackaged food, that I fear that not many will appear in my kitchen.

For 45 years I could say that I never bought a cake mix. Although, recently I've used a few when I was rushed with vegetables and fruits to be preserved. So far this year I've frozen more than 250 quarts of food that I grew and I have canned more than 100 quarts of fruit and tomatoes. So with all of this, my recipes will contain basic ingredients and not prepared food from the store.

Fleeces From Sheepberry Farms Win Ribbons

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Spring shearing 1997 at Sheepberry Farms, Halifax, owners John and Lynn Zerphey were very pleased with the health and quality of the wool from their 200+ sheep flock. The assessment was confirmed after showing a dozen fleeces at the York Interstate Fair, recently. The new Targhee ram, the Zerphey's purchased from University of Wisconsin, placed first in fine wool category, a White Border Leicester ram placed first, and a Natural Color (Black) Border Leicester Ram, received a first place and Reserve Champion Natural Color Fleece.

The Champion Natural Color Fleece was captured by a Sheepberry Farms' Border Leicester Ewe. The other eight fleeces received the following prizes: two - second place, three - third place, two fourth place, and one fifth place award.

The Zerpheys have been raising wool sheep for 12 years, and have received many awards from fiber shows and livestock fairs. Over the years many people have inquired about yarns from the beautiful white, grey, and brown wools grown by the Sheepberry Farms' sheep flock. The Zerpheys were intrigued about having 'Dauphin County Grown' yarns for people to purchase for weaving, knitting, and other crafts.

The Zerpheys found a family run wool spinning mill in New York State that would process several hundred pounds of Sheepberry Farms wool into lovely natural color yarns. The sheep fleeces were graded and sorted, as only the best wools were selected for the yarns. Lynn Zerphey is a Level II Wool Classer, certified by the American Sheep Industry, after classing 100,000 pounds of wool. It was that knowledge, Zerphey used to select wool suitable for the yarn.

To compliment their sheep and wool production, the Zerpheys are now licensed to carry the Ashford line of spinning wheels and looms. The Ashford craft products are made in New Zealand.

Rams graze in the background as Lynn Zerphey holds a basket of yarns made from the wool grown at Sheepberry Farms. At her side are two natural color fleeces, which won champion and reserve champion natural color fleece awards at the York Fair.

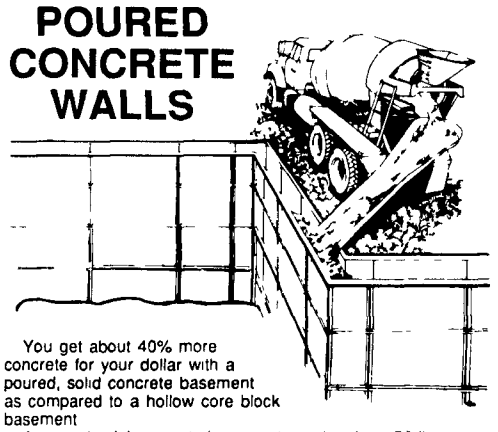
START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What s more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

ANSWER — Susan Rzucidlo, Newark, Del., wanted a recipe for apple brown Betty with a lemon sauce. Thanks to Stephen Leinbach, Chambersburg; Anna Martin, Denver; and others for sending the same recipe.

Apple Brown Betty

3 cups tart apples, diced
1½ cup soft bread crumbs
⅔ cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅓ cup water

Add melted butter to bread crumbs. Combine apples, sugar, salt, and cinnamon. Place a layer of buttered bread crumbs in bottom of greased casserole. Add a layer of diced apples, and another of crumbs. Continue with alternate layers, having crumbs on top. Combine lemon juice and water and pour over mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

Lemon Sauce

½ cup sugar
1½ tablespoon cornstarch
1½ cups boiling water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
Grated rind and juice of 1 lemon

Mix sugar, salt, cornstarch. Add boiling water. Stir until smooth. Cook until clear. Remove from heat. Add rind, juice, and butter. Stir well.

Lemon Sauce

¼ cup butter
¾ cup sugar or 1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon boiling water
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅔ teaspoon lemon extract

Cream butter and sugar. Add remaining ingredients. Beat. Chill before serving on fruit desserts.

ANSWER — A reader wanted a recipe for chocolate zucchini bars made with chocolate chips. Thanks to Anna Joyce Martin, East Earl; David Anders, Alburtis;

Chocolate Zuchinni Brownies

½ cup butter
2 eggs
1¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 tablespoons cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups flour
½ cup buttermilk
2 cups zuchinni, shreded
½ cup chocolate chips
½ -1 cup chopped nuts (optional)

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk. Fold in zucchini, chocolate chips, and nuts. Bake in greased 9x13-inch pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Zucchini Bars

3 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 cups grated zucchini
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup raisins
1 cup nuts
1 cup chocolate chips
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup oil
3 cups flour
1 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained
3 teaspoons cinnamon

Mix together eggs, sugar, vanilla, and oil. Add flour, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and cinnamon. Fold in raisins, nuts, zucchini, chocolate chips, and pineapple. Bake in 15x10-inch pan at 350 degrees about 60 minutes. Frost with cream cheese icing if desired.

FEED CONTROL...
The chain feeding system does not dictate a feeding program. You are In control feeding exactly what is needed, as little or as much as you want when you want.

- Thick manure belts carry waste to the end of the building. Without manure storage in the building, air quality is improved.
- Environmental concerns of today and the future are reduced with this system. Be among the first to be a good neighbor.
- Walkways tie into sides of existing or new building to provide strength.
- Our feed trough fits snugly on the cage. This provides strength, and protects eggs as they move to the egg belt. The straight inner side of the trough also acts as a manure shield.
- Our cage is designed and constructed to control egg roll, significantly reducing crax and chex and providing cleaner eggs.
- Remodel yo existi rise house. ean yo for the last ti e and cages

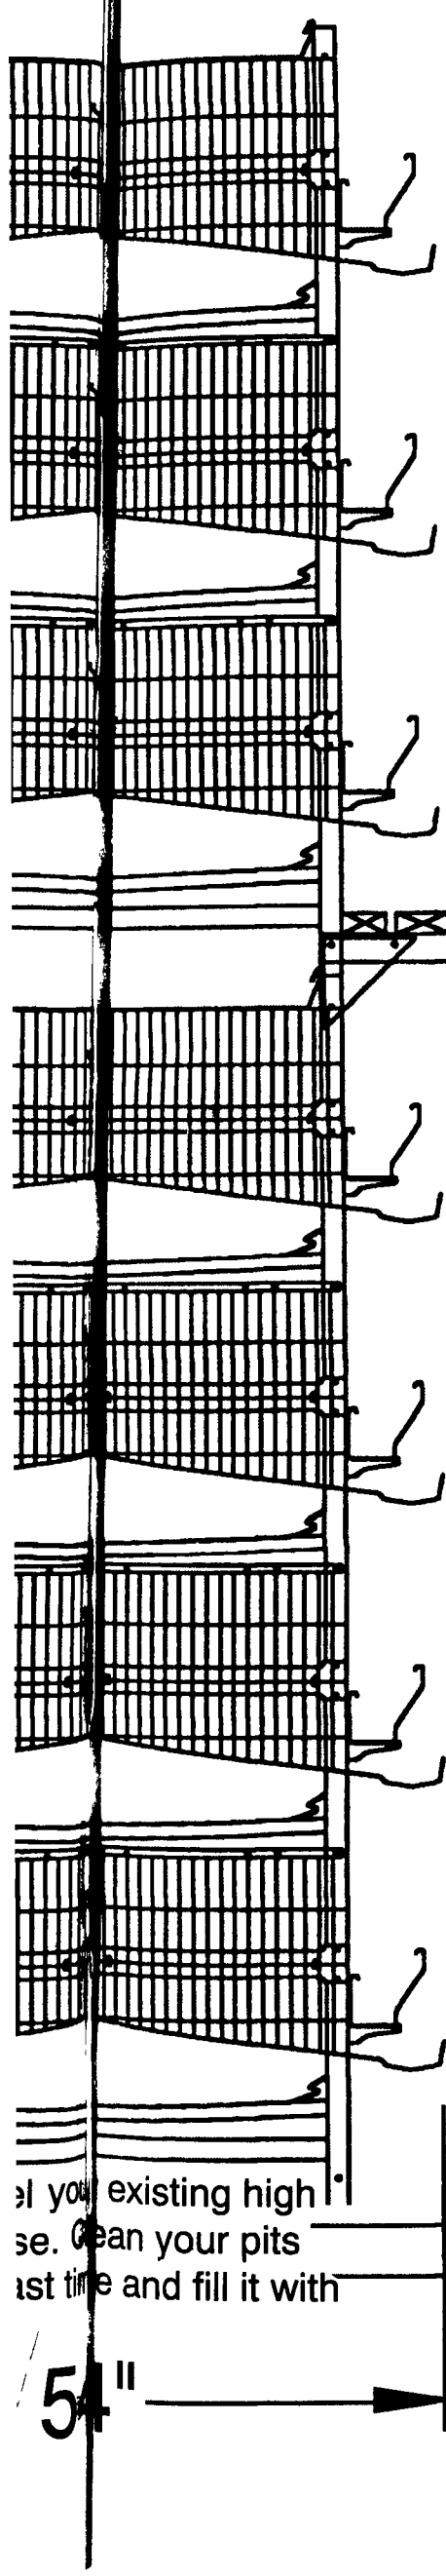
RATION IS HERE NOW!

IAN STAK CAGES



- STAK cages are designed for 3 tiers up to 8 tiers high.
- Sliding horizontal wire rod doors open the full width of the cage.
- STAK cages are available with specially designed air ducts in each cage to provide fresh air to each bird.
- Walkway structure allows access to all cage tiers.
- Reduces building costs and increases bird capacity.
- Our feeder delivers feed to the birds uniformly, amply, and with great reliability. The design of the system helps to keep eggs cleaner, and the superior suspension method makes the entire cage row stronger.
- System available with combination step-rail and cart guide.

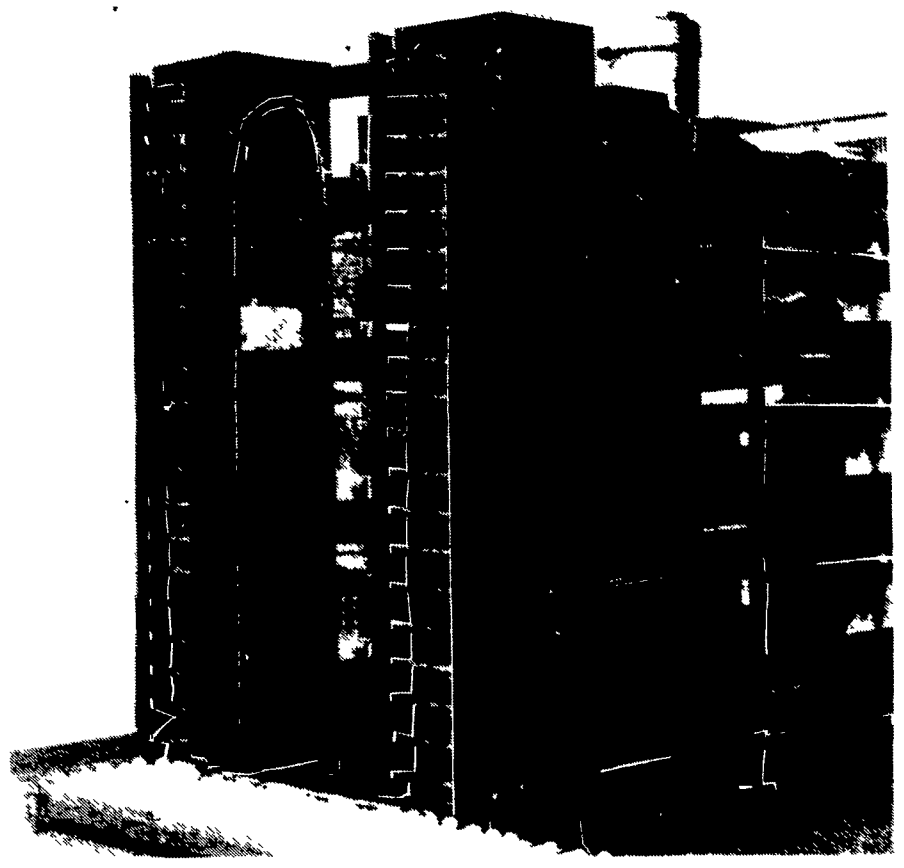
Big Dutchman®

Couple the Big Dutchman cages with a Hershey-designed building and equipment installation and you have an unbeatable combination for service and efficiency. A Hershey system is better ventilated, and has been proven to use less electricity.

Big Dutchman's policy is one of continuous improvement

"PAMPER" EGG COLLECTION ... The Big Dutchman vertical egg collection unit is unsurpassed in pampering eggs.

QUALITY EGG BELT... We offer our standard 3¾ inch woven fabric belts. A shallow "V" shape in the wire egg tray keeps eggs In the center.



DISCHARGE OPTIONS... Eggs can be discharged from the collector below the floor, at floor level, or at a varying height discharge which best suits your house.

PROVEN ROD CONVEYOR... The rod conveyor moves eggs from the collector to the packer with no rolling or colliding. It can move up and down inclines, and is ideal for moving eggs between several houses and the packing room in multi-building farms.

LOWER SOMATIC CELL COUNT, HIGHER ENERGY LEVEL, BETTER APPETITE, MORE MILK AND ALL PREGNANT AT PREGNANCY CHECK

By; Frank Lampley

Some dairymen say they have found the solution. It looks very promising. Cost? If you do it yourself the cost may be zero.

There is a new product on the market called FORMULA M. FORMULA M was developed for cows that were a problem to get pregnant. Every dairymen knows that giving more milk drains the cow of vitamins, minerals and proteins. The better milkers usually being drained the most. Nature has provided a defense against further depleting the cows body of much needed vitamins, minerals and proteins that would result from another pregnancy and another lactation. She simply aborts during the first few weeks of the pregnancy.

One theory is that the process of producing large volumes of milk can so deplete the cows body of certain nutrients that her own enzymes start to digest her body tissue; this being done to make more nutrients available for milk production. Some cells of those partially digested body tissues apparently find their way into the milk, thus increasing the somatic cell count. The same thing can happen whenever infection or disease are present in the body. The infection or disease can cause the breakdown of some of the tissues and it would appear that some of those tissue cells find their way into the milk. When digesting her own body tissues, she may also absorb the fetus.

As I said, this is only a theory. Somatic cell as defined by the Webster's dictionary means "of the body". That would appear to support the above theory; body cells in the milk. We could discuss several other theories, but I would like to turn the discussion to what we know for sure:

1) When cows are fed FORMULA M, many of them have improved appetites.
2) The energy level goes up.
3) Digestion is improved.
4) They give more milk. My best estimate from dairymen's reports is 5 pounds a day more milk per cow (.60 to .70 cents per day per cow).
5) Less illness and less infection due to a healthier animal.
6) When they are bred, they usually catch the first time, and FORMULA M is all NATURAL.

All of the above could give you around a dollar a day per cow. Since the cost of FORMULA M is only 8 cents a day per cow, any additional benefit such as lower somatic cell count would be free.

I have been marketing FORMULA M for the reasons listed above, but now the dairymen who use FORMULA M are telling me that the somatic cell count goes down when using FORMULA M. Sometimes as much as half what it was. FORMULA M could mean survival for a lot of Dairymen.

FORMULA M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed according to the directions on the label (only ½ ounce per cow per day). You can put FORMULA M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain ration or if you prefer you can top dress it. All you need to do to get FORMULA M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to Frank Lampley and give it to the driver when he delivers, A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and the cost is only $92.00 (I pay freight).

FORMULA M is the result of over 21 years of research and probably 30,000 feeding experiments. FORMULA M is exactly the way I represent it to be. One change in label. Feed ½ ounce by weight (a little more by measure) but divide it into two feedings for best results (twice Daily).

FORMULA M is completely free from drugs and made by the same people who make VITAMIX.

Frank Lampley, 199 Springton Rd., Glenmoore, PA. 19343

Secretary Cancels Poultry Exhibits At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced the cancellation of all live poultry and poultry-related product exhibits at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January. This cancellation includes emu, ostrich, and rhea exhibits.

"This is strictly precautionary to prevent the possible transmission of the H7N2 avian influenza virus through exhibits at the show," Hayes said. "I am pleased we have had no new incidences of avian influenza in Pennsylvania since July. However, we must not relax our vigilance. The commercial poultry industry is extremely vital to Pennsylvania's agricultural economy. I am going to do what I can to protect our poultry farmers."

In June, Gov. Tom Ridge signed a bill providing $5 million to poultry producers affected by the outbreak. The money is being used to reimburse owners for one-third the value of destroyed flocks, for the cost of cleaning and sanitizing the poultry houses, and for other preventative and control measures.

Hayes said the history of the virus indicates the greatest influenza risk to poultry may come with cooler weather, and he urged continued attention to strict biosecurity within the industry.

"Immediate discovery is an important key to minimizing the spread of the virus. We ask all producers to continue to participate in biosecurity surveillance by the department and have any unusual respiratory disorders diagnosed by a laboratory," Hayes said.

In July, Hayes canceled poultry exhibits at county and community fairs in nine southeastern counties. This ban is in effect for the remainder of 1997.

The current outbreak of H7N2 began in Lebanon County in December. Since then, 16 flocks were diagnosed with the virus, affecting about 1.75 million laying chickens. Nearly one million of them were destroyed in an effort to halt the spread of the disease.

A quarantine imposed on a 75-square mile area of northwestern Lancaster County in May remains in effect.

Hayes asked producers to continue to keep poultry houses locked, allowing only essential personnel into houses. Workers should wear clean or disposable coveralls, head cover and plastic boots which can be discarded or boots which can be thoroughly washed and disinfected. A disinfectant footbath should be used and changed daily.

Movements of all vehicles should be restricted, and vehicles should be disinfected. All supplies brought to farms should be either new, or clean, washed, and disinfected.

Hayes commended the poultry industry for their diligence in containing the virus, but noted the cooperative efforts must continue.

"We must continue to work together to reduce the threat of a resurgence of the influenza. I am not ready to declare victory just because we have had a string of virus-free weeks. We must stand guard," Hayes said.

Farm Management

JOHN BERRY
Agricultural Marketing Agent
Lehigh Co. Extension
Penn State

THE FUTURE BEGINS NOW

Efficient production is seldom a concern on farms in this region. Our ability to produce an abundance of affordable, varied and safe food stuffs is internationally recognized. However, the government owned stockpiles of feed grains are quickly coming to an end

Dairypersons are getting an introduction to the commodity futures market When urban pressure increases, more opportunities for farm retail markets become available. As the Federal government withdraws from the agricultural marketplace, marketing will become the cornerstone of a successful business

Make A Plan To Profit

"Unfortunately for American agriculture, we've traditionally been poor planners We have tended to live from season-to-season, and planning has often been viewed as a luxury for the big companies that have executives with nothing else to do with their time. Nothing could be further from the truth. Developing a marketing plan can be a simple project that can yield tremendous, long-term benefits," states marketing consultant Dan Block

Marketing means discovering what your customers need and then filling that need. No one can develop a single marketing plan for every farm business Management skills, market opportunities and available resources vary greatly in this large and diverse industry. It is possible to follow a framework to build a practical and workable plan

The major reason for developing a marketing plan is to make the best use of a limited set of resources A marketing plan helps you think through in advance what you want to accomplish, how you intend to accomplish it and when It helps you establish priorities to use as a guide in making decisions, offers a method to evaluate results and decrease risks

How much production should be allocated to various outlets? A good marketing plan will help expose flaws in your thinking at the "dream" stage, rather than in the real world of profit or loss Having a plan also when changes occur It is more efficient to act on a situation than to react to a problem

Write your plan down It is easier to refer to or revise a plan when it is in writing The process of writing out your thoughts helps keep them clear and more developed. Another reason for a written marketing plan is financial Bankers love to see things that are written Having a plan, but the process does force does not guarantee your success you to consider crucial factors that affect your business's profitability and longevity.

It Doesn't Have To Hurt

The first step in developing a marketing plan is to analyze your business and the market What are the available resources, operating facilities and capabilities? Ask your customers about their wants and needs. Is there potential for new customers? What additional services and products should you be offering? Make a list of your competitors. Try to include the strengths and weaknesses of these competitors Talk with others in your organization and identify your marketing edge over the competition Examine what you see as threats and opportunities to your business One grower had 1500 acres of his neighbor's production signed up as processing sweet corn. His processor backed out of their deal Instead of abandoning the project, the sweet corn was utilized by developing a starter ration for baby pigs.

The second step is to set your goals and objectives Some objectives might be having enough time to help with Girl Scouts or Little League, increase overall return on investment by ten percent, decrease storage losses by 20 percent or price 25 percent of production in the top third of the market. Objectives are an idea of where you are going They need to be specific, measurable and attainable The objectives you develop should fit the needs of your business, your resources, be realistic and contain a completion date

The next step involves developing the strategies and activities that will be followed to accomplish the stated objectives How will you get there? This is the part of the plan "where the rubber meets the road."

You cannot be all things to all people There is no question that more money can be made when a product is tailored to a specific market segment

Take a look at how you hire and train employees The more competent your employees are, the more valuable they become in attaining your objectives

Evaluation is the final step Check your performance against your objectives Did you make the mark? If not, try to identify the cause Use the information gained during evaluation to assist with next years marketing plan When this happens, the marketing plan has come full circle and the planning process can begin again

What was the real return on your marketing planning activities? A good marketing plan will look well read after a few months Review your plan often Feel free to make changes Your marketing plan is not set in stone it is a guide Studying past successes and failures of yourself and others can be invaluable

Treading Water Attracts Sharks

Production agriculture is a victim of its own success Supply often exceeds demand Wide swings in the cash market will become more prevalent as traditional reserves are eliminated

The rules have changed and agriculture must compete in a world market Remember, the best way to predict the future is to create it With only two percent of the United States population left on the farm, 98 percent of the population has to have what we have to sell What an opportunity!

Weaver Precast Reaches Milestone

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Last July 10 Weaver Precast marked the installation of their one millionth lineal foot of Superior Walls, an innovative precast concrete foundation system developed in Lancaster County.

Weaver Precast, a division of Charles W. Weaver, Inc. has been manufacturing Superior Walls systems at their Ephrata plant since 1985 and their Shrewsbury facility since 1993. Today Weaver produces, delivers and installs approximately 800 Superior Walls foundations per year in a 150-mile radius of each of their operations. Weaver was the first officially licensed producer of the unique system, which has now grown to more than 15 manufacturing operations throughout the U.S. and abroad.

The one millionth lineal foot of Superior Walls was set in place as the foundation for a custom home project by Doutrich Homes, Inc. of Paradise. Doutrich Homes, which builds 60 - 80 high-end custom homes per year, uses Superior Walls exclusively in their projects.

Earlier in June, the 20,00th Superior Walls foundation was installed in Minnesota by a Superior Walls plant in nearby Hudson, Wis.

Mowers Cut Hay, Time

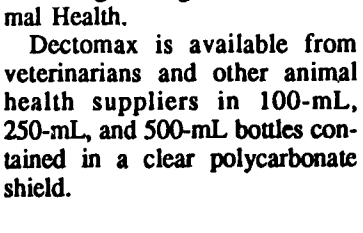
ATLANTA, Ga. — New Idea adds a "top-of-the-line" 5410 Disc Mower to its field lineup of five machines. Cutting widths on the 5400 Series now range from 5.5 to 10.3 feet.

Like the previous four models, 5406, 5407, 5408 and 5409, the 5410 features New Idea's modular disc cutterbar, which has been field-proven in more than 10 years of cutting in all types of terrain and hay conditions.

At the heart of the modular cutterbar is "segmented hex driveshaft," a New Idea innovation which allows disassembly of the cutterbar at any point without removing a full-length driveshaft.

"This design lowers maintenance costs, reduces internal wear and reduces downtime over the life of the machine, especially during the busy haying season," said Randy Hoffman, general marketing manager, White-New Idea.

The 5410 cutterbar comes with eight discs, each with two knives, and operates at speeds up to 3,000 RPM. Standard equipment includes an overrunning clutch and an outer flotation spring. A tractor with a minimum of 50 POT hp is required to operate the 5410.



New Idea adds a "top-of-the-line" 5410 Disc Mower to its field lineup of five machines. Cutting widths on the 5400 Series now range from 5.5 to 10.3 feet.

Other features include a cutterbar breakaway that automatically pivots rearward to protect the mower from damage caused by major obstructions, an optional offset hitch that permits using the full width of the cutterbar without driving on uncut crop, and a tall crop divider that provides extra separation of standing hay.

Control Lasts Through Life Cycle

EXTON (Chester Co.) — For the first time, pork producers can get the accuracy and strength of an injectable parasiticide that lasts throughout the mange mite's life cycle.

Studies show Dectomax® injectable solution, from Pfizer Animal Health, killed mange mites (Sarcoptes scabiei var. suis) for up to 18 days and provided broad-spectrum protection against other economically devastating internal and external parasites.

Dectomax contains a 1 percent injectable solution of doramectin, a novel fermentation-derived, highly active molecule discovered by Pfizer Inc. The product effectively treats and controls mange mites, gastrointestinal roundworms, lungworms, kidney worms, and sucking lice. Dectomax is administered to swine by intramuscular (IM) injection at a dosage of 1 milliliter per 75 pounds of body weight.

The administration of Dectomax resulted in prolonged blood concentrations beyond the mange mite's life cycle of 12-15 days. Intramuscular injection allows medication to enter the bloodstream more quickly and accurately than parasite conotrol products administered as sprays or in feed. Producers can also treat large groups of pigs easily and efficiently with this type of administration.

"Numerous studies conducted throughout the world have shown the potency of Dectomax across a wide spectrum of mature and immature parasites within a broad range of climatic and management conditions," said Steve Clarken, marketing manager, Pfizer Animal Health.

Dectomax is available from veterinarians and other animal health suppliers in 100-mL, 250-mL, and 500-mL bottles contained in a clear polycarbonate shield.

The cutterbar, which is driven from both ends, features 10 small-diameter, modular disc cutting units for a 13-foot cut. Disc units are individually replaceable.

Cutting disc profile and crop lifters on Model 1431 disc units provide a lifting action for smooth crop flow to the conditioner rolls. The 102-inch chevron-design conditioner rolls provide gentle, high-capacity conditioning in light or heavy crops.

The new pivot-tongue New Holland Model 1431 Discbine® mower-conditioner offers right- or left-hand cutting flexibility, providing the maneuverability and performance of a self-propelled unit in a pull-type machine.

Rolls are driven by a 4V Kevlar belt to isolate the roll drive from the main header drive and reduce shock loads on the gear box and telescoping PTO drive line. The PTO drive line is protected by an over-running clutch plus a slip-clutch. Constant-velocity PTO U-joints provide smooth, vibration-free turning.

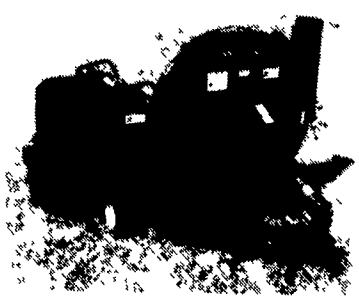
Vertical and lateral header flotation on the new Model 1431 allows close cutting in rough fields. A torsion-bar conditioner roll pressure system provides more uniform conditioning in heavy or light crops and is able to pass slugs without plugging. Roll gap and pressure is adjustable without tools. Open windrow shields and swath-gate allow full-width swath crop-deposit for faster curing or varying-width windrow forming.

Forage Blower Handles High Crop Volume

ST. NAZIANZ, Wis. — As a complement to its extensive forage box product line, Miller Pro has introduced a new forage blower. The new Model 1060 blower handles a high volume of crop with high velocity. It's built for virtually plug-free operation and fills silos fast and efficiently. A heavy weight fan with full-length cupped paddles concentrate each charge at the center of the air stream.

The Miller Pro model 1060 has a large hopper area to match its capacity. It takes all the forage box can deliver without bridging or plugging.

The 12 inch diameter auger feeds forage into the fan at a 30-degree angle and inserts material into the air stream at nearly the same plane as the rotation for greater efficiency.



Miller Pro Model 1060 blower handles a high volume of crop with high velocity.

The hopper extends out to allow for easier approach and wagon positioning. Flexible wind guards on the hopper sides keep cleanup to a minimum. And the auger clutch handle is operable from the front, side and rear of the blower.

The blower outlet is easily removable for quick inspection and maintenance, without loosening the housing band. The 60 inch impeller housing has a heavy eight-paddle fan and rotating back plate that provide nonstop filling and virtually eliminate plugging. Blades are made from 40/50 carbon steel to resist wear and corrosion. An adjustable shear bar prevents hair pinning, carry-over and power loss. All material goes up the pipe. The housing band is reversible.

Corn Borer Scouting Reports Available Online

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Novartis Seeds, Inc. Field Crops has updated its web site to allow farmers throughout the Corn Belt to track the European corn borer's second flight.

Located at www.nk.com, the Corn Borer Scouting discussion group allows producers to compare notes on pest infestation levels, review treatment thresholds, and evaluate control options.

"At our field days and meetings, questions about corn borers often dominate farmer discussions," said David Dombos, Ph.D. and director of product development at Novartis Seeds. "So we launched this corn borer discussion group to provide farmers a central location to share information about the damage this pest is doing this year."

Along with Dombos, Novartis Seeds agronomist Jim Graeber, Ph.D., regularly monitors the discussion group to answer agronomic questions about the insect. Novartis Seeds plans to maintain the Corn Borer Scouting section throughout August, traditionally the peak time for the pest's second generation.

The new discussion group is evidence of the company's commitment to adapting its web site to farmer needs. Novartis Seeds updates its web site whenever there is new and relevant information, but never less then three times each week, when company agronomists post new agronomic information.

Case Introduces New Receiver Technology

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation is launching a new generation of DGPS receiver technology for the agriculture market.

The Case IH "AFS Universal Receiver" provides the accuracy, reliability, flexibility, and upgradability that farmers and other agricultural users have been waiting for.

"Many of our customers have been waiting to adopt site-specific farming until the 'second generation' of technology becomes available," said Jim Stoddart, vice president, Case IH Advanced Farming Systems. "With respect to DGPS technology, the AFS Universal Receiver solves that problem. It represents the ultimate DGPS technology for agriculture."

The AFS Universal Receiver is the result of Case bringing together the world leaders in DGPS technology — Trimble Navigation of Sunnyvale, Calif. and Omnistar, Inc. of Houston, Texas, a member of the Fugro Group.

"Through continuous innovation and attention to reliability, Trimble has proven itself to be the leader in DGPS hardware technology," said George Hale, program manager, AFS Harvesting and Positioning Systems. "Similarly, Omnistar is the worldwide leader in satellite-broadcast differential correction services. In short, the AFS Universal Receiver is a result of the best ideas of the best minds in DGPS technology."

The AFS Universal Receiver incorporates Trimble's new "The Choice"® technology which combines both beacon and satellite-based DGPS capability in one box. That allows users to choose the system which best suits their needs without having to purchase additional hardware. For example, to switch between a Coast Guard broadcast DGPS and satellite-based DGPS, the user simply makes a change on the keypad on the front of the receiver.

The combination of both beacon and satellite-based DGPS means that the AFS Universal Receiver can be used virtually anywhere around the world.

Waymart Volume Buyer

NEWFOUNDLAND (Wayne Co.) — At 1 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 30, here at the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Fairgrounds, local youth successfully offered 97 market animals for sale at the Southern Wayne Junior Livestock Sale. Area businesses, banks, parents, and friends purchased market hogs, steers, and lambs.

The sale's volume buyer in both dollars and number of animals was Waymart Milling Co., Waymart. Auctioneers Wayne Weaver and Dan Naylor volunteered their services to the sale for the benefit of youth, and spoke with familiarity about many of the sellers and their projects. A barbecue was held following the sale for successful buyers. The food was donated by Lake Region IGA Supermarket.

The first animal presented for auction was the 257-pound grand champion market hog, a homebred Yorkshire sired by Barrowmaker, raised by Beth Nebzydoski. Beth is a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club and a student at the University of Scranton. This animal was purchased by Waymart Milling for $3.75/pound.

The reserve grand champion hog, a 250-pound homebred Hampshire sired by Image, was raised by Tom Nebzydoski, a seventh grade member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club. Blooming Grove Sand and Gravel purchased the animal for $1.45/pound.

The 121-pound reserve grand champion lamb was raised by Annie O'Brien. This animal was purchased by Lake Region IGA for $1.40/pound.

Tim Oliver's grand champion market steer was an Angus that was bought by Dr. Henry Nebzydoski, a Pleasant Mount veterinarian, for $1.55/pound. Tim ia a member of the Tri-Gal 4-H Club and is a student at Penn State.

Tom Nebzydoski's reserve grand champion 1996 calf scramble steer was purchased by Waymart Milling Co., for $1.25/pound.

Three animals were returned for resale to benefit Steven Zeiler, a local young man who is recovering from an automobile accident. These animals were returned by Art Noble, John Petroski, and Don Frick. Also, Carroll and Dawn Krautter donated a feeder steer from their beef herd, and Mal's Pig Palace donated two feeder pigs to be sold for Zeiler. Honesdale National Bank donated a hog and lamb for resale to the GDS Fair for improvements to the livestock barns. Roger's Service Station make a monetary donation to the benefit of the auction.

Turf Professionals Attend Training

SOUDERTON (Montgomery Co.) — When we think about a school's athletic programs, teams, uniforms, and booster clubs normally come to mind — not athletic field maintenance.

Properly maintaining athletic fields in the face of severe droughts, and other adverse conditions is a concern for school districts and universities across the country, and this was the main topic at this year's Moyer & Son training day.

Held in the summer at Moyer & Son, Inc.'s facility in Souderton, the purpose of the day was to provide professionals in the lawn care and turf management industries with up-to-date information on effective management of athletic fields, improved cultural practices, and new technologies.

Speakers from Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Moyer & Son, and several green industry suppliers presented sessions on the proper planting of seed, the safe handling of insect and disease control products, and customized core aeration. Education sessions were held in a round-robin format on the grounds at Moyer & Son, Inc.

Dairy Co-ops' Consolidation Plans Progress

INDIANAPOLIS — The consolidation steering committee for Project Vision — the consolidation of four of the nation's largest dairy cooperatives — met Monday in Indianapolis to continue the finalization of consolidation to create a new cooperative with domestic and international focus.

Tentatively named, "Newco," the proposed cooperative's objective is to improve returns to member farmers.

The board of directors of the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) of Arlington, Texas; Mid-America Dairymen Inc. (Mid-Am) of Springfield, Ohio; and Western Dairymen Cooperative Inc. (WDCI) of Thornton, Colo; met earlier this month in Denver, Colo., to hear proposals on governance and organizational structure and to review financial projections for the proposed new organization Newco.

The North Central Region of AMPI has since pulled out of the merger talks, leaving the Southern Region of AMPI involved with the rest that have remained and furthered consolidation discussions this week in Indianapolis.

This week, the consolidation steering committee of the four cooperatives accepted a restructured map which includes six areas. The revised demographics for Project Vision involves 23,200 member farms. The combined cooperatives' sale for 1996 were estimated at $6.9 billion.

The merger talks began in December 1996 and resulted in a memorandum of understanding being signed in May in Indianapolis to form a merged cooperative with marketing control of 25 percent of the nation's milk supply.

The plan was to ensure local dairy farmer input and control by dividing the cooperative into area, each governed by an area council. The areas are to be further divided into districts.

The proposal called for the establishment of a 36-member corporate board. Following a three-year transition, each area council would elect board representatives based on a formula that incorporates member numbers and milk volume in the area.

The financial model for the cooperative includes plans for capitalization and member returns. The new cooperative is to be capitalized under a base capital plan. Current member investment in co-ops would apply to the new organization.

According to Herman Brubaker, chairman of the consolidating steering committe and chairman of the MMI board of directors, committee members are in the process of preparing final consolidation plans for a Sept. 9-10 meeting of the four co-op boards to be held in St. Louis, Mo.

The boards are to reconvene to receive the formal plan of consolidation. The plan would then be considered by each organization's membership or voting delegates.

The target date for consolidation is Jan. 1, 1998.

NEW GENERATION

Buy a new Born-Tough White 6010 or Fieldmaster™ Series tractor by December 31, 1997 and take 24 months of absolutely no-interest financing. It's the kind of no-nonsense offer you'd expect from a new generation that works hard to make things easy for you.

Choose from 6 all-new models - from 70-145 PTO hp - engineered from the ground up to deliver reliable performance and more comfort than ever before. From their sleek, low profile styling to the clean-burning Cummins B-Series engines, they're ready to prove what a new generation can accomplish.

So take a test drive, then take advantage of this special introductory financing rate. But hurry - this offer ends December 31, 1997.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations We save 1½ 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins — Horicon Wisconsin

We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking Before our Knight Reel Auggie feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour "

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms — Navan Ontario Canada

We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 milking We owned a 4-auger mixer before Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers — Newbury Pennsylvania

" We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two-thirds "

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms — Valders Wisconsin

The 3000 Series KNIGHT Reel Auggie® is available in tow, truck, and stationary models.

Mixing capacities from 147-600 cubic feet.

CLAAS - The Dependable One

This year's corn silage harvest is almost over and once again Claas harvesters proved their value. Of the 24 Claas harvesters we've sold, the longest down time any of them had this year was 1/2 day!

That 1/2 day problem happened to a custom operator who ran over a hidden well casing while opening a field. The Claas harvester can chop right through wood - but a well casing will stop it. If you have an obstruction in your field, mark it with a flag.

THE RELIABLE ONE

TOUGHER THAN THE REST

The "Lx565" offers a 40 horsepower diesel engine with an SAE load rating of a powerful 1,500 pounds

The Pick Up 'n Go™ universal attachment system makes it compatible with New Holland and competitive attachments The strong boom design and massive loader pins make it more reliable And the quick engine access makes it easier to service

See what makes the Super Boom so tough

NEW HOLLAND

A BETTER WAY TO MOW

The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner features a new header with a five-bat reel for more uniform crop flow You get a cleaner cup and less scalping in a proven design Add the "1465" can be ordered with a mechanical tongue shift or hydraulic tongue shift. Other great features include

- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- Chevron-design rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- 100% bolted knife assemblies

NEW HOLLAND

TMR "TOTAL MIX" MIXER FEEDER

"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration

Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.

Customer Comments

- FORAGE BOXES I would not own another brand forage box- built & designed for strength - the most smooth unloading box I have ever seen - simple to replace variable speed belt when needed.
- V-TWIN SPREADERS I've had other brand spreaders that would jam up with pen packed manure. No problems with this H&S spreader Excellent unit for topdressing pen packed manure after cuttings of hay Come back next cutting & you never knew you hauled manure on the field. It just rips it to shreds
- BOX-TYPE SPREADERS Full length frame - no pulling off of the box. T-Rod chain - it is the heavy weight of box-type spreader
- BI-FOLD RAKES I never raked so fast in my life - Really gentle on the hay, well built unit - I would not want to do a cutting of hay without it

JUST RECEIVED, * 2 more forage boxes on 12 ton gears
1 - USED DION 16' w/roof on 10 Ton Gear

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS

"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders, LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 575 with a mixing capacity of 625 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

ANTIBIOTICS DAMAGE THE IMMUNE SYSTEM
Vitamix FEEDS THE IMMUNE SYSTEM
You Can Sell The Milk When You Use Vitamix Instead Of Antibiotics

Vitamix is for every contagious disease & every kind of infection. Support the immune system their lives depend on it.

You can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix. Vitamix is a mixture of vitamins, minerals, enzymes, electrolytes, and proteins, especially calculated to feed the immune system. Vitamix is the result of over 20 years research and over 20,000 feeding experiments. Vitamix ingredients are so micro pulverized and easily digestible that some of them melt in the mouth and are absorbed into the bloodstream while the cow is still chewing her feed. Her organs increase the output of antibodies (white cells) within minutes, and can often double the output of antibodies within one hour after consuming Vitamix, and you can get Vitamix without a prescription. Vitamix is all natural. You just put Vitamix in the feed whenever there are symptoms of a contagious disease or infection.

The cow's immune system can cure any and every kind of contagious disease and infection quicker, safer, more consistently than any medical drug in the world when you support the immune system. The immune system is the only real defense. I keep cows and horses for feeding experiments.The last tlmé I used an antibiotic was in 1984 and haven't lost a cow, calf or horse since I quit using antibiotics.

Any time any human or animal gets a contagious disease or any kind of infection, it is for one reason, and one reason only; The immune system failed to do an adequate job of defending against it. In other words, the immune system let you down.

Every time you use antibiotics, sulfa drug or an immune stimulator; you weaken the immune system. See the Physicians Désk Reference (PDR) for more information on the side effects of antibiotics. The information in the PDR was provided by the drug companies that make the drugs as required by law.

Shouldn't we be feeding the immune system instead? Support the immune system. Their lives and health depend on it. Feed Vitamix every time for every contagious disease or infection.

Vitamix is the best procedure in the world for Mastitis. It is quick and easy and you can sell the milk when feeding Vitamix.

How long does it take when you take the "Support the immune system approach?" I have seen calves that were down, had high fever, bloody scours and were dehydrated. One needed help to hold its head up. The only thing I gave them was Vitamix and water. In three hours, I had to run them down and get them cornered to give the Vitamix. Dairymen tell me that Vitamix is faster than anything else they ever used.

When there is a serious case of anything contagious or infectious; I give Vitamix once an hour for three hours, or until they are back on their feed and doing noticeably better. I continue Vitamix six times daily for a few days. Vitamix typically costs only $2 to $3 a day for a cow (less for a calf). The total cost for one cow for one illness is typically $8 to $10 from start to finish.

Vitamix costs less than antibiotics, and you can get it without a prescription. Vitamix is completely drug free!!! You can sell the milk when you use Vitamix!!! (When you use antibiotics, you pour the milk out for 5 days, sometimes more. You risk making a mistake and pouring all your milk out for 5 days or more.)

You save money Every Time you use Vitamix. Get some Vitamix now to keep on hand. Use Vitamix as soon as you see symptoms of anything contagious or infectious. You will know you did the right thing within hours.

Preventing and curing all contagious disease and infections boils down to this. Increasing the capacity to produce white cells (Antibodies). All white cells are made by the bone marrow. Antibiotics cause "bone marrow depression" thereby reducing its ability to make white cells to fight diseases and infection (See Physician's Desk Reference Book [PDR]).

I have done over 20,000 feeding experiments on healing the body, and have yet to find an incurable contagious disease or infection.

Why sit around waiting for a miracle? You can order Vitamix right now. Miracles are great and they do happen now and then; if you wait around one might happen for you. But the immune system is a miracle. You can order Vitamix today and keep it on hand, then you will have it when you need it.

Vitamix ...when you need a miracle. The best source of information about Vitamix is people who have used it. Ask a friend about Vitamix.

Giesy Receives AFIA Scholarship

PRINCETON, N.J. — Jay Giesy of Geneva, N.Y., recently was awarded a $1,000 American Feed Industry Association (AFIA) Scholarship sponsored by Church & Dwight Co., Inc.

Giesy, who earned his master's degree in animal science from the University of Idaho this spring, was one of 28 students in animal agriculture-related fields who received scholarships from the AFIA Scholarship Task Force.

A 1991 graduate of Brandon High School, Giesy received his associate's degree from the Hillsborough Community College in 1993, then went on to earn a bachelor's degree in dairy science from the University of Florida in 1995. This year, Giesy received his master's degree in dairy nutrition from the University of Idaho and is working toward his doctorate.

Scholarship applicants were evaluated on academic achievement, career goals and extracurricular activities. In addition, students had to submit three letters of recommendation that helped describe their character.

According to Kenneth Cummings, director of technical services for Church & Dwight, "We're very pleased Mr. Giesy was selected for this prestigious award. Already, he has demonstrated his dedication to the agricultural industry, specifically in serving the needs of dairy producers."

Throughout most his life, Giesy has been active in 4-H and dairy judging contests. He also has coached dairy judging teams and performed showmanship, fitting, and grooming clinics. At the university level, he served twice as a research technician for extension personnel, assisted teaching for nutrition and management courses, and worked as a part-time DHIA superviser.

In the future, Giesy said he will continue to search for unknown answers to questions that have application to the health and productivity of dairy cows.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A quarter horse, "Call Lou Cinda Steel," was named the Keystone Sovereign Champion in the 1997 Challenge of the Breeds held last week as part of the 41st annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Owned by Crystal Zeller of Bernville, the quarter horse was ridden by Angie Zeller, who was third in last year's contest. The winner received $1,000.

Reserve champion was an Appalossa, "Andrew's Empress," owned and ridden Tammy Styer of Greenlane, who received $500.

The contest, spponsored in part by the Fieldstone Meadows Horse Farm and Glatfelter Insurance Group, featured 14 horses in nine breeds and competing in six events, including pleasure driving, English pleasure, hunter hack, western pleasure, western riding and barrel racing.

In order, other participants and their placings were:

"Lucky Lion Jon," a quarter horse owned by Shaure Piper, Sinking Spring, and ridden by Scott Kauffman and Tracy Baker.

"Country Cadilac," an Arabian owned and ridden by Shirley Craig, Nottingham.

"Jet N Out," a Palomino, owned and ridden by Cheryl S. Abbott, Slippery Rock.

"Meadow Creek Jake," a Percheron owned and ridden by Carolyn Loucks, Reedsville.

"Country Sandman," a half-Arabian, owned by Tina Marie and ridden by Tina Marie Cole and Jessica Moore.

"Napraff," an Arabian owned and ridden by Christi Scott, Atglen.

"IshKaBibble," a half-Arabian owned and ridden by Megan Deveney, Enola.

"Positively Pale," a Paint owned by Tamara and Dawn Erdock and ridden by Tamara Charters.

"Sunny K Jazz," a Polomino owned and ridden by Mary Beth Kuznik, Irwin.

"OHR Contentions Karissa," a Belgian owned and ridden by Lewis and Gail Biddle and family, Boalsburg, and ridden by Jennifer Biddle.

"Bluestone Jill Ellen," a Morgan owned by Linda Reesor and Land Preservation Board Approves Farmland

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. announced that 16 farms representing 2,360 acres were approved for easement purchase through the Agricultural Land Preservation Program.

"This valuable program has protected thousands of acres of quality Pennsylvania farmland for future generations," said Hayes. "Agriculture has been the commonwealth's leading industry for over 300 years. It is imperative that we take these steps to protect our lands so that we may preserve our agricultural heritage and continue to promote farming as a way of life."

- Berks - Martin and Melissa Moyer, Marion Township, 130 acres, $247,760; and Richard, Sharon, Nelson and Mary Troutman, Marion Township, 121 acres, $230,090.
- Bucks - David E. Smith Farm, Buckingham Township, 71 acres, $475,765.
- Chester - J. Milton and Joyce D. Edwards Farm, Upper Oxford Township, 98 acres, $196,660; and Earl and Alverna Mast Farm, Highland Township, 80 acres, $279,838.
- Dauphin - Lynn M. and Helen B. Henninger, Mifflin Township, 225 acres, $287,780.
- Lancaster - Amos M. and Laura B. Hursh Farm, Ephrata and Clay townships, 80 acres, $267,926; and Donald W. and Joan A. Witmer Farm, Manor Township, 79 acres, $150,500.
- Lehigh - Thomas C. and Priscilla W. Carter Farm, Lower Milford Township, 39 acres, $116,169; Junge Farms Inc., Lynn Township, 174 acres, $287,463; Earl Odenheimer Trust Farm, Weisenberg Township, 63 acres, $138,662; and Marie E. Werley and Edna M. and Ray A. Leibensperger Farm, Weisenberg Township, 50 acres, $119,532.

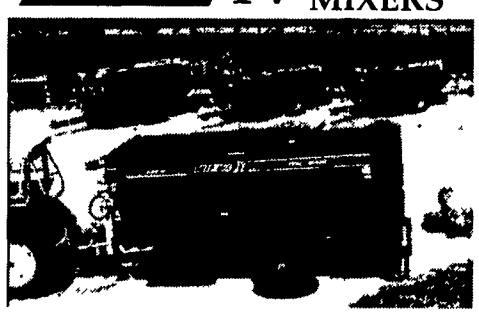
ROTO-MIX IV FEED MIXERS



With ROTO-MIX IV you reduce fines, minimize shrinkage, and eliminate dead spots The gentle tumbling action mixes fragile flaked and high-moisture ingredients without grinding, resulting in a fluffier, more nutritional ration.

The ROTO-MIX end-to-end . side-to-side mixing system provides the most thorough TMR available, ensuring that your cattle will consume a balanced ration of nutrients in every pound of feed they eat

Sollenberger Silos Corp.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed.

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS IN THE 21ST CENTURY?

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency, this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor

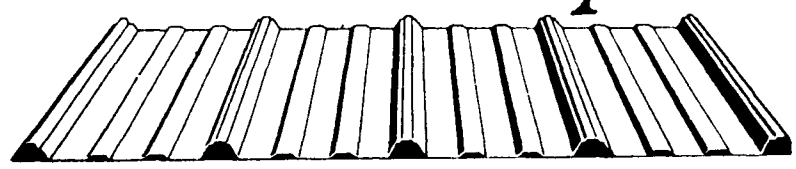
Rural Economy



Cost-efficient Centurydrain® roofing and siding is on some of the best looking buildings in the country.

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT: COMPLETING THE CYCLE WITH CROPPING AND MANURE HANDLING STRATEGIES

Kelli L. Monahan, Nutrient Management Summer Fellow
Dr. Thomas Parsons, Assistant Professor of Swine Production Medicine
Center For Animal Health And Productivity
New Bolton Center
School Of Veterinary Medicine
University of Pennsylvania

Efficient nutrient management requires swine producers to evaluate every aspect of their farm, including animal nutrition, cropping and manure handling. By coordinating these phases of the production system, nutrients can be utilized and recycled more efficiently.

Recently we discussed the theory behind nutrient management and began looking at selected best management practices for increasing nutrient utilization and recycling in the nutrition and animal feeding phase of the nutrient cycle. This third part of the series on nutrient management will focus on cropping strategies and best management practices for manure handling in order to complete the nutrient cycle.

The aim of cropping phase of the cycle, similar to the objective for nutrition and animal feeding, is to meet the nutrient requirements of the plants for optimum yields with as little excess nutrients as possible.

Two strategies can be employed to accomplish this task. You can match the available nutrients in the manure and fertilizer to the desired crop or match the crops to the nutrients available in the manure. For either of these strategies, you need to know the nutrient requirements of the particular crop and the available nutrients in the soil and the manure.

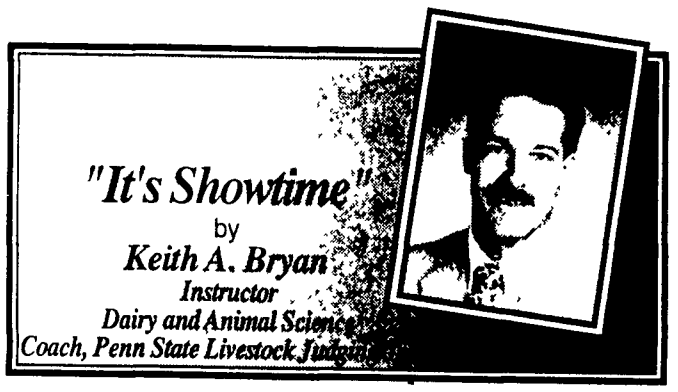
Soil and manure testing are an essential step in accurately determining your available nutrients. Soil tests are valuable tools for indicating which field needs nutrients are present in your manure. Although book values for the nutrients concentrations in swine manure are available, these nutrient values are dependent on genetics, diet, and weather conditions and vary widely among different farms.

Once you know your available nutrients through the manure and soil testing, calibrating your manure spreader will enable you to apply the manure at a rate which meets the crops' needs and avoids over application of nutrients.

Our preliminary research demonstrates that nearly three-fourths of the Pennsylvania swine producers questioned neither test manure or calibrate their spreaders. Overapplication of nutrients does not benefit the crops and can potentially cause surface and ground water contamination and hence nutrient loss to the environment.

To further prevent the loss of nutrients to the environment, conservation methods which minimize soil and nutrient runoff should be included in your cropping practices. The use of grass field borders, grass waterways, contour planting, reduced tillage, conservation tillage, terraces, and filter strips reduce the movement of phosphorus or potassium into surface water. Phosphorus and potassium are tightly bound to the soil and move when the soil is eroded.

Your manure handling strategies are the final step that we are going to discuss in coordinating your operation with the nutrient cycle. Not only does manure have



NATIONAL LIVESTOCK SHOW CODE OF CONDUCT (PART 4 OF 5) — OVERSIGHT

— Kimberly Johnson

Editor's Note: Part four in this series describes the procedures and guidelines for oversight of the proposed National Livestock Show Code of Conduct in local events and responsibilities and composition of the oversight committee. As the steering committee for the Pennsylvania Code of Ethics Program for Animal Exhibitions plans to implement a uniform set of guidelines for events specifically in Pennsylvania, it is important for participants to understand some of the local, regional, and especially national guidelines that will influence the final guidelines for Pennsylvania. The original, unedited initial document will be provided in this series of articles. Responsible comment is invited and welcome.

Adapted from the Introduction for the National Livestock Show Ring Code of Ethics (Conduct) Entry Forms:

May it be known to all participants, parents, instructors, agents, contributors, judges, officials, associations, affiliate organizations and other interested parties, that, by wholehearted agreement and unanimous consent, the Livestock Shows represented by their endorsement of this document do hereby bond together in unconditional support of the attached document entitled: "National Livestock Show Code of Conduct." Participation in this agreement is available to any Livestock Show who has signed this document and meets the following requirements:

The Livestock Show must provide a copy of "National Livestock Code of Conduct" either published with the show criteria or as an official supplement to the information listing rules and regulations listing the competition available for entry. This will be the official notification to exhibitors of the shows' intent to participate in this agreement.

By making entry in this livestock show or event, you are verifying you have read "The National Livestock Show Code of Conduct" and understand the consequences of and penalties involved for illegal, unethical, inhumane, and unfair practices of competition. You also verify that you may be prohibited from future participation in organized fairs and livestock shows in the United States, and could face possible criminal prosecution and/or civil penalties if implicated in any of the aforementioned acts.

value as a plant nutrient resource providing nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and several trace minerals, but it also improves soil quality by increasing microorganisms and improving soil organic matter, soil tilth, and soil structure. These improvements in soil quality reduce erosion, improve drainage, and increase productivity.

Two different strategies can be employed when applying manure. The conventional strategy is to apply the manure at a rate to meet the nitrogen requirement of the crop. Although this approach maximizes the application rate, it is an inefficient use of the phosphorus and potassium in the manure. Rotating the field to other crops such as legumes without further application can take advantage of the excess phosphorus and potassium. The system is practical when your acreage available for manure application is limited.

In the second strategy, the manure nutrient at the highest concentration sets the manure application rate. For example, if phosphorus was the nutrient at the highest concentration, you would calculate your application rate based on the phosphorus concentration. Nitrogen and potassium would then be supplemented with commercial fertilizer. This strategy allows for the lowest application rates, maximum recycling of nutrients, and most responsible stewardship of the land.

When you designed your manure storage facility, we hope your storage capacity allows you to make a conscience decision about what season(s) you will apply your manure. The timing of the application influences the nutrient availability and potential movement. Even though spring application allows for the least opportunity for nitrogen losses, there is less time for the break down of the manure (organic decomposition) before the crop can utilize some of the nitrogen found in the organic portion of the manure. Because the short duration allowed for organic decompostion, the peak nitrogen availability may fall behind the peak nitrogen demand of the crop.

Soil compaction can also be a problem with spring applications. Fall application allows for the maximum time for organic decomposition, but this increased time allows for more potential nitrogen loss. To minimize this nitrogen loss, cover crops should be utilized when applying manure in the fall.

Due to the increased chance for leaching, fall application should be avoided on coarse soils. Winter applications are not recommended. Applying manure to frozen or saturated soil increases the chance of manure runoff and the potential environmental pollution. If manure must be applied on frozen ground, restrict the application to relatively flat land and use land with grass, hay or small grain stubble to prevent as much runoff as possible.

All the knowledge available on manure handling, cropping, and nutrient management can not all be condensed into a newspaper article. There are a number of books written on each of these subjects and new research is always emerging. It is very easy for a swine producer to be overwhelmed by all the new information.

The National Pork Producer's Council has compiled the latest information into the Environmental Assurance Program. It can help you evaluate your operation and indicate areas for improvement. The Environmental Assurance Program goes beyond the feeding, cropping, and manure handling we discussed over the past three weeks and encompasses the issue of odor and neighbor and community relations. If you are interested in participating in this program, please contact Kelli L. Monahan, Nutrient Management Summer Fellow, New Bolton Center, at (610) 444-5800 ext. 2345 to schedule your farm visit.

Registration Forms Available for Public Speaking Contest

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — Zimmerman Motors and Northumberland County Conservation District have announced the start of the second annual public speaking contest, which is open to all students in grades 9 - 12 in the county.

The speech contest is intended to give students an opportunity to research and evaluate issues related to natural resource conservation and management. The topic of the speech can be any environmental or agricultural issue — soil erosion, nutrient management, water quality, wetlands, wildlife habitat, forestry, pest management, air pollution, etc. — and its purpose can be to inform or to convince the audience. Environmental, social, and economic views may be included in the arguments.

First, second and third place finishers will receive $150, $100, and $50, respectively, and the winning contestant will present his/her speech at the conservation district's annual awards banquet, March 12.

Students interested in receiving a registration form may contact the Northumberland County Conservation District office at 717-988-4224, or visit Zimmerman Motors, Market St., Sunbury. They may also stop by the conservation district office on Plum Creek Road, Sunbury.

Oversight Committee

The Oversight Committee will be established for the purpose of reviewing violations to "The National Livestock Show Code of Conduct," or to accompany already existing policies that individual fairs and livestock expositions have in place to recommend appropriate action.

- One elected person from the junior division leaders of 4-H or FFA who serve as the chairman of the committee.
- Two members representing the show superintendents of the livestock departments: cattle (beef, dairy), goats (Angora, Cashmere, Meat Boer), equine (donkeys, mules, horses) llamas and specialty animals, poultry, rabbits, sheep and swine. An alternate will replace one of the two elected if the complaint or violation is from that elected superintendent's department.
- One county 4-H leader, one FFA adviser, and one alternate will be elected to the committee.
- Two adult volunteers representing any of the aforementioned departments well as an alternate will be selected to the committee.
- One member representing 4-H, and one member representing FFA will be selected to serve on the committee.
- The president of the fair or livestock show board will also sit on the committee. This individual will serve as an ex-officio, with non-voting status.
- A quorum for the Oversight Committee will require nine of the ten members to be present and minutes of the Oversight Committee will be recorded.
- Legal counsel for the fair or livestock show will be available for interpretation of any laws or liabilities that may be in question by the Oversight Committee.

Violations of the policies contained within the "National Livestock Show Code of Conduct" will result in the following immediate actions carried out by the Oversight Committee:

1. Exhibitor will be disqualified from the fair or livestock show.
2. Exhibitor will forfeit any awards, premium, or auction proceeds.
3. Exhibitor will be ineligible from further participation in any livestock show in the United States if implicated or found in direct violation.
4. If exhibitor's actions are deemed to be illegal or inhumane, the proper authorities will be notified for further investigation to agencies for possible prosecution and/or civil penalties.
5. The decision of the Oversight Committee will be final!

Buying Income Streams for cash
—CASH ADVANCE PROGRAM—
Production Flexibility Contracts

If waiting for your Production Flexibility Contract payments is limiting your growth or holding you back on your plans, there is now a solution The CASH NOW PURCHASE PROGRAM allows you to sell your future contract payments for cash dollars today The flexible nature of the program allows you to

- Sell all or part of your contract payments depending on the amount of cash you need now Since this is not a loan, no payments are due directly from you and the cash you receive now does not show up on your books as a loan
- Repurchase any remaining future payments due, if your needs change later
- Raise cash, typically within 30-40 days
- Sell payments on both owned and leased land operations
- Limit your primary responsibility to remaining in compliance with the Production Flexibility Contract Program
- Participate in a program that is deliberately designed to allow you full control of your operation This includes provisions for selling your land, dropping out of the program, buying more qualifying land, and more

To obtain more information and a written price offer, you need to proceed as follows

- Contact us. We will send a one page pricing request form. Provide us payment information about your production flexibility contract on the PFC pricing request form. Since we can buy all or part of your contract payments, you need to specify the amount of capital you need now. We will prepare our offer based on your figures.
- Upon acceptance of our offer, we will prepare contract documents for your signature
- Upon receipt of the signed contract documents from you, we will request any additional information needed and submit the necessary document to The Farm Service Agency for their acknowledgement
- Once The Farm Service Agency acknowledgement has been received and other conditions of closing have been met, the agreed upon funds are wired to your account

It's that simple... To inquire further, call Dick Croyle: toll free 1-888-687-8491 office 717-284-3151 - mobile 717-575-5337.

New PMCGA President Wants Vote On Corn Checkoff

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

SHELOCTA (Indiana Co.) — Chris Kimmel is steadfast about his plans.

The new president of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA) intends, within the next two years, to put a referendum before the state corn growers.

That referendum will address the question: will Pennsylvania have a corn checkoff?

Already, the PMCGA knows the direction it must take. At the Crops Conference in Grantville early this year, corn growers returned ballots heavily in favor of the checkoff (out of 40 ballots returned, Kimmel indicated, 32 were in favor and eight against).

"The industry wants to prove it is responsible for itself," Kimmel said in a recent telephone interview with Lancaster Farming. "If we want research and promotional programs, corn growers should be the ones to help fund it."

Kimmel's Creekland Farm is home to a total of 1,500 acres of crops, including about 800 in corn. The passing of a checkoff, calculated at point of sale and based on a similar program in Maryland, would mean a lot to the commercial growers who want to see better promotion of the product, in addition to money for research at land-grant universities. (Those same universities are already experiencing the withdrawal of government money — those dollars have to come from somewhere.)

This is the first time Kimmel has served as president of PMCGA, although he has served as vice president for a few years. He serves on the corn checkoff committee in the state. Kimmel, who replaces long-time president Curt Rakestraw, was elected at this year's Ag Progress Days in Rockspring in August.

Kimmel, who farms land in both Indiana and Armstrong counties in communities about 50 miles northeast of Pittsburgh, raises 600 head of beef finishing cattle. The black crossbred calves are purchased in West Virginia and finished

ANOTHER TOUGH YEAR FOR CORN

Corn never ceases to amaze me. In many fields this year in Pennsylvania, corn endured cold, hot, dry, and even wet conditions along with insect pressure and still came through the season in reasonable condition.

At the low point of the season in late July, I was beginning to wonder if we had a full-scale disaster on our hands, but fortunately drought-ending rains arrived for most in August and the recovery process began in many fields.

Let's review some of the issues that surface this year in corn production so that we can learn from the success and the failures of the season.

Early in the season conditions were good and planting was completed in a timely fashion. By the end of May, 88 percent of our crop was in the ground, compared to 80 percent on average. Temperatures took a plunge in early May and corn emergence slowed, with some fields taking 4-5 weeks to emerge. Fields planted deeper than normal or no-tilled into last year's heavy corn residue took the longest to emerge and this resulted in the most uneven stands. Shallower (1.5-inch) planting, row cleaners, and no-tilling corn stalk fields last could help to reduce emergence problems in the future.

Crop development was delayed by the cool weather and again by the drought stress. Those paying attention to growing degree days noticed that corn silked well past the expected date based on GDDs, basically because it went dormant for a week or so during the drought. The late silking dates of some of the corn resulted in maturity concerns in some areas.

The cool weather also delayed the hatch of rootworm larva in some fields. This resulted in less than ideal control from rootworm insecticides in a few fields, since the hatch was delayed until 6-8 weeks after the insecticides were applied.

The heat and drought stress near silking caused problems with pollination in some fields. Silking was delayed a bit relative to pollen shed and corn rootworm beetle feeding on silks and tassels was heavy in some fields. Both factors contributed to less than desirable kernel set.

The drought also resulted in heavy smut infestations in a few fields. Smut is caused by an airborne fungus that infects young plants or growing tissues of older plants. The disease is favored by warm and dry conditions. No mycotoxins are associated with smut, so its impact on feed quality should be minimal.

The drought also appeared to affect nitrogen (N) nutrition of the corn plants. Many plants appeared off color for a long time and leaf analyses conducted by crop consultants confirmed that in many cases this was a symptom of N deficiency. Some of these cases were associated with high rates of N applied to the field. Apparently poor root development, lack of rain to incorporate sidedressed N, and poor soil N mineralization all contributed to the N-deficient corn. This may contribute to lower protein levels in grain and silage this year.

Common corn smut was a problem in many fields, favored by hot and dry conditions across the state.

When the rains relieved the drought, many fields regained their color and ear development increased nicely. Some recent research has shown that short corn tends to have less lignin and higher stover digestibility. Some of our crop will have a higher grain to stover ration as well. The combination of reduced lignin and high grain content should make for excellent silage quality from some fields this year.

In some areas, crop maturity will be a problem this year. In central and northern part of the state, many fields will likely be killed by frost before maturity. This could have a negative impact on grain quality. In the southern portions of the state the crop is delayed somewhat but generally not to this extent. Even though many fields recovered somewhat, yields will be down significantly in many areas.

The USDA yield estimate for Pennsylvania is 85 bushels per acre compared to 119 bushels per acre last year. Even this yield is respectable given the conditions the crop endured. Yes, corn is an amazing crop sometimes.

Drought stress limited yields in many fields, particularly where weed control was less than ideal.

NCGA Selects New Industry Relations Director

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) announces the appointment of Randy P. Krotz as director of industry relations.

His responsibilities include managing and building relationships with major agribusiness industry partners. Krotz's duties will also include coordinating NCGA's strategic plan and industry participation in the annual Commodity Classic Event.

Krotz was raised on a diversified crop and livestock farm in Kansas. He earned his graduate degree at Kansas State University in plant pathology and entomology. Prior to joining the NCGA, Krotz was in product management for FMC Corporation's North American pesticide group, Philadelphia. His 12 years with FMC includes sales, product marketing, and project management.

Growers Believe Corn Production Might Go Lower

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) members think corn production could go even lower than a USDA report indicates, according to an informal poll taken at a recent meeting.

But, said NCGA President Ryland Utlaut, corn demand is good, and farmers can expect to see it improve. "In the past, when we saw a large crop, it would depress the market, but we now have more new uses and demand for our crop."

USDA lowered its September corn production estimate to 9.267 billion bushels, down from 9.276 billion bushels in August. NCGA member farmers put the crop at 9.108 billion bushels, with average yields of 124 bushels per acre compared to the 125.2 bushels per acre estimated by USDA.

Wisconsin is a case in point. Some areas of the state are very wet. Others are experiencing drought. Frost hit the northern part of the state two days ago, according to a Wisconsin Corn Growers Association staff member.

Half the soils are no-tilled on Creekland Farm. About 600 acres are in no-till and another 600 are in minimum till (chisel plowed). Kimmel plants about 100 acres of wheat and 150 in barley.

Corn is planted the last week of April, "early for this area," said Kimmel, using a six-row planter on 30-inch rows. Soybeans are planted by June 1 on 15-inch rows.

Kimmel soil tests regularly. When planting corn, Kimmel uses a starter fertilizer. He uses a 12-35-13 mixed with potash and diamon (dimonium phosphate). Kimmel doesn't sidedress — all nitrogen is applied at planting.

For herbicide control, Kimmel uses Bicep and comes back in with Permit and Clarity to control nutsedge and velvetleaf, a challenge on the creekland ground.

Harvest begins the first week of October. Last year, some land produced about 140 bushels per acre of corn, for an average of 123 bushels per acre. This year it's "not so hot," Kimmel noted, with the statewide drought. They should average about 70 bushels per acre of corn, Kimmel said.

About 120-125 acres of corn are stored as silage in the five silos on the farm. They're feeding about 10 pounds of grain per head per day.

Chris Kimmel, new president of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA) intends, within the next two years, to put a referendum regarding a proposed checkoff before the state corn growers.

Farms in the area continue to feel the pressure of urbanization, particularly near large cities such as Pittsburgh.

The word must go out that "farming isn't the evil people sometimes make it out to be," said Kimmel, with increasing concerns about herbicides, pesticides, and other matters.

"We have to live in the communities, too," he noted.

To Control Sweet Corn Weeds, What's A Grower To Use?

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Growers don't have a lot of herbicides labeled for use in sweet corn — and what's out there requires careful management to be used properly on the fields, according to a Penn State research station manager.

John Yocum, who manages the Penn State Extension Southeast Research Laboratory in Landisville, reviewed the work on variety and herbicide trials on sweet corn at the station.

Yocum spoke to about 30 growers and agri-industry representatives during the first Southeast Pennsylvania Sweet Corn Twilight Meeting at the Landisville station early in August.

Growers are limited to two product groups, according to Yocum. One is Dual/Lasso, which unfortunately misses the triazine-resistant lambsquarters that pose more of a control challenge for growers. The other product, Tough, if it ever gets labeled for sweet corn, does an excellent job in controlling lambsquarters, according to Yocum.

Tough is sprayed postemergence. While different herbicides can have injurious effects on corn (particularly shrunken-2 varieties), Yocum noted that Tough looks fairly safe to use.

Other products that can be used on corn include 2,4-D, which works well in control of lambsquarters and bindweed, and Bicep.

The station made use of a shielded sprayer in test applications, working well to limit drift and maximize use of material on weeds.

Growers could someday see a Roundup-resistant sweet corn variety. Already, work is being done to develop Roundup-resistant potatoes. One of the reasons, Yocum believes, that it is taken so long is the general horticultural industry's resistance to some of the more wide-ranging breakthroughs in genetic engineering.

While agronomic growers of corn silage or shelled corn simply "run it through a machine," sweet corn growers "worry about flag leaves, depth of kernel, fullness of ear — all those things," said Yocum.

Sweet corn growers are concerned about ramifications of the use of pesticides on crops to be consumed by humans. But some of the more disease-resistant crop varieties being grown, along with the application of IPM and other strategies, are helping to produce a crop that is environmentally safe at a less expensive cost.

Another concern is residues. Tough virtually has no residue, unlike other materials, Yocum noted. But the product is more effective when the weeds are caught at a smaller growth stage, postemergence, said Yocum.

At the meeting, a demonstration on vacuum seeders, for more accurate seeding rate, was provided by a local equipment dealer.

Tim Elkner, Lancaster horticulture agent, also spoke at the August meeting regarding integrated pest management (IPM) strategies. But growers should use a healthy plant to start with, as the first line of defense in controlling disease and insect challenges.

"You should match the type of soil you are using to the crop grown in order to get the maximum growth out of that crop," Elkner said.

An important step is to carefully monitor insect pressure, such as corn earworm, through the use of traps. Scouting for earworms, fall armyworms, Japanese beetles, and other sweet corn pests is essential in a successful IPM program. Growers can find out what kinds of traps are most useful by contacting their local extension agent.

Growers can also make use of disease and insect forecasting methods, including Blightcast from Penn State, to reduce the use of pesticides and save on applications.

At the August meeting, which reviewed the 20 varieties of sweet corn grown at the station, Elkner told those attending to talk to seed industry representatives and other growers.

Senate Finance Committee Votes For Ethanol

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) enthusiastically endorsed this morning's vote by the Senate Finance Committee to extend the federal ethanol program through the year 2007.

The committee's provision, which would continue the partial excise tax exemption for gasoline marketers who blend their product with ethanol, now moves to the senate floor as part of a comprehensive, six-year highway bill that must still be reconciled with the stalled House version.

Speaking from his farm near Grand Pass, Mo., NCGA President Ryland Utlaut said of the vote to extend ethanol: "This puts America one step closer to energy independence, one step closer to clean air, and one step closer to a healthier rural economy."

Utlaut praised the provision's authors, Sen. Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) and Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun (D-Ill.), for their continued support of ethanol despite the fierce opposition from Big Oil's friends in Congress. "These senators recognize that the federal ethanol program is a government program that works. It creates jobs, reduces the budget deficit and trade deficit, helps American farmers, and cleans our polluted air," he said.

Utlaut also praised the thousands of farmers — including many of NCGA's 30,000-plus members nationwide — who have taken the time to contact House and Senate members and explain ethanol's importance to the economy and the environment.

"We have a ways to go before the ethanol extension becomes law," Utlaut said, "so we are going to continue our calls, letters, faxes, e-mails and meetings with members of Congress until we finally get the job done."

At the meeting, a demonstration on vacuum seeders, for more accurate seeding rate, was provided by a local equipment dealer.

Look at these important new advantages of owning a John Deere Combine — then come by and let's discuss the details

- Increased power from a PowerTech™ 8.1 L engine. Pour on 275 horsepower plus a 33-horsepower Power Boost for on-the-go unloading, and a seven percent Power Bulge for surging through tough conditions.
- You get better visibility and productivity in dusty conditions with the new Air Flow feederhouse. Two fans draw in 850 cubic feet of air per minute, and force dust and debris downward at feederhouse sides. (Varible feederhouse only.)
- You'll appreciate the greater feederhouse strength and capacity. Larger-diameter top shaft. Larger bearings. Stronger drive belts.
- Gain quicker separation, increased threshing, and improved grain quality with new Generation II Concave design. (Standard on corn combines.)
- Enjoy precise concave adjustments and improved grain quality with a new digital concave indicator.
- You'll find adjustments within easy reach with the new Quadra-Flo™ Plus cleaning system. Easy-access handles speed and simplify easily repeatable shoe adjustments.
- Slide new, full side-shields on rollers for easy access to the separator. They also help prevent trash from entering the cleaning-fan air inlet.
- You'll see better at night with new rear lights and a brighter grain-tank light. Plus, enjoy the improved air-ride seat and larger in-cab storage compartment.

Board President Explains Checkoff

EDGEWATER, Md. — As part of the 1997 Pennsylvania Crops Conference held early this year in Grantville, commercial corn growers were polled on a proposed statewide corn checkoff program. Of 51 growers voting, 39 cast ballots in favor of a checkoff.

In that environment, it was significant, perhaps, that Lawrence Meeks of Carroll County, Md. was on hand — and on the program — to tell Pennsylvania producers "what's happening with the feed grains checkoff in Maryland."

Meeks is president of the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board, which administers the assessment program on corn and feed grains in the state. The Maryland checkoff rate is one half of one percent of the price of the grain (50 cents on $100) at the first point of sale. The money is limited to use on research, education and market development projects, at both the state and national levels.

The Maryland checkoff includes a refund provision with refund requests varying "pretty much with the weather," Meeks told his Pennsylvania audience. "Five to 10 percent in good years and as high as 18 percent in dry or bad years, like 1991."

Meeks said the Utilization Board annually funds several youth education programs. Their importance, he noted, was evidenced on a recent visit to the state legislature in Annapolis. In 10 offices, only one person had any experience with agriculture, he said, and that was in public relations for a coffee plantation.

"It scares me that so many who are making decisions about what we do, don't have any idea what agriculture is all about," Meeks said.

The Maryland Grain Utilization Board annually receives between 40 and 50 requests for funding. A total of 34 projects were funded for 1997, including $41,000 for a wide variety of education projects. Additionally, market development projects were funded for $330,394, and $118,632 was appropriated for production and genetic research.

Of the total 1997 checkoff grant appropriation of $490,000, $155,000 was set aside for the National Corn Development Foundation, the research and market development arm of the National Corn Growers Association, with directors representing 18 states.

"By pooling dollars," Meeks told the Pennsylvania growers, "we've been able to research ethanol, biodegradable plastics and to fund gene mapping, for example, projects we'd never been able to consider on our own."

Conservation Notes From The President

I am very proud of the material included in this document. Proud, because the new conservation provisions are the result of the hard work of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). Wetlands regulatory relief, filter strips in the Conversation Reserve Program (CRP), and full funding for conservation programs were all promoted by your association.

The NCGA has a reputation for being a stewardship-oriented organization. I believe this reputation is the result of the actions each of us take on our farms to be good stewards. The actions we take are not taken because of regulation or incentive payments, but because they are the right thing to do.

Many of you have heard me talk in the past year about our strategic plan for the corn industry. This strategic plan is our best attempt to manage, shape and grow our industry into the future. Stewardship is goal No. 8 of that plan. This goal reflects the understanding that society expects a certain level of environmental responsibility from you and me as farmers. I believe we must embrace that expectation through stewardship, or risk having it imposed upon us as regulation.

Last year, I was part of a team of farmers who worked with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and state departments of agriculture to develop a model for voluntary whole-farm planning. I would like to think of myself as a pretty good steward of my land. However, I have to admit I learned from the planning process that there are changes I could make to my farm that would not only benefit the environment, but that would make economic sense. The lesson was simple. Conservation pays.

At the Commodity Classic held earlier this year, Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman recognized the NCGA for our efforts to promote the National Conservation Buffer Initiative and buffer strips. These grass strips between fields, lakes and streams are proving to be an effective, voluntary means to improve water quality.

Wallie Hardie
NCGA President

Corn Exhibit At Bicentennial

These are just a few of the examples of the many ways corn can be turned into usable products.

WAYNESBORO (Franklin Co.) — What does corn have to do with car tires and why is it on display in a hardware store?

That's the question customers asked Beck and Benedict Hardware Store owners Dick and Della Baschert in Waynesboro.

In the summer, the Bascherts set up a display of corn uses in the glass exhibit cases in front of their hardware store as part of the 200th year anniversary of Waynesboro.

Corn is an important crop to Franklin County, which plants about 100,000 acres of the crop at a value of $29 million.

For tires, corn oil and other products are used to help remove tires, when they are manufactured, from presses.

In the display, browsers found out there were more than 3,500 products made from corn. Biodegradable products were included, as well as ethanol, a clear air fuel. Those who saw the display had a chance to see how much carbon dioxide is taken out of the air by an acre of corn, as well as how much oxygen is produced.

Dick and Della Baschert welcome everyone to see the display of corn products at Beck and Benedict Hardware Store in Waynesboro.

New El Nino Brews In The Pacific

Mark Antle
Department of Agronomy
Penn State

An El Nino typically makes an appearance every three to seven years.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), we are in the early stages of the largest El Nino event since 1982-1983. The early weather effects of this new El Nino have been cooler and wetter temperatures in some parts of the Midwest in late summer and heavy rainfall in the Southwest this fall.

Scientists are suggesting that this El Nino could disturb weather all around the globe and many governments, including the U.S., Australia, and Brazil are worried about effects on world agriculture.

The El Nino is simply a warming of the ocean surface temperature off the coast of Peru, in the eastern and central Pacific Ocean. This temperature change in the ocean surface can cause a shift in the normal air currents which in turn changes the rainfall patterns around the world.

In places like Australia and Indonesia, there is a tendency to have drier than normal climates during El Nino years. On the other hand, places like Peru often have excessive rainfall, sometimes at damaging levels.

The Corn Belt has a tendency to have better than average growing conditions when El Nino events persist through the spring and summer. In Pennsylvania, El Nino effects appear to be weaker than in the Midwest.

Past crop and weather data tell us that during 7 out of 22 recorded El Nino years, Iowa had corn yields 10 percent above average. Only 3 of the 22 El Nino years showed Iowa corn yields 10 percent below average. Simply put, we can not guarantee increased corn yields from any given El Nino event. However, it appears that generally if an El Nino persists into the spring it often results in above-average growing conditions in the Corn Belt.

In the future, when more weather data has been compiled, forecasters will be able to relate growing conditions to El Nino events with a higher degree of certainty.

Do we know for sure if this El Nino will have the same effect as El Ninos of past? No. A lot depends on the severity and length of this El Nino. If this El Nino turns out to be weaker or shorter than originally thought, its effects will probably not be noticeable.

Sea surface temperatures that influence the El Nino are monitored in the Pacific by a system of 70 moored buoys. To monitor the El Nino effect and related news, visit the website at www.pmel.noaa.gov/toga-toa/home.html.

With today's improved ocean-atmosphere computer models and an overall increased level of understanding of El Nino, climatologists are better able to make accurate and detailed predictions. As corn growers, we need to be able to access and interpret this information rapidly to make the best use of it in making production and marketing decisions.

Citizens Will Pay If Incentive Program Eliminated

EDGEWATER, Md. — Maryland citizens will lose 217 jobs and pay $99.4 million more for gasoline if an ethanol tax incentive program is eliminated in Washington, according to a nationwide study.

The study, conducted by Dr. John Urbanchuk of AUS Consultants in Moorestown, N.J. for the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), also found that cutting the ethanol program would cost Americans across the country an additional $500 million in higher federal gasoline taxes, $3 billion in higher gasoline costs, and $2.9 billion in lost household income each year.

America's ethanol industry has come under attack by special interests, including Big Oil, who want to terminate the federal ethanol program. The ethanol tax incentive program is a 5.4 cent per gallon exemption on the current gasoline excise tax of 18.4 cents per gallon. Legislation to end the program immediately is being considered this week by the House Ways and Means Committee, where Chairman Bill Archer (R-TX) has targeted the incentive as part of the tax legislation coinciding with the recent bipartisan budget agreement.

"Although ethanol is produced primarily in the midwest, it still plays a vital part of Maryland's farm economy. Killing the federal ethanol program will reduce Maryland farm income as much as $30 million and increased gas prices will hit all Maryland's consumers in their wallets," said Melvin Baile Jr., president of the Maryland Grain Producers Association (MGPA).

Wallie Hardie, a North Dakota farmer and NCGA president, said, "Americans did not vote for higher taxes, higher gas prices or dirtier air. Let's hope Congress can do what's right for all Americans, not just what's right for Big Oil."

For more information contact Lynne C. Hoot, executive director of MGPA, (410) 956-5771.

National Yield Contest Names Winners

ST LOUIS, Mo. — Several area corn growers were honored at a recent national yield contest.

Clarence A. Keener Jr. of Manheim, Pa. placed first in the A nonirrigated class with a yield of 237.36 bushels per acre. Keener used a Pioneer 3335 hybrid.

Clifford Stoltzfus of Cochranville, Pa. placed third in the state in the A nonirrigated class with a yield of 232.07 bushels per acre. Hybrid used with Pioneer 3335.

Matthew Maximuck of Doylestown placed second in the state in the no-till irrigated class with a yield of 138.24 bushels per acre using Dekalb DK623.

The local operation was one of 482 state winners named in nine classes in the 1996 contest. About 3,700 growers from throughout the nation's corn-producing areas entered the competition, up from a little more than 3,300 entrants in 1995.

Corn growers Clarence and Anna Keener of Manheim were recognized recently as state winner in the 1996 National Corn Yield Contest, sponsored by the NCGA. Lynn Chrisp, left, a farmer from Nebraska and chairman of the contest advisory committee, presented the award during the Commodity Classic in Tampa, Fla.

The average yield for all contest entrants was 188 bushels per acre — 61 bushels per acre more than the 1996 U.S. average of 127 bushels per acre. The 482 winners produced an average yield of 203 bushels per acre.

"Those kinds of yields show how amazing our crop is," said Wallie Hardie, National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) president.

Conference Set

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co.) — Plans are nearly complete for the 1998 Pennsylvania Corn and Soybean Conference to be held Feb. 13 at the Holiday Inn at Grantville, just north of Harrisburg on I-81.

Mark your calendar and plan to attend.

Leading off this year's program will be Dr. Robert Steele, the new dean of the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences. Keynote speaker this year will be Paul Knight, the Pennsylvania State climatologist who regularly appears on "Weather World." Paul will discuss the weather in the past season and trends in Pennsylvania's climate, including the potential for global warming.

Mark Mattingly, agronomist with Hoffman Seeds, will provide an overview of the last growing season for corn and soybeans. Other spekers will address soybean breeding issues and soybean market development.

Dr. Lou Moore, from Penn State economist, will also be on hand to give his perspective on market conditions for 1998. The conference will also include ag industry exhibitors, 5-Acre Corn Club and Soybean Yield Contest awards, and reports from the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers and the Pennsylvania Soybean Board.

Certified crop adviser credits will be available from the conference in pest management and crop production. Pesticide applicator credits will be available as well.

Now's The Time To Join Corn Growers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — PMCGA has announced continuing support for its Membership Incentive Program (MIP) being conducted in conjunction with a number of cooperating Pennsylvania seed companies.

The MIP with seed corn company sponsorship will entitle any corn grower who plants at least five acres of corn to a free bag of seed corn (standard size) with a three-year membership in PMCGA/NCGA.

This program applies to all three-year memberships, new or renewal. To participate, simply complete the membership form and indicate the brand of seed corn you would like to try. Remember the theme of the program is "Try Something New," so PMCGA hopes you will use this opportunity to experiment a bit and not just get a bag of free seed corn.

You will receive a certificate for a free bag of seed from the company chosen from PMCGA. You will make the ultimate decision about which hybrid he to receive in consultation with the local seed corn dealer for the company you selected. PMCGA will send the names and addresses by brand chosen to the appropriate seed corn company's statewide contact person and they will contact you.

CORN PRODUCTS

Corn starch markets, like paper and degradable plastics, and packing peanuts, which are water soluble and biodegradable, are increasing every year.

The increased production of ethanol helps to utilize more corn. Every 100 million bushels of increased corn usage adds a value of approximately 5 cents to a bushel of corn.

This added usage didn't just happen. Your organizations of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers and the National Corn Growers Association worked for these results.

If you are not a member, you should become one.

Corn producers have a lot to offer to determine their future. You need to be a part of the action.

EARLY SEASON CHLOROPHYLL METER NITROGEN TEST FOR CORN

Doug Beegle and Dwight Lingenfelter
Penn State

The chlorophyll meter is a portable, hand-held device that instantaneously measures the greenness (or chlorophyll content) of a plant in the field.

Nitrogen (N) is closely associated with leaf chlorophyll; thus chlorophyll meter readings of corn leaves reveal the N status of the plants.

The early-season chlorophyll meter test consists of taking meter readings of corn leaves when plants are between the six- and the eight-leaf stages (when plants are about 10 to 20 inches tall), which allows time to sidedress if necessary.

Meter readings taken from plants in a field are compared to readings taken from high N reference plots that have been adequately fertilized with N fertilizer. Additional N is required for optimum corn yield if the average meter reading of the field is less than 95 percent of the high N reference value. An N fertilizer estimate can be calculated using meter readings and field factors.

Advantages of the early-season chlorophyll meter test:

- Chlorophyll meter readings are quick, easy and provide instantaneous values.
- No samples need to be collected, processed, and sent to a laboratory for analysis.
- Cost of sampling involves only labor costs.
- N recommendations are accurate (comparable to the Pre-sidedress Soil Nitrate Test).

Disadvantages of the early-season chlorophyll meter test:

- Initial expense is high (the meter costs about $1,400).
- Early-season corn leaf chlorophyll levels are affected by hybrid selection and environmental stresses; therefore, high N reference plots must be established.
- This test is not applicable to fields that have received a preplant or an at-plant N fertilizer application beyond starter N.

This test provides another option in addition to the already widely used presidedress soil nitrate test for corn (PSNT) for assessing nitrogen status of the corn crop and making economically and environmentally sound N recommendations. Both tests appear to give similar results.

This test has been studied extensively in Dr. Richard Fox's research program here at Penn State and at other research centers. Also, we conducted an extensive three year field evaluation of the test involving county agents, crop consultants, and fertilizer dealers who used the test under actual farm conditions. On that basis, we are now recommending that the early season chlorophyll meter nitrogen test for corn can be used as a nitrogen management tool in Pennsylvania.

A new Agronomy Fact sheet #53 "The Early-Season Chlorophyll Meter Test for Corn" has been published which gives all of the details on this new test.

Solutions In The Seed™

TMF94 94-day RM Bred exclusively for silage, TMF94 features very large ears with soft, highly digestible grain. Two to four more leaves above the ear than most "dual-purpose" grain hybrids contribute to extra tonnage, too. High potential for use as earlage.

TMF113 113-day RM A fuller-season hybrid that produces tremendous yields of highly digestible, nutrient-dense feed. Very tall with extra-wide leaves and moderately low ear placement. Prefers fertile soils and a final stand of 25,000-27,000 plants per acre.

NEW TMF114 114-day RM The first and only hybrid bred exclusively for silage that also carries the NGBt1 gene to protect against first and second brood European corn borer damage. Very large, leafy plants with excellent staygreen. Manage this hybrid as you would TMF113. Prefers fertile soils and a final stand of 25,000-27,000 plants per acre.

NCGA Provides Grower Answers

CORN TALK NEWS
PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

Q: Why should we change the organization, and why must it be done now?

A: Farmer members of the Process and Resources Study Groups took a long, hard look at the current organization and determined that more unified and coordinated planning, implementation and evaluation between states and a single national organization would result in a more efficient use of financial and human resources. A unified and coordinated approach will help us reach the nine goals adopted by the boards of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and National Corn Development Foundation (NCDF) in December 1996. Such an approach also will help us achieve the shared Corn Industry Vision. In short, we need a more efficient, more participatory organization if we are to realize our target of a $40 billion crop value at the farm gate in 2002 and address changing needs of farmers.

A: No. Our proposed new organization is completely different in many ways than any existing farmer-led organization. The Study Groups looked at existing organizations and determined ours had to be unique to meet the needs of corn growers. The whole idea behind it is broad-based, grassroots participation with opportunities for many different farmers from all states to participate. The decisions would be made closer to the farm, and farmers would collaborate on programs and funding decisions throughout the organization.

Q: How will representation be determined?

A: The Corn Congress, the largest of the three interacting groups making up the new national organization, is structured in such a way that all states are fairly represented and have a say in the process. The number of growers from each state isn't capped. Instead, the number is determined by three equally weighted criteria applied to each state: number of corn grower association members in the state; state corn production; and the dollars invested by the state in the new NCGA. Each state's representation is determined by the number of representatives the state actually earns. Every state with a corn grower association or checkoff board would be represented.

Q: How will the process be approved?

A: The recommendations from the Study Groups will be discussed and voted on by the boards of the NCGA and NCDF at their August meetings. The August vote is the major, official vote creating the new NCGA and authorizing it to begin functioning. If the recommendations are accepted, a Transition Team will be appointed to help form one organization from the NCGA and NCDF. The Transition Team would develop procedures and guidelines for putting the Corn Congress, Corn Board and Corn Action Teams into place. Other team actions include revamping the bylaws of the NCGA and integrating the NCDF into the new National Corn Growers Association. The Transition Team would report to the NCGA/NCDF Executive Committee on its progress in November. It would make recommendations to the NCGA and NCDF boards in December. The timeline recommended for establishing the new NCGA calls for the process to be complete by Oct. 1, 1998.

Q: How will appointments be made to Corn Action Teams and Task Forces?

A: Corn Action Teams are open to any farmer who has an interest in areas in which the team is working. These work areas would tie directly to the nine strategic goals of the new NCGA. Nominees do not have to be members of the Corn Congress or the Corn Board. Corn Action Team members can be nominated by their states, by members of the Corn Congress or by the Corn Board. They also can be self-nominated. The officers of the Corn Board appoint Corn Action Team Chairmen and Vice Chairmen with the approval of the Corn Board. Action team members are selected from among the nominees by the Chairman, Vice Chairman and Corn Board officers with approval of the Corn Board.

Q: Who is eligible for the Corn Congress, Corn Board and Corn Action Teams?

A: Representatives from state grower associations or checkoff boards can determine the length of the term. Corn Board members are recommended by a nominating committee for election by the Corn Congress after the nominating committee has requested a list of interested candidates from state organizations. You don't need to be in the Corn Congress to be on the Corn Board. Corn Board members can serve two, consecutive, three-year terms. Corn Board members and officers can be either state grower association members or checkoff board members.

Corn Action Team members can be nominated for a particular team by their states, by the Corn Congress or by the Corn Board. They also can be self-nominated. The officers of the Corn Board and Corn Board members will work with the Chairman and Vice Chairman of each team to select and approve the people nominated for each Corn Action Team.

Q: How does a state involve more growers in the new NCGA than in the present NCGA/NCDF?

A: Currently NCGA/NCDF board members comprise both the board and the committees of the association. In addition, board members often serve as delegates. In the new NCGA, there are separate and distinct functions for growers who participate in the Congress, Board, Action Teams and Task Forces and more ways for farmers to be involved. These functions involve various time committments. The Study Groups suggest that each state plan to use different growers for these positions. States will decide which farmers to recommend for various positions. The Study Group members believe that not utilizing different growers is a disservice to the states that will limit the potential of the new NCGA and its increased farmer access.

A: Because the Study Groups are proposing three criteria for state representation in the Corn Congress, all states have the opportunity to be fairly represented. If only one criteria were used, it would be possible that representation could be unfairly skewed. Every state organization represented in the current NCGA and NCDF will be represented in the new Corn Congress and can be part of the Corn Board or Corn Action Teams as well.

Q: What is the role of the NCGA/NCDF Executive Committee during the transition year?

A: The NCGA/NCDF Executive Committee will be elected in 1997 as usual. With the integration of the NCGA and NCDF into the new National Corn Growers Association in December 1997, the Executive Committee begins to serve as an "interim Corn Board" until the first Corn Board elections are held in August 1998. Throughout 1998, the "interim Corn Board" will serve as an advisor for implementing the new organizational structure. It will fill the management role for policy and budget matters. This procedure allows the new NCGA to progress smoothly through the transition. It also allows the new Corn Board to be elected at the time that it would be elected in each of the following years.

Q: How will the NCGA/NCDF join together?

A: In December 1997, the Transition Team will propose bylaws for the new National Corn Growers Association. At that time, NCDF directors will vote to join the NCGA. NCGA directors will vote to amend the NCGA bylaws. Specific steps and explanation for this action will be reviewed at the NCGA/NCDF board meetings in August.

Q: How do I find out more?

A: Call us. Members of the Process and Resources Study Groups are available to talk with you individually by conference call or to make a presentation to a group. AXIAL-FLOW 20 years ROTARY TECHNOLOGY CASE IH

The CASE IH Axial Flow Combine Might Not Be Perfect, But It Gets Closer Every Year.

Since 1977 CASE IH combine engineers have worked to perfect the design of their AXIAL FLOW machines... They are unmatched for their combination of POWER, PERFORMANCE, RELIABILITY, DEPENDABILITY, and PRODUCTION capabilities.

Twenty years experience with Axial Flow combines running on Eastern Farms taught us:

1) You spend less time in the combine per acre, because you can start earlier in the day and work later...

2) The grain sample is cleaner with less cracked grain, because the Axial Flow system is gentler on your crops.

3) You have little or no downtime because Hoobers stock parts and have experienced Combine service technicians to keep you running.

4) Hoober people know the differing crop conditions encountered in PA, MD, NJ and DE, because they have worked with them from the beginning.

Diagnosing Downed Corn Can Be Frustrating

Dr. Greg Roth
Penn State Agronomy
Associate Professor

Harvesting corn that has fallen down can be a real frustration, especially when you're trying to make time during the busy harvest season.

Like one farmer recently told me, when there are two tractor trailers waiting to be filled at the edge of the field and the weather is uncertain, you don't want to have to be running the combine at one mile an hour because the corn is down. So it's not surprising that standability is an important consideration for many farmers in assessing their hybrids and other management practices.

Early fall is an excellent time to assess lodging problems in corn, for two reasons. One, you can make harvest plans that take into consideration fields that might have down corn problems and, two, you can learn what caused the problem to avoid it in the future.

If you identify fields that have a potential lodging problem early in the fall, they should be harvested as early as possible to avoid more serious problems and increased harvest losses. Down corn is more subject to animal damage and ear molds.

Corn lodges for four basic reasons: root lodging, stalk rots, European corn borer damage, or corn rootworm damage. Each of these could be a factor in fields this fall, but the management to avoid these problems in the future is different so it pays to identify the problems before harvest.

Root lodging occurs when a poor root system develops, the soil gets wet in the fall, and windy conditions uproot the crop. The poor root development can be associated with some hybrids and is also associated with dry conditions in July, as many areas experienced this year.

Generally the root system is not injured but is small. This problem can also be present in wet years when corn root systems are relatively shallow. Most seed companies provide a root rating for their hybrids. If the root lodging is more than an isolated case, consider switching to a hybrid with stronger roots.

Corn rootworm damage appears similar to root lodging in that the plants are sometimes uprooted, but often this is accompanied by the goosenecked plants that lodged earlier in the season. Roots will also shown signs of corn rootworm injury, chewed-off roots, or root tips. Often, you may have to wash the root system to find these symptoms late in the season. Corn rootworm damage has been common this year but usually only in corn following corn. If this problem is common, consider more crop rotations or reevaluate your soil insecticide program.

Stalk rot also can be a common cause of down corn, especially following a stressful late season with cloudy weather, leaf diseases, or nutrient deficiencies. Stalk rot usually causes the stalk to bend and break below the ear and is caused by one or more fungi weakening the tissues in the lower portion of the stalk. Often the pith in the lower stalk will be nearly gone and discolored — either pink or gray. Sometimes the stalk will appear black as well. Stalk rot is often associated with gray leaf spot, so selecting hybrids with good tolerance to gray leaf spot may be necessary.

Stalk rot can also be related to low soil potassium levels or excessive plant populations. Stalk rot can also be managed through hybrid selection, since hybrids also vary in their resistance to various stalk rots.

European corn borer damage is another cause of downed corn. Often plants will break over at or below the ear. There will usually be signs of corn borer waste or frass near the break and splitting a few stalks will usually reveal signs of the corn borer tunneling. All fields will have some corn borers, but when you find more than 1-2 borers per plant, this is often associated with a significant lodging or a yield loss problem. Damage is often most severe on late-planted fields. Management of this pest is best accomplished using Bt hybrids on high-risk fields.

If you encounter some down corn this fall, take some time to evaluate the problem or, at a minimum, take a few plant samples to share with your crop adviser. Careful identification can help to get the problem corrected and avoid blaming the wrong cause.

Corn Refiners Disappointed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Corn Refiners Association is very disappointed with the recent decision by Mexico's Trade Ministry to impose tariffs on corn syrup imported from the United States.

In doing so, the Mexican government turned its back on the North American Free Trade Agreement, which was established to ensure easy import and export access between the United States, Mexico and Canada.

CRA President Charles F. Conner stated, "Unfortunately, Mexico's Commerce Department (SECOFI) has based its investigation into imports of U.S. high fructose corn syrup (HFCS) on false allegations from the Mexican Sugar Chamber."

In a meeting with SECOFI representatives on June 6, the Corn Refiners Association expressed hope that any decision on HFCS would be made according to NAFTA and WTO requirements. This has not been the case.

The Corn Refiners Association will continue to cooperate with Mexico in resolving this investigation. Conner said, "The CRA is confident that SECOFI continues to support the spirit of NAFTA and free trade between Mexico and the United States and we urge them to brush aside the political pressures from those elements in Mexico that fear fair competition from U.S corn."

Corn Lines Resist Pests, Give Better Yields

NEWARK, Del. — Native Americans domesticated corn from a wild grass species about 10,000 years ago. The original corn breeders on this continent, they developed a corn plant that was similar to what we know today.

But it wasn't until the 1930s, when the hybrid breeding method was introduced, that corn yields began to increase dramatically.

Today, University of Delaware (UD) researchers are developing even more productive corn lines with resistance to pests and disease that seemed impossible just a few decades ago.

This spring the college released two new inbred corn lines — DE1 and DE2 — for the seed industry. Dr. Jim Hawk, a professor in the plant and soil sciences department, and Tecle Weldekidan, research associate, developed DE1 and DE2 as potential parents of hybrids and as gene sources for improved commercial inbreds.

"DE1 and DE2 are sister lines which have intermediate levels of resistance to European corn borer, a major insect pest of corn," said Hawk. "They have the potential to produce good yields and appear to have tolerance to heat and drought conditions. The major U.S. corn companies, as well as several smaller companies, have already requested seeds."

DE1 and DE2 are not the first corn lines Hawk's breeding program has released. DE811, an inbred developed in the early 1980s, is recognized worldwide as the standard for resistance to European corn borer. DE811 has been used around the world both as a source of genetice resistance in breeding programs and for basic studies on pest resistance. Hawk and Weldekidan are hopeful that the two inbred lines will also find a niche in the seed industry.

Developing new inbred corn lines like DE1 and DE2 takes years of research. Six to seven generations of the plant must be self-pollinated. After that, the inbred must be evaluated both alone and in hybrid combinations for three to four years for yield, pest resistance and agronomic performance. Hawk began working on DE1 and DE2 in the winter of 1989 with Weldekidan and assistants Janet. Burris and Norma Longhauser.

To accelerate the inbreeding process, Hawk's team grows two generations of corn each year, one in the Delmarva region in summer and another in Florida, Mexico or Hawaii in winter.

"At any given time, we may be inbreeding some 2,500 lines," said Weldekidan. "We also test about 1,000 different hybrids each year. Of these, we select only a fraction for further research."

Developing inbreds is a labor-intensive process. When the plants begin to flower in early July, Hawk's team can be found out in corn fields with a group of 20 high school students, painstakingly hand-pollinating the plants. The first step is to cover the ear shoot with a waterproof bag before the silks appear. Pollen is then collected from the desired male plant and applied to the silks in such a way that there is no chance of contamination by foreign pollen. Hawk's entire group may work up to 10 hours a day, six days a week for an entire month.

"Timing is critical," Hawk said. "The whole process is weather-dependent because corn responds to heat and moisture, and the pollen on the tassel lasts only three to five days."

When two inbred lines are crossed, a hybrid is created. The hybrid may have higher disease and insect resistance, greater yield or a number of other qualities sought by the corn breeder.

For hybrid development, desirable traits may be contributed by either parent. In selecting a male parent, Hawk looks for good pollen production, high yield, resistance to disease and pests, standability and drought tolerance. In the female parent, grain texture and seedling emergence are particularly important.

After choosing the parents, the corn breeder's work becomes even more exacting. Weldekidan has volumes of data attesting to the meticulous record-keeping and attention to detail that are necessary. Each corn hybrid must be handled separately. One 6-acre plot translates into about 6,000 separate packages of seeds.

"Although new breeding methods use molecular biology to alter genes," Hawk said, "traditional breeding is still an essential part of line development. Working with the complete corn genome as opposed to single genes can provide broader resistance to disease, pests and adverse conditions.

"We know we'll never achieve perfection in a single inbred line," he said. "But we can continue to develop new inbreds that will produce better hybrids for the benefit of agriculture."

Farmers Approve Major NCGA, NCDF Organizational Changes

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

SAINT LOUIS, Mo. — In a move impacting corn growers nationwide, board members from the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and the National Corn Development Foundation (NCDF) voted in favor of significant changes that combine both organizations to create a new national corn farmer organization.

The new association is designed to increase farmers' profitability and influence within the corn industry by enhancing farmer involvement and decision-making at the grassroots level.

Growers at the meeting said they believed that the organizations are moving in the right direction by creating a nimble, fast-acting organization.

"Today's vote gets the ball rolling in our transition to new national corn organization," said Wallie Hardie, president of the NCGA.

This move follows recommendations from two special study groups comprised of growers appointed by the NCGA and NCDF boards of directors earlier this year. These groups explored ways to improve the structure and resources needed to enhance corn farmers' future profitability and productivity. The new organization will continue to be called the National Corn Growers Association because the name is nationally recognized, but the structure and work of the new organization will differ significantly from the former NCGA and NCDF.

"This vote affirms growers' willingness to look toward the future and take positive steps to achieve their goals," said Hardie, a corn farmer from Fairmount, N.D. "Accomplishing them requires a fast-acting, flexible organization that can strategically plan and react to the many changes that are transforming agriculture."

Teamwork, representation, and participation increase for corn farmers under this unique new association. In order to prioritize, address and solve issues, the new National Corn Growers Association will involve farmers in three working bodies, the Corn Board, the Corn Congress, and Corn Action Teams. "For the first time, corn farmers can participate in, and direct, the work of these three bodies, whether farmers are involved in their state checkoff board or their state grower association," said NCDF Chairman Everett Nordine, who served as chairman of one study group.

"There's an abundance of talent among corn farmers, and our new organization will be able to tap into this talent base by allowing corn growers to select and lend expertise to issues that they feel are important to them without working through a burdensome organizational process. Participating farmers' valuable time can be targeted and used more productively," said Hardie, who chaired one of the two study groups that proposed the changes. "Farmers will work directly on issues that impact their bottom lines."

The three new organizational bodies will be phased in during the next year and will be up and running by Oct. 1, 1998. The former NCGA and NCDF boards will appoint a transition team to assist with the start up of the new organization. The transition team will report to the NCGA and NCDF Executive Committee in November and the boards of directors in December. The team will clarify and define the processes needed to combine the two organizations. NCGA and NCDF board members will vote in December on recommendations from the transition team.

"The process that we've gone through is a very healthy exercise for both organizations, and exercise leads to increased strength and endurance. All businesses periodically go trough the processes of organizational evaluation," said Hardie. "It's necessary to make sure that you're doing the right things to grow your businesses and the markets that you operate in. The members of the boards of the two organizations took an objective look at the recommendations of the study groups and voted for the future."

Corn Rootworms Cause Havoc

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A Penn State entomologist said this year's growing season is proving to be one of the worst in recent memory for stalk lodging and yield reductions caused by corn rootworm.

"Corn growers in the state have seen drought-stressed corn plants fall over after receiving much-needed moisture from recent rains," said Dennis Calvin professor of entomology in the College of Agricultural Sciences. "These plants had few roots left after the ravenous feeding of corn rootworm larvae. Rains softened the soil and winds blew the plants over because the weakened root systems could not hold them up."

Calvin said the rootworm effect on corn yield depends on the percentage of the field that is "lodged," a term used by entomologists to describe plants that have fallen over due to damage by the corn pest. Another factor affecting yield is the moisture conditions for the remainder of the growing season.

"Corn plants have a remarkable ability to recover from insect injury, but it's really dependent on moisture conditions," Calvin said. "Good moisture conditions will allow many plants to regenerate a root system, but these plants still will sustain a 10 to 20 percent reduction in grain yield if they have been lodged."

Calvin estimates grain yield reductions may reach 50 percent in some fields if moisture conditions remain poor during the growing season. However, if corn plants remain erect and adequate moisture is present, they will sustain very little reduction in yield.

Calvin said favorable weather conditions and other factors allowed corn rootworms to thrive this year. "A mild winter provided an excellent climate for egg survival," he explained. "A warm and dry April was followed by an extended cool period in May that delayed corn emergence and corn rootworm development. This delay in emergence led to corn plants with root systems that were smaller and more vulnerable to injury from rootworm larvae."

Because of cool spring weather, the corn rootworm egg hatch also was delayed. The rootworm larvae usually appear in May, but this year's weather conditions put off the pests' emergence until mid- to late June.

"Soil insecticides are designed to protect the corn's root system against corn rootworm larvae for only six to eight weeks," Calvin said. "An insecticide applied to a corn field that was planted in late April would have degraded to a level too low to protect vulnerable corn roots by the time egg hatch began. Even fields planted in mid-May had lost much of the soil insecticide's ability to protect the root system by late in the insect's egg hatch period.

"To make matters worse, drought conditions developed during the period when corn rootworm larvae were actively feeding, preventing corn plants from regenerating new roots to compensate for those lost," Calvin said. "These factors in combination have led to extremely high numbers of adult beetles feeding on newly emerging silks. In a number of fields, silk feeding becomes so intense that it interferes with corn pollination, causing further yield reductions."

Calvin said farmers can use insecticides in mid- to late August to control adult corn rootworm beetles under certain conditions. "If five or more adults are counted per plant feeding on green silks and the silks are being cut back into the silk channel of the husk, then pesticide control is justified to prevent interference with pollination," Calvin said. "Keep in mind that high numbers of beetles on whorl-stage corn should not be used to make a treatment decision. Adults in these fields will tend to move to fields in green silk when availble. The females are drawn to freshly silking fields because they offer pollen that is needed to develop their eggs. An insecticide applied to whorl-stage corn will kill the majority of corn rootworm beetles, but will not last long enough to protect the plants from silk clipping.

"Once green silks begin to emerge, new beetles will be drawn into the field from surrounding fields," he said. "If the insecticide has broken down, it cannot protect the field over the 10- to 14-day period required for pollination, potentially making a second application necessary. An insecticide application for adult control should be timed to the beginning of silk emergence."

Calvin said farmers should be prepared to harvest early to minimize harvesting problems due to root system degeneration. "Once roots have degraded, plants will pull out of the ground as the corn picker moves through the field, causing problems with plugging," Calvin says. "In severely lodged fields, harvesting will be considerably slower because of the difficulty in finding and staying in the row."

KINZE ROW UNITS

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adjustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seedling.

Each row unit is indpendently adjustable for depth and down pressure. Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice. Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions.

Growers Elect New Leaders

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC

SAINT. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and the National Corn Development Foundation (NCDF) elected a new slate of corn growers from 11 states to lead their organizations through a historic transition process beginning this fall.

When complete, this transition will meld both organizations into one. It will create a new national corn farmer organization to help increase farmers' profitability and influence within the corn industry.

The new NCGA will also enhance corn farmer involvement and decision-making at the grassroots level.

"The vote to merge NCGA and NCDF is the catalyst for greater profitability for the corn industry," said Ryland Utlaut, the incoming NCGA president. Utlaut farms 3,500 acres of corn, soybeans and wheat in Grand Pass, Mo. in partnership with his brother. He has a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics from the University of Missouri at Columbia and has been active for more than 15 years in both his state and national corn grower associations.

Utlaut previously served as NCGA's vice president and worked as part of the special study group committee that recommended joining the NCGA with the National Corn Development Foundation (NCDF) which collects checkoff funds from state corn boards for national corn research, educational programs and demand building efforts.

The new organization will retain the National Corn Growers Association's name, but will differ significantly in organized structure and operations.

The decision to change the NCGA follows recommendations from two special study groups comprised of corn growers. Both groups explored ways to improve the structure and resources needed to increase the value of the U.S. corn crop to $40 billon at the farm gate by 2002.

"This move affirms growers' willingness to look toward the future and take positive steps to achieve their goals," said newly-elected NCGA Chairman Wallile Hardie, a corn, soybeans and sugarbeet farmer from Fairmount, N.D. Hardie most recently held the position of president of the former NCGA and chaired one of two groups of farmers recommending that the NCGA/NCDF merge.

"Accomplishing our goals requires a fast-acting, flexible organization that can plan strategically and react to the many changes transforming agriculture," observed Hardie.

"Our new organization should be a system for leadership without politics," said Utlaut. As the newly elected president, Utlaut will help guide the former NCGA through the transition to the new organization.

"To reach a corn crop with a $40 billion value by 2002, we must create an organization that appeals to more corn farmers while contributing to their bottom lines and providing meaningful ways to take action on issues that impact their businesses, and do it without taking up their valuable time!" Utlaut said.

NCGA

• Vice President Roger Pine, who farms 4,300 acres of corn and soybeans in Lawrence, Kan. A member of one of the farmer study groups recommending that national corn farmer organizations change, Pine also will serve on the Transition Team established to finalize the details needed to create the new National Corn Growers Association. Pine, an active member of his state and national organizations for 12 years, previously served as chairman of the NCGA Government Relations Committee where he helped guide the association through the recent legislative ethanol debate.

• Chairman, Government Relations Committee Jim Czub, a farmer heavily involved in developing new corn markets through the NCGA Market Development Committee, was elected chairman of the Government Relations Committee. Czub farms 1,900 acres of corn and soybeans in Schaghticoke, N.Y. He's farmed for 20 years and has spent the last eight years working actively for his state and national corn grower associations.

• Chairman, Market Development Committee Lynn Jensen, who farms 3,700 acres of corn and soybeans in Lake Preston, S.D. A farmer for 17 years, Jensen has been active in his state and national corn growers associations for more than seven years. Jensen was among the group of farmers who helped develop the proposals for creating the new national corn farmer organization.

• Chairman, Field Services Committee Richard Peterson, who has a farm partnership that includes 1,200 acres of corn and soybeans in Mountain Lake, Minn. Under the leadership of this veteran farmer the NCGA recently reached a new membership record of 29,999 corn farmers.

• Chairman, Research and Commercialization Committee Tim Hume, a Walsh, Colo., farmer, will lead this committee during the transition period. Hume also served on one of the study groups recommending the NCGA/NCDF merger. A six-year member of the former NCGA, this young farmer currently raises 2,500 acres of corn, wheat, sorghum and sunflowers. Hume was also appointed in August to a Transition Team created to work out the details of the merger of NCGA and NCDF.

• Chairman, Public Relations Committee Bob Fox, who also participated in the two groups recommending that the NCGA and NCDF join, will chair the Public Relations Committee of the former NCGA during the transition period. Fox has farmed for 15 years and currently grows 400 acres of corn and soybeans and has a seed dealership business in Franklin, Minn.

• Secretary Vic Riddle will serve as NCGA secretary during the transition period. This Wapella, Ill., farmer has 600 acres of corn and soybeans and has farmed for 27 years. Riddle has been active in state and national corn organization work for more than eight years.

• Treasurer Bill Bradley, an Omaha, Ill., farmer with 1,425 acres of corn and soybeans, will serve a consecutive term as treasurer. Bradley's been farming for 21 years and also has a seed dealership. Bradley has been active in his state and national corn growers associations for more than eight years.

NCDF

• President Gene Fynboh, who farms 1,250 acres of corn and soybeans in Brandon, Minn. Fynboh, a veteran farmer for the past 32 years, has been an active member in his state and national corn growers association for more than 14 years. In addition to his presidential duties, Fynboh will also serve as chairman of the Transition Team.

• Chairman of the Board Lynn Laible, the former president of the NCDF, moves to chairman of the board. Laible has farmed for 31 years and has 750 acres of corn, soybeans, forage crops in Magnolia, Ill. Laible has actively participated in state and national corn growers association work for more than 10 years.

• Vice President Lee Schafer, a 44-year veteran, raises 700 acres of corn and soybeans in Brighton, Iowa. Schafer, who has been active in state and national corn organizations for more than 20 years, was also appointed to the Transition Team that will help create the new national corn farmer organization.

• Secretary Phil Cunningham farms more than 3,000 acres of corn and soybeans as well as runs a beef and swine operation in Prospect, Ohio. Cunningham has farmed for more than 40 years and has been involved in state and national corn organizations for more than 15 years.

• Treasurer Kevin Swanson, a fourth-generation farmer with a 2,500-acre corn, soybeans, and alfalfa operation located in Overton, Neb. An 18-year member of his state and national corn organizations, Swanson participated in the study groups that recommended formation of the new NCGA.

A Transition Team began work in early September to outline the processes and guidelines needed to create the new National Corn Growers Association. The team will also develop and recommend by-laws to govern the new association.

NCGA and NCDF boards of directors appointed the team in August and will vote on by-laws and recommendations from the team at the December board meeting. Upon adopting by-laws, the former organizations will combine and the new National Corn Growers Association will begin its work.

Corn Production Down Locally In 1997

Mark Antle
Department of Agronomy
Penn State

According to the September 15, 1997 report from the National Agricultural Statistics Service, the 1997 corn for grain harvest is forecast to be 9.27 billion bushels, which is almost identical to the 1996 harvest.

The national average corn yield is expected to be 125.2 bushels per acre, which is down 1.9 bushels per acre from the 1996 harvest. Producers are expected to harvest around 74 million acres of corn for grain in 1997, which is up 1.2 percent from 1996.

Unfortunately, the extreme weather conditions during the 1997 growing season will prevent producers in the Northeast from matching the national average yields. Pennsylvania farmers are expected to average 85 bushels per acre, which is down 34 bushels per acre from the 1996 harvest. Maryland producers are expected to average 80 bushels per acre, which is down 59 bushels from 1996 yields.

The drought conditions will also be reflected in lower corn production in the region. Pennsylvania farmers are expected to produce about 95.2 million bushels of corn — about 32 million bushels less than last year. The Maryland crop is pegged at 36 million bushels — significantly down from the 64 million bushels harvested in that state last year.

Biotechnology Holds Key To Corn's Future

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — NCGA believes that corn's future is written in its genetic code.

That's why the association has teamed up with a consortium of private and public sector organizations to launch the National Corn Genome Initiative. The group is seeking $143 million in federal support, over five years, for research to map the corn genome.

Mapping and sequencing the corn genome is the key to U.S. corn growers' future success in the world market, explained NCGA Research Committee Chairman Doug Foss of Illinois.

"To continue to compete globally, we must improve our corn production capabilites. We have to efficiently and economically maximize our yields and combat serious threats from disease, pests, and climate changes, and we have to do this without harming the environment," Foss said.

A corn genome map will identify the particular locations of genes that control important traits such as stress tolerance, pest and disease resistance, yield and nutritional value. These genes can then be incorporated into improved crop varieties to address a diverse range of producer and consumer problems and needs.

The Senate Appropriations Committee had allocated $40 million to the National Science Foundation for a National Plant Genome Initiative that will focus on deciphering the genetics of corn and other economically significant crops. The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee.

NCGA will be working with House and Senate members to ensure that the $40 million in funding is included in the final bill.

Leading the fight for this funding on Capitol Hill are Sens. Kit Bond (R-MO), Carol Moseley-Braun (D-IL), Charles Grassley (R-IA), and Tom Harkin (D-IA), as well as Rep. Jo Ann Emerson (R—MO).

The Clinton Administration also has signaled its recognition of the importance of plant genome research. At the urging of Sen. Bond, it recently established an Interagency Working Group on Plant Genomics. Agencies involved include the National Institutes of Health, National Science Foundation, Department of Energy, Office of Management and Budget and USDA.

Learn more about the importance of the corn genome to the U.S. grain industry in a new video entitled "National Corn Genome Initiative: For A Better America, for A Better World." The 10-minute program was produced by NCGA with the support of the Nebraska Corn Development, Utilization and Marketing Board. To obtain a copy, contact Amy Mercer at (314) 275-9915, ext. 118.

Corn Growers Applaud U.S. Decision To Fight Mexican Fructose Tariffs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) is praising the decision by the U.S. Trade Representative to pursue formal action to resolve a dispute with Mexico regarding anti-dumping duties imposed on high fructose corn syrup (HFCS) imported from the United States.

Trade Representative Charlene Barshefsky announced recently that the U.S. will request immediate consultations with Mexico under the dispute settlement provisions of the World Trade Organization (WTO). If the issue is not resolved via consultation, the U.S. may seek a WTO panel ruling.

Earlier this year, Mexican sugar interests alleged that high fructose corn syrup from the U.S. was being dumped on the Mexican market at prices that were less than the cost of production. In response, on June 24, the Mexican Trade Ministry imposed tariffs of as much as $175.50 per ton on HFCS imported from the United States.

"U.S. exporters cannot possibly compete at these exorbitant tariff levels, so all exports of U.S. fructose to Mexico are effectively stopped," said NCGA President Wallie Hardie, a corn farmer from Fairmount, N.D.

Hardie emphasized that the ability to compete freely in the international marketplace is particularly important to U.S. corn growers following enactment of the 1996 Farm Bill. "Freedom to Farm provisions have eliminated the traditional price supports available to corn farmers. In exchange, we were told that we would be free to produce for a growing international market," he said.

"If left unchallenged, Mexico's decision to impose anti-dumping duties on U.S. fructose exports represents a breach of faith with corn farmers who were assured of their right to pursue markets around the world," Hardie said. "Therefore, we applaud Ambassador Barshefsky's decision to take action to ensure enforcement of the fair trade provisions of the WTO and the North American Free Trade Agreement."

The action enjoys widespread support on Capitol Hill. In July, Congress passed a concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 43) urging the U.S. Trade Representative to take appropriate steps to resolve the issue. Hardie and the Corn Growers expressed gratitude to the elected officials who have championed the issue, including Senators Chuck Grassley (R-IA), Richard Lugar (R-IN), Tom Harkin (D-IA), Tom Daschle (D-SD) and Robert Kerrey (D-NE), and Representatives Glenn Poshard (D-IL), Thomas Ewing (R-IL) and Phil Crane (R-IL).
